Traffic Deaths Soaring

Holiday Toll Running Ahead Of Last Year

Traffic	264
Boating	9
Non-boating drownings	15
Miscellaneous	33
Total	321

Millions of Americans on the last big summer fling clogged the country's highways Sunday and sent the Labor Day holiday traffic death toll spiraling up.

The death count in traffic accidents ran far higher Sunday than in the comparable period of last year's holiday. Then 420 were killed by motor vehicles during the three-day 78-hour holiday.

At one time the rate was more than 25 per cent faster than a year ago. Then it slowed a bit.

The National Safety Council, in a pre-holiday estimate, said 450 persons would die. As the toll climbed an official of the NSC said:

"The pace of the toll has slowed a bit, but it still is running ahead of last year.

"We ask every driver to act as his own traffic officer and to accept personal responsibility for preventing an accident—the one he might cause.

"Safety law enforcement is working at an emergency peak. It's traffic that calls for unusual care and alertness.

"Yet, many potential victims—drivers and their passengers—are relaxed and careless. Accidents and deaths could be held down. But now, it's strictly up to the drivers."

The safety council estimated that 71 million vehicles will be in operation at some time during the holiday period from 6 p.m., Friday, to midnight Monday.

The worst danger was the head-on crash, a split-second killer. Such smashups killed five in Missouri; killed four and injured six in Iowa; killed four Marines in Virginia; killed three men in Ohio, and left two women and a man dead in West Virginia.

Widespread good weather was a big factor in the highway turnout.

New Disarm Talks Slated By Big Four

Soviet Agreement Before Khrush Visit Called Significant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, Russia, Britain and France have agreed to end a two-year deadlock by setting up a 10-nation commission to recommend ways of ending the arms race, official sources said Sunday night.

They said the decision would be announced within a day or two. The Big Four powers have been unable to get together on the question since London talks by a United Nations subcommittee blew up in disagreement in September, 1957.

Significant Development

U. S. officials viewed Russia's agreement to engage in new arms talks particularly significant because it came on the eve of the scheduled visit to this country of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

They said President Eisenhower considers disarmament to be the most important single matter he plans to discuss with Khrushchev.

The new commission was expected to start work soon. The aim will be to make some headway toward solving such touchy problems as ending production of fissionable weapons materials, trimming current atomic stockpiles and conventional military forces and setting up a system to prevent surprise attack.

Overall Formula Needed

Since the London talks broke down in 1957, the United States, Britain and Russia have made some headway at Geneva toward devising a system to police an atomic test ban. They failed, however, to come up with methods of lessening the danger of surprise attack.

The Western allies hope the new commission can produce a wide range of recommendations for tackling the overall disarmament problem rather than isolated sections of it. The London talks broke down after Russia rejected a Western proposal for a package disarmament deal.

Plans To Lunch With Iceland's Top Officials

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—President Eisenhower went to church in the Tam O'Shanter country of poet Robert Burns Sunday, got in a last round of golf on a Scotch course and decided to head for home Monday.

He was reported convinced that his tour of Western Europe has bolstered the Allies for dealing with the Soviet Union.

The President, who has been golfing and resting here since Friday, arranged to take off from the American Air Force base at nearby Prestwick at 10 a.m. GMT—5 a.m. EST. He plans a refueling stop in Iceland, where he will lunch with that island-nation's President Asgeir Asgeirsson and other officials.

Due At 3:45 P. M.

The President's big jet airliner is due in Washington at 3:45 p.m. EST. If the weather is good he will land at National Airport. If it is bad he will put down at Andrews Air Force Base across the Potomac River from the capital.

There had been indications Eisenhower might stay on in Scotland for another day or two. In announcing plans for departure Monday, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said no emergency of any kind had arisen.

"He just decided he wanted to be home Monday afternoon," Hagerty told a news conference.

Sunday morning, in glorious sunny weather, Eisenhower attended Church of Scotland services in a 182-year-old church in Kirkoswald parish, about two miles from Culzean Castle, where he has a 16-room apartment, given to him after the war by the Scottish people.

Pastor Welcomes President

At the services, the pastor, the Rev. Mr. George Iving, welcomed Eisenhower from the pulpit and told him: "I trust you will feel at home here because this is your parish and we pray that your stay here will help you to bear the heavy burdens which are yours as president of the United States."

The pastor's sermon, based on the Book of Samuel, stressed the importance of prayer and the need for it in handling of the world's problems.

On-The-Spot Check By U.N. Is Proposed

Security Council Gets Plan Today; Faces Soviet Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States announced Sunday it will ask the U.N. Security Council to send a fact-finding subcommittee to Laos, where insurgents are threatening the government.

The proposal, to be made formally when the 11-nation Council meets Monday to consider Laos' complaint of Communist aggression, may run into a Soviet veto.

The Laotian government charges Communist North Viet Nam—which is not a U.N. member—is supporting the rebels in Laos with troops, leadership cadres and equipment.

U.S. Statement Read

The U.S. spokesman read out this statement to correspondents here: "The United States hopes that a group of countries, of which it would be one, will join in proposing to the Security Council the formation of a subcommittee of the council to look into the facts on the spot in Laos.

"We hope to have wide sponsorship in the Council on a resolution to this effect. There seems to be a widespread feeling that this would be a good thing to do."

There was no indication how many or which countries might be on the proposed subcommittee, or how it might be chosen. Diplomats also doubted that North Viet Nam could be invited to sit in on the debate, since the subcommittee would only go to Laos.

Other diplomats said the Soviet Union has drafted a resolution to have the Council urge revival of the dormant international control commission for Laos.

Laos Opposes Commission

Laos, backed by the United States and Britain, has opposed reviving the commission on the ground that the three-nation body—Canada, India and Poland—has finished its work and that the Polish members spied on Laos.

If a Soviet veto bars Council action, the General Assembly could be called into emergency session within 24 hours by a vote of any seven council members. There is no veto in the General Assembly.

Ngon Sananikone, the special Laotian envoy who brought his country's request for aid to U.N. headquarters, was asked by newsmen if his government would accept observers instead of the U.N. force Laos requested.

Ngon said Laos will agree to whatever the Council or the Assembly decides.

Laos To Ask SEATO Aid If U.N. Balks

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Laos will turn to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization —SEATO— if its request for U.N. military aid is refused, Defense Secretary Col. Phoumi Nosavan said Sunday.

Laos has asked for a U.N. force to meet Communist-led infiltration and attacks. The government charges the insurgents are backed by Communist regulars from neighboring North Viet Nam.

Asked if Laos is planning an immediate appeal for SEATO help, the defense chief noted that so far Laos has asked only for military aid from the U.N.

What if the U.N. refuses?

"If that happens, SEATO would be our last chance," he replied. Phoumi declined to elaborate.

Foreign Minister Khamphan Panya is heading for Bangkok, the capital of Thailand and headquarters for SEATO. From there he will go on to the U.N. headquarters in New York.

Diplomatic sources reported Khamphan plans to stop in Bangkok for a day to confer with Pote Sarasin, secretary general of SEATO

Morse's Delaying Tactics Bog Down Adjournment Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower returns from Europe Monday to find Congress suddenly bogged down in its adjournment drive — mostly because of the one-man slowdown being staged by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

The congressional aim had been to get out of town by the end of this week, before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrives Sept. 15, but now there is no sign of when the windup will come.

Several major items of legislation have yet to be disposed of, including such highly controversial issues as foreign aid and civil rights. Also to be settled is whether anything is to be done about Eisenhower's vetoes of housing and public works programs.

Despite the fading hopes of going home this week, both the Senate and House will hold rare Labor Day sessions. The House will dispose of a batch of relatively minor bills, paving the way for more important legislation later in the week.

Just how much the Senate can accomplish will depend on the outcome of the parliamentary tug-of-war between Morse and the leadership. Morse succeeded in snarling things up Saturday and it was only toward the end of a session lasting 13 hours and 10 minutes that the Senate was able to pass one bill.

That measure would raise the federal gasoline tax from three to four cents a gallon for the next 21 months to keep the interstate highway construction program from stalling for lack of money.

The Senate will at least start off Monday with Morse apparently blocked off from reading a three-volume history of the labor movement, as he has threatened. But the peppery Oregonian could very well pull something else out of his well-stocked bag of delaying tricks.

The Senate will take up a bill to continue the disposal of farm surpluses abroad. It was agreed last Wednesday to limit debate on this measure to 30 minutes on each amendment and two hours on the bill itself.

This agreement precludes Morse from any lengthy speech, at least as long as the parliamentary situation isn't switched.

Morse says he is stalling the drive toward adjournment to prevent Congress from quitting before Khrushchev arrives.

"We the Congress should be on hand, shoulder to shoulder with the President," Morse declared, saying Congress has responsibility too for foreign affairs.

Morse also said he is protecting his parliamentary rights. He accused Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas of dictatorship in calling the Saturday and Labor Day sessions.

Cabinet Group Calls Inflation Grave Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Cabinet committee headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon warned anew Sunday against inflationary forces. It said it is making researches now on which it will recommend a comprehensive program for price stability and economic growth.

In a report titled "The Record on Prices"—second in a series—the committee said practically all rises in the price level in the past generation have differed from the up-and-down historical record in that they have become permanent and thus cumulative.

So, it added, even small increases are dangerous in a way that they were not before.

"This means," the committee said, "that preventing rises in the price level will require in the future more vigilant and vigorous public policies than have been pursued in the past generation."

The report went on to say, however, that, "Our history gives a sound basis for optimism that vigilant and vigorous public policies can in all probability achieve reasonable stability of the general price level."

In saying public policies for "combatting inflation" must be more energetic in the future than in the past 25 years, the committee seemed to be trying to correct any impression that it is relaxing its concern over inflation dangers.

Some people gained such an impression from the committee's Aug. 17 report which omitted the word "inflation" in a 1,600-word statement and appeared to shift emphasis to promoting economic growth. A committee member said at that time, however, that the Nixon task force was not scrapping the word "inflation," but merely using another term because many people do not know what "inflation" means.

Ex-Rep. May, Bribery Case Figure, Dies

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Andrew Jackson May, a power in Congress until war-bribe charges ruined him, died Sunday in a hospital.

The 84-year-old Democrat entered the hospital four days ago with a kidney infection and complications.

May, a backwoods lawyer who first went to Congress in 1930 and became chairman of the potent House Military Affairs Committee, was convicted at Washington in 1947 with munitions makers Murray and Henry Garsson of conspiring to defraud the government.

He was accused of accepting $53,000 in bribes from the Garssons. It was charged by the government he used his influence to obtain contracts and other favors for the brothers in World War II.

May and the Garssons were sentenced to from eight months to two years in federal prison. May's attorney twice carried his case to the U.S. Supreme Court but was unsuccessful and May in 1949 went to the federal correctional institution near Ashland, Ky. He was paroled after nine months and 13 days.

In refusing to reduce May's sentence, U.S. Dist. Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut said sternly: "The integrity of the national Congress is at stake."

The Garsson brothers were confined at Danbury, Conn. They were released in 1951. Murray died March 26, 1957, penniless and homeless. Henry lives in New York and is a consulting engineer.

Witnesses at their sensational trial included some of the top brass of World War II. Both President Eisenhower, then a general, and then Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson testified that May asked favors of them for the Garssons and their friends.

May maintained his innocence to the end, and his popularity in this eastern Kentucky mountain area never waned, although he was defeated for re-election in 1946.

Miss America Pageant Opens

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—The 32nd Miss America Pageant opens Monday with entrants at odds over the role of bathing suits in the beauty contest.

Some of the 54 shapely girls said they thought it was a good idea to parade their pulchritude before the public and the judges.

Some did not like the idea at all. Others were neutral.

A few admitted their feelings reflected how they looked in bathing suits. But they all agreed that bathing beauty would be the least important phase of the contest to select a Miss America of 1960, who will stump the nation making speeches, modeling clothes and appearing at conventions for a total of close to $100,000.

The question of swim suits came up as a result of a recent decision to suspend the annual Miss Universe bathing beauty contest at Long Beach, Calif. Mrs. America traded her swim suit for a house dress several years ago.

Episcopal Bishop Raps White House

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Episcopal bishop of California Sunday criticized the White House for ignoring his invitation to Nikita Khrushchev to attend nonsectarian church services here Sunday, Sept. 20.

That "suggests that the place of religion in American life is not as important as that of the other aspects of American life" included in the Soviet Premier's tour, the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike told a Grace Cathedral audience.

"This omission would present our country to him on the same materialistic basis that we criticize in the Soviet ideology," he said.

Ken Maynard Held In Slaying

PINEVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Ken Maynard, 23, of nearby Cyclone, was held in the Wyoming County jail Sunday without bond on a charge of murder.

Sheriff Bert Short said Maynard was charged with the shooting of Blane Cook, 32, also of Cyclone following an argument between the two men near the Maynard home Saturday night.

Actress Kay Kendall, 32, Dies At Height Of Career

LONDON (AP)—Kay Kendall, enchanting and sophisticated beauty of film and stage, died Sunday at the height of her career.

The 32-year-old wife of Rex Harrison, droll star of the musical smash hit "My Fair Lady," succumbed to leukemia—cancer of the blood. Harrison was at her side in the London Clinic when she died.

Miss Kendall, gay English girl who was born in a family of theatrical tradition going back four generations, had entered the hospital eight days ago. She then appeared wan and wasted, having been in poor health for 20 months.

The long-stemmed, slender English beauty had captivated all who knew her, both personally and in her stage and screen performances. She had few rivals in gay, high comedy roles.

She scored her first major triumph several years ago as the trumpet-playing beauty in the comedy film "Genevieve," one of Britain's most successful postwar film hits.

"Sparkling," "subtle," "enchanting," "bewitching," and "delicious," the critics had said of her performance in this and other films. The same adjectives were used by her friends to describe Miss Kendall as a person. One of her biggest hits was in the film "Les Girls," with Gene Kelly. This picture was accorded the honor of a royal command performance in 1957.

She began her career in the chorus at the London Palladium at the age of 12. She had started ballet training at the same time.

Communication Via Satellites Forecast

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Wernher von Braun, the United States' German-born rocket expert, said Sunday an earth satellite communication relay system would soon make transatlantic cables and shortwave transmissions redundant.

He said the United States is working on a project which provides for the stationing of three satellites about 23,000 miles distant from the globe, at the equator. The three satellites would make it possible to connect any point on earth with another by means of bundled "centimeter waves," Von Braun said. The satellites would be ferried to their final destination by the Saturn rocket, now in the testing stage.

Union Leaders Say Big Business Has Labor In Legal, Economic Doghouse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union leaders said Sunday that big business has forced labor into a legal and economic doghouse. They vowed to get out.

Organized labor's top chiefs devoted a series of Labor Day statements to complaints about the new labor control bill that has just cleared Congress, and employers' resistance to wage increases, particularly in the steel strike.

The AFL-CIO officially dedicated labor's holiday Monday as "Support the Steelworkers Day"—a move to aid the half million steel strikers in their eight-week-old walkout.

There was a bitter overtone in all the union leaders' comments—accompanied by pledges to step up political and bargaining activities to win new success for workers.

President Eisenhower on the other hand saw this Labor Day as an occasion for rejoicing at worker gains already at hand and in prospect. In this, he was joined by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

"American labor has advanced continuously to new heights of accomplishment," Eisenhower's statement said. "The rise in our level of living—the social and economic progress of American working men and women—gives promise of continuing achievement."

Mitchell said that besides enjoying democratic rights, the American worker is "rewarded for his labor by a return sufficient for him to share in the benefits of progress." He said the nation enjoys the highest living standard in history.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, in a statement echoed by a number of other top union chiefs, said, "Big business leaders are doing everything in their power o weaken and destroy our trade union movement."

"We have determined that we will have to organize for political education and political action in the same thorough and painstaking way that we organized in the past for economic purposes," Meany said.

"This program will take time and patience and hard work and money. But it is our only hope for the resumption of progress."

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, criticized the Eisenhower administration for what he called "a deficit in leadership" and for being, as Reuther put it, "wholly obsessed with balancing the budget rather than balancing the economy."

Vocalist's $14,900 Necklace Missing

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A former vocalist with Tommy Dorsey's orchestra complained to police Sunday that her Tiffany 43-diamond necklace, valued at $14,900, was missing.

Mrs. Janice Edwards, who sang under the name of Janice Maxwell, said she first noticed the loss after leaving Tantilla Gardens ballroom shortly before midnight Friday.

Club Manager William F. Via said a search failed to turn up any trace of the necklace.

Crashes Kill Three In Md.

By The Associated Press

A car which State Police said apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed left a Washington County highway Saturday night and killed the driver, increasing Maryland's Labor Day violent death toll to three.

The latest victim of a rash of holiday accidents was 63-year-old Samuel L. Shank of R F D 3, Waynesboro, Pa.

He was dead on arrival at a Hagerstown hospital with a fractured skull.

State Trooper E. L. Baum said the car failed to negotiate a curve on Marsh Pike road about 22 miles north of Hagerstown, hit a road sign and the guide wire of a pole. The car then skidded sideways into a field. Skidmarks were visible for 393 feet, Baum reported.

The first fatalities occurred early Saturday when a car rammed into an embankment near Chestertown. The victims were Earl Robert Syter, 35, and his wife, Dorothy, 30, of Lynch, Kent County.

Man Without A Country Sweats It Out In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Nicholas Petrulli, 38, a man without a country and broke, sweated it out Sunday in the luxury of a Moscow tourist hotel.

Living on borrowed rubles, he is waiting for word on whether the Soviet Parliament will grant him Soviet citizenship. The World War II veteran from Valley Stream, N. Y., turned in his U. S. passport and renounced his American citizenship Thursday.

A week ago, Petrulli had written the Supreme Soviet—parliament—asking for citizenship. He gave his letter to the Intourist bureau at the Ukrania Hotel and Intourist said it would be forwarded.

Petrulli, who was mustered out of service after what he described as a nervous breakdown, said he wants to stay in the Soviet Union because he likes it here.

"Nobody is in a hurry, nobody gets nervous breakdowns like in the United States," he said.

He first came to the Soviet Union on a $965 tour. He had borrowed $50 from his brother, Dominick, with whom he lived in Valley Stream for extra expenses.

Now the money is gone. Petrulli, sipping a glass of tea at breakfast in the Ukrainia's ornate dining room, said he doesn't know what is coming next.

He blamed the U. S. Embassy here for his present status. He said he first wrote to the Soviet parliament thinking that if he was granted citizenship here his U. S. citizenship would automatically be annulled.

But Petrulli then went to the embassy, he said, and was advised he had to renounce his U.S. citizenship first. He turned in his passport after filling out five renunciation forms.

Petrulli said he had not talked with any Soviet officials about his citizenship other than the Intourist people. Asked what he would do if Soviet citizenship is not granted, Petrulli shrugged his shoulders.

His Soviet visa expired Aug. 18 and he now has no passport of any kind.

George Washington was carried on the rolls of the United States Army as a lieutenant general.

Passion Play Cast Will Be Chosen Today

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany (AP)—Twenty-four bearded men of this picturesque Alpine village assemble Monday to select the cast for the 1960 version of the world-famed Passion play.

In the arch-roofed amphitheater where the three-centuries-old spectacle is staged, they will select by secret vote the 125 principal players.

About 1,000 of Oberammergau's 4,700 villagers will take part in the performance, depicting life in the time of Christ. The classic is staged every 10 years. The 1960 version will run from May 19 until Sept. 25.

The casting committee votes only on candidates for the roles of Christ, Mary and the other speaking roles. The rest of the cast are volunteers. The players are chosen exclusively from this Roman Catholic village 45 miles southwest of Munich.

For nine years of every decade, villagers earn their living by carving wood figurines, farming or catering to tourists who visit Oberammergau. On the tenth year the hamlet becomes a center of world attention as the home of the Passion play.

The play is staged in a huge amphitheater looking out on an open stage against a backdrop of the Bavarian Alps.

It dates from 1633 when the community was hit by plague which killed 84 persons. The villagers in their distress vowed to play Christ's Passion every 10 years if the plague stopped. According to legend, it stopped.

Rhino Loses To 'Dozer

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—A two-ton rhino matched its weight against a 30-ton bulldozer at Kariba. The rhino lost. James Weldon, pilot for a civil engineering firm, said the rhino charged head-on and lifted the bulldozer four feet in the air. But the impact sent the beast reeling and it died almost instantly.

BROKEN PADDLE—Tawny, two-month-old duck, won't be doing any swimming for a while. His affection for his mistress, Lynn Jones, 12, of Memphis, Tenn., shown here looking at Tawny's splintered leg, proved to be bad luck. He waddled along with her to a backyard swing. The swing collapsed throwing her clear, but part of the falling swing cracked Tawny's right drumstick. Fast work by a veterinarian saved the day—and the duck. Lynn says Tawny makes an unusual tapping sound as he walks around the house these days. (AP Photofax)

'Backyard Bikini Bounce' Accomplishes Mission

MALDEN, Mass. (UPI)—Dancing Dotty, the red hot mama of Malden, Sunday ended her backyard pyrotechnics and pronounced a happy "mission accomplished" on her efforts to find a career in show business.

The blonde, 33-year-old mother of three thrilled a crowd of 1,200 Saturday night in a repeat performance of her now-famed "backyard bikini bounce" before six local policeman, harrassed by the five-block-long traffic jam, broke up the show.

Dotty, known around home as Mrs. Michael Ferragamo, and her mother, Mrs. Mary L. de Marco, 55, of nearby Revere, pranced around the backyard for three hours to the gaudy rhythms of rock 'n roll records on mom's hi-fi.

The younger dancer was tastefully attired in a halo of flowers and two bracelets, one around her wrist and one circling an ankle plus her pinkish-lavender turkish toweling bikini. The bracelets gleamed in the spotlights as she shook, shimmied, twirled and leaped. Mom, on the other hand, was dressed in a net blouse and toreador pants among other costumes. Though seeking to focus attention on her talented daughter, she changed costumes and records frequently as the evening progressed.

But Sunday, Dotty, whose previous efforts in the backyard had drawn the ire of some of her neighbors, said her free performances were over for the time being.

"She's tired," her husband said. "And besides, she's got several good offers; one from a large outdoor restaurant and a couple from New York."

Morton Sees Public Support Of Ike's Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R-Ky) said Sunday Republican surveys indicate general grass roots approval of President Eisenhower's series of vetoes.

Morton, the GOP national chairman, said in an interview the President's firm stand against what he calls costly programs sponsored by congressional Democrats has been reflected in greater party unity down the line to the precincts.

"I think the effect of the President's actions is going to be a positive one, that his stand is supported by the country and that it is going to have an impact on next year's elections," Morton said.

If there is such an impact, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said he thinks it will be a bad one—from the standpoint of the Republicans.

"The President is paying no more attention to the majority viewpoint of Congress than Premier Khrushchev pays to the views of the Russian legislative body," Humphrey told a reporter. "I don't think the country is going to like this government-by-veto."

But Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said Eisenhower's "effectiveness and leadership" are bringing "divided government closer together in achieving legislative goals set by the President earlier this year."

Democrats are banking, however, on the belief that while Eisenhower's vetoes may have popular appeal now they will be less palatable to the voters when the effect of reductions in housing, public works and other programs is felt next year.

U. Of Md. Coed Crowned Queen Of State Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — An auburn-haired University of Maryland coed officially became queen of the Maryland State Fair at Timonium Sunday as nearly 37,000 holiday weekend spectators looked on.

Rep. Daniel Brewster, fair president, placed the crown on the head of 18-year-old Allie Lee Boice of Hall, Prince Georges County, and then escorted her and her four attendants to a special stand to review a fair parade.

The queen wore a borrowed white dress, the customary garb of the fair ruler. She did have a pastel shade gown, which one of her attendants lacked. The attendant swapped her white dress for Miss Boice's.

The attendants were Lois Richardson of Queen Annes County, Peggy Heflin of Frederick County, Pat Agee of Carroll County, and Ruth Anne Smith of Harford County.

Ideal fair weather drew a near capacity crowd to the grounds north of Baltimore. The day's activities started with church services in charge of the Rev. John A. Baden, former rector of St. James Church in Monkton who has officiated in that capacity for the past eight years.

The coronation and parade of 4-H Club youngsters with 48 colorfully decorated floats followed.

The 4-H float judged the best was one entered by "The Harford Honeys" from Harford County. Its theme was "Plant a 4-H Club and grow a better community." Other blue ribbon winners were the Davidsonville 4-H Club from Anne Arundel County, the Long Green Girls Club from Baltimore County, the Glen Arm Boys Club from Baltimore County, the Port Tobacco Club from Charles County, the Cockeysville Boys Club from Baltimore County and the Freedom Girls Club from Carroll County.

In the "Older Youths" division, first prize went to Howard County, while blue ribbons were earned by the Cecil and Frederick County entries. The winners' theme was "4-H keeps your community ticking."

Attendance was 36,958, compared to 34,468 on the first Sunday last year. About 75,000 persons are expected on Labor Day.

Meanwhile, scores of prize livestock began moving into the grounds for competition in the open class judging starting tomorrow.

Last week's judging was devoted to 4-H Club entries. In some instances, prize stock shown by the 4-Hers remained in their stalls and will compete with animals entered by adults.

In Saturday's livestock judging for seniors, Charles Streett of Baltimore County walked off with the top prize, followed by John King of Montgomery County and Bill Strett of Baltimore County.

Baltimore County also won team honors with Montgomery County second and Howard, third.

Montgomery County took first place in dairy cattle judging.

State Employe Pay Hike Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pay increases for 3,100 state employes were recommended by Russell S. Davis, commissioner of personnel.

He has outlined his proposed revision of classification of State employes to a Legislative Council committee. Later, he will ask the Standard Salary Board to approve them and forward the plan to Gov. Tawes.

The reclassification by Davis is separate from a request by the 22,000 State employes for a straight 10 per cent raise for all.

Davis is backing "selective adjustments" in 230 of the 1,100 classifications. They are to eliminate inequities, or at least come close to comparable pay in private industry.

The last wholesale salary reclassification for state employes was in 1957, but didn't go into effect until this year.

State employes sought an across-the-board increase from the 1959 General Assembly which by-passed it along with more pay for school teachers.

The Legislative Council committee headed by Sen. James (D-Harford) has been studying both requests this summer.

Davis estimated that his proposed adjustments would cost $860,000 to $1,100,000. Each one per cent of any general increase would require nearly $740,000, he informed Sen. James.

Pa. Man Critical After Shooting

WILLIAMSPORT, Md. (AP) — A Mercersburg, Pa. man was shot and critically wounded Sunday when he and another man argued over a girl friend.

Deputy Sheriffs Tom Funkhauser and John Davis said Robert S. Raub, 59, of near Williamsport was charged with assault and intent to murder Ray Starliper, 36, of Mercersburg.

The officers said the argument occurred at the home of Clarence Teach, a relative of the unidentified woman. Raub was arrested at the home.

Second Man Seized In Holdup Of Bank

$17,000 Found Hidden In Shoe Boxes

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—The FBI arrested a second man Sunday in the $27,500 armed robbery of the County Trust Co. at Mechanicsville, Md., on Friday.

Identified by the FBI as Charles Edward Lawrenson, 40, of Washington, he was arrested at Miami Beach, Fla.

When taken into custody, he had about $17,000 in cash hidden in shoe boxes inside two pieces of expensive luggage, recently purchased, the FBI said.

Robert Lawrence Couch, 22, of Washington, was arrested Saturday night by the FBI in a nearby Alexandria, Va., supermarket where he was working and charged with taking part in the bank robbery. None of the money was recovered from Couch.

Couch was held in the Alexandria city jail in lieu of $50,000 bond for a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Stanley King on Sept.11.

Two men, wearing railroad engineer's overalls, baggy caps, cowboy boots and sunglasses, bound and gagged three women tellers at the Southern Maryland bank. They then fled with $3,000 from the teller booths and $24,500 from the bank vault.

The FBI said the two men made their escape in one car, later switched to another vehicle and drove to the Washington bus station before splitting up late Friday, intending to meet later to divide the money. The second man was reported to have failed to keep this meeting date.

Two rolls of dimes and one roll of quarters were found by FBI agents in Couch's Washington apartment along with a pistol of the type used to start races.

Youngster Drowns In Tub Of Hot Water

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 13-month-old boy drowned in a tub of hot water Saturday while his mother had gone to a nearby grocery store, police reported.

Firemen called to the home of Mrs. Barbara Bryan, 20, said the water was so hot they had to empty the tub before they could remove the infant's body.

Police said Mrs. Bryan told them she left the boy, Roystan E. Bryan, in a crib with a 4-week-old brother when she and another son, 2, went to the store.

Diamonds Make Arkansas Pasture Happy Hunting Ground For Tourists

By ED MARTIN

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Beneath a churned-up cow pasture near this sleepy country town lies a treasure trove that some geologists believe may hold a billion dollars in diamonds.

But this possible rival to the fabulous Kimberley deposits in South Africa is only a tourist attraction—every attempt at commercial mining has failed.

Mismanagement, sabotage, legal brawling and high operating costs stymied promoters. A decade ago the property owners gave up all hopes of mining and turned a 32-acre tract into a happy hunting ground for sightseers.

Forty thousand persons a year pay a small fee to pry through the multicolored soil of this volcanic freak known as the Crater of Diamonds.

Some strike it rich. The rule is finders keepers for stones under five carats, but a royalty must be paid to the management on larger gems.

Recently a Louisiana woman unearthed a 3.65-carat diamond in the backwoods fairyland. Several years ago a housewife from Texas picked up a shiny chunk which proved to be a 15-carat beauty, worth $25,000 after cutting. Tourists have stumbled on hundreds of sparklers ranging up to three carats.

In the years of abortive mining operations by various promoters, thousands of first-quality stones were taken from the old pasture. One, a 40-carat dazzler, was the biggest diamond ever found in North America.

The remarkable pasture is one of two sites in the world where diamonds are found in their natural matrix. The other is in South Africa's Kimberley district.

Although skullduggery and confusion loomed large in the history of the Crater of Diamonds, and although land title disputes grew so hot that bullets whizzed, the only casualties were dreams of wealth.

First of the dreamers was a lanky farmer named John Wesley Huddleston, who turned up a couple of diamonds in 1906. A banker in Murfreesboro offered him 50 cents.

But canny John sent his trinkets to a Little Rock jeweler, who in turn dispatched them to a Tiffany expert in New York.

The expert electrified the world with an announcement that Huddleston's stones were high-grade diamonds. A diamond rush brought thousands of prospectors, con men and promoters to southwest Arkansas, but no one made another strike.

And Huddleston? He sold out for $36,000, a fortune in those days, then went on a king-size spree and ended a pauper. Years later, he returned to Murfreesboro and the townspeople got up a fund for him. When he died in 1941, he was drawing a dollar a day for living expenses.

Cancer Study Grant

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Dr. Bertil Bjorklund, assistant professor at the state bacteriological laboratory in Stockholm, was granted $253,249 by the American Advisory Cancer Research Council Saturday. Bjorklund has shown that there are certain essential immunological differences between normal and cancer cells. He has also succeeded in isolating a natural blood factor which attacks cancer cells under laboratory conditions. The U.S. grant will enable him to continue and expand his experiments.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠A 10 9 8 5 ♥A 10 6 5 4 ♦ 2 ♣4 2
The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. Inasmuch as you are forced to proceed to game, this is the logical step. A rebid of four hearts would be dangerous in that it might persuade partner that you have a better suit. From partner's failure to bid three no trump over three hearts, you may deduce that he has a long and powerful two suiter.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠8 6 3 ♥— ♦A 6 2 ♣A K Q J 9 8 2
The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. Prospects for a slam are excellent despite the fact that your partner originally passed and, as yet, has shown no special signs of strength. If partner shows the ace of hearts now, you will have to sign off, but if he is able to bid five diamonds, you should contract for a slam in clubs.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠5 ♥A J ♦10 8 6 2 ♣A 9 7 5 4 2
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Double	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have enough high card strength to redouble but, lacking any reasonable idea of where you are headed, it is more discreet to pass temporarily and await developments. If the hand is a misfit, by no means an unlikely prospect, you may be able to inaugurate a doubling campaign against the opposition, when the bidding gets back to you, that could spell a handsome profit for your side where no game was available.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠J 7 2 ♥K J 6 2 ♦A 9 3 2 ♣J 10
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. This hand just makes the grade. A bid in this spot should be made only with the outlook of reaching for a game. This does not appear likely since your hearts appear to be badly placed for a spade contract but, since partner may have a hand that could help produce nine tricks at no trump, one forward move by you is justified. If partner merely returns to two spades, you will, of course, pass.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠K 5 ♥A 8 ♦A 10 8 7 6 3 2 ♣J 5
The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. There is no completely desirable call on this hand. Three hearts is somewhat of an underbid, but we dislike raising all the way to four with just two trumps. The alternative bid of four diamonds may land us in an unmakeable diamond game when four hearts could be spread. The simple heart raise leaves open the further possibility that partner may wish to try for the nine trick game at no trump.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠A 7 9 8 7 ♥Q 8 ♦K 8 ♣K 8 7 5
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner was unable to make a better initial response than one no trump, there can be no very good play for a game. Even if he has all of his high card values in clubs and spades, which seems a likely explanation for his second round jump, it will not adequately fill the holes in your hand.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠A Q ♥K 8 7 6 ♦6 5 4 ♣A K 9 6
The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand was microscopically short of an immediate jump shift response and as such merits very strong treatment. On hands of this strength the proper procedure is to bid new suits twice and then raise partner. There is only a slight risk partner will take this as a legitimate suit which impression you will correct on the next round when you raise hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠A 8 ♥A K Q J 7 2 ♦9 7 3 ♣K 3
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Prospects for game have not been entirely dimmed by partner's pass, but the shorter, no trump route to game looks like the best shot at this point since all partner needs are a couple of face cards strategically placed.

Sinner Reforms

ILFORD, England (UPI)—Damon Runyon would have been pleased when Tom Keer married Brenda Neve Saturday. Brenda, like the heroine of Runyon's "Guys and Dolls," was a member of the Salvation Army. And Tom was a sinner she met while doing a little missionary work in a pub. Tom, 23, became a color sergeant in the Salvation Army. And after he married 18-year-old Brenda Saturday he said, "now we can work together to convert others."

Money, No Work Called Formula For Long Life

JERSEY CITY N. J. (UPI) — A Puerto Rican who claims to be 110, and his older sister, who says she is 120, said recently that plenty of money and no work can insure a long life.

Isaias Delgado and his sister, Mrs. Julia Delgado Otero, arrived from San Juan to visit relatives here.

Asked for a formula for long life, Delgado said "we've never had to work a single day in our lives."

"Our father left us plenty of money," his sister added.

The aged couple said their father, a plantation owner, had left them such vast properties that they keep between $50,000 and $100,000 around the house for spending money.

Both discounted any special kind of food as a factor in their long lives—except that they could always eat when they wanted to.

Their relatives here, Mr. and Mrs. Angel Rodrigues, said the couple's estimate of their ages was "fairly accurate."

Mrs. Rodrigues is a great-grandniece of the couple.

Mrs. Otero said she has been a widow for 95 years. Her brother said with a wink that he was "still available."

Both agreed firmly it was money that had kept them going. As further proof, they said, their father died at 135 and their mother at 110.

A dentist, Dr. Alfred Southwick, orginated the electric chair.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

It might be interesting to present today's hand, all hands exposed, to your favorite partner with the query as to whether he would prefer to play or defend against the six spade contract.

Declarer took the opening lead of the king of clubs and drew trumps in three rounds, discarding the six of diamonds and the deuce of clubs. He then led a low diamond and the queen was taken by East's ace. A club was returned and ruffed by declarer.

The king of diamonds was cashed and the closed hand was reentered with the ace of hearts. Two more trumps were cashed and now, four cards from the end, dummy held three hearts and the jack of clubs. West held three hearts and the queen of clubs. When declarer led his last trump, it was impossible for West to make a safe discard.

Returning to the position after trumps were drawn, at trick five, when the diamond was led and the queen played from dummy, East had a chance for a brilliant diagnosis. It was clear that declarer had six solid spades, and the only other side cards he could have were the ace and queen of hearts. It was evident that 11 tricks were available to him, but that the 12th could be developed in a squeeze against West, who is known to have the queen of clubs and probably holds a heart stopper.

East should have refused to win the trick. By refusing to permit declarer to concede his losing trick early in the play, East could spike the enemy's guns.

Note, now, if declarer leads all his trumps, West will be left with five cards instead of four; in other words, he will have a spare diamond which can be discarded on South's last trump lead, enabling him to retain his heart stopper and the queen of clubs.

David Cuppett Earns Eagle Scout Award

PETERSBURG — David Cuppett 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cuppett, was presented an Eagle Scout award during a Court of Honor for Boy Scout Troop 63 here a recent evening.

Lester McDowell, advancement chairman of Tri-Valley District, presided at the ceremony, assisted by David G. Nuzum and Fred H. Anderson, Potomac Council officials.

Prior to the ceremony, held at Petersburg Park, the mothers of the scouts served a picnic supper. Members of Troop 63, formed a guard of honor during the program.

Scoutmaster Walter Riddleberger presented the Eagle badge to Mrs. Cuppett, who affixed it to the uniform of her son. He in turn presented his mother with a miniature Eagle badge. The official certificate of the rank was given to David's father by Riddleberger.

The 13-year-old youth is the eighth member of Troop 63 to earn Eagle rating. An eighth grade student at Petersburg School, he is a member of the school's Lucky 13 4-H Club. David has been scribe for his troop and leader of the Panther Patrol. He presently is junior assistant scout leader.

Bakery Cited By Federal Food Agency

KINGWOOD — The Kingwood Baking Company and Phillip Contic Jr., and Richard Contic, partners in the business, have been cited by the government on two counts of alleged violation of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

U. S. Attorney Albert M. Morgan has filed two charges against the bakery and the partners.

The firm is charged with shipment in interstate commerce of bread and sandwich buns which were adulterated with insects and insect fragments. The alleged shipment was from Kingwood to Oakland, Md.

Basis for the action allegedly occurred June 16, 1959, and the charge read "the shipment was purportedly prepared under unsantiary conditions whereby it may have become contaminated with filth."

The litigation resulted from the alleged failure of the firm to effect promised measures to correct deficiencies noted in prior government inspections of the establishment.

Steel Liner Is Authorized For Reservoir

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and Council last week voted to install a steel liner 17 feet high inside the Westernport reservoir at a cost of $25,861.

The contract was let to the Grover Tank and Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh. When the work is completed it will result in a big saving in water, according to Mayor Ray L. Wilt, who said he believed about a fourth of the water at present is lost by leakage.

Company representatives said workmen could complete the work in three weeks after material is assembled. The work will not begin until all material needed is on the site.

The steel will be placed within one inch of the concrete reservoir. The price includes painting it on the inside and a coat of red lead after the work is completed.

After the first reading of an amendment to the water ordinance, it was unanimously approved by the Council. It states that water meters up to a certain size will be provided by the town without cost, but over that size the water user must pay for the meter and all costs of installation.

John Coleman, resident engineer of the firm building the sewage plant at the lower end of town, conferred with Council on putting in a manhole on Fourth Street to take care of surface water. There was no objection.

Mrs. Edwin Ross and Mrs. Owen Lewis complained about the bad condition of Ross Street. Mayor Wilt stated he would request the Cumberland Contracting Company to give him an estimate on blacktopping it.

Commissioner L. C. Lambert was authorized to inspect the window blinds at the Bureau of Mines quarters, in the City Building and to purchase new ones if needed.

Commissioner Lambert said Mrs. Paul McCoy had requested that holes on Hammond Street be filled. This was approved. Miss Lola Martin complained of dust from the town parking lot on Church Street. Brush on it near her residence was ordered cut.

Police Commissioner Leo Herbert announced that bicycle permits already issued will be good until next April 1, and those issued until that time will cost 25 cents.

RICHARD W. HAINES

ROMNEY — Richard Wesley Haines, 78, a retired member of the West Virginia State Roads Commission, died at his home in Springfield Friday. He was born in Hampshire county, a son of the late Samuel and Eliza Jane (Shanholtz) Haines.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Florence (Kline) Haines; six sons, Homer Haines, Winchester, Va.; Edgar E. Haines, Falls Church, Va.; Brady A. Haines, Augusta; Hoy S. Haines, Romney; Cecil D. Haines, Kirby, and Lawrence Haines, Weston; a daughter, Mrs. Randall Martin, Pleasant Dale; a sister, Mrs. Mary Hare, Gettysburg, Pa., ten grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Services were conducted yesterday at Mt. Zion Methodist Church with Rev. Mr. Painter, pastor of Springfield Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion Cemetery, Augusta.

MRS. GEORGE DARDEN, SR.

ELKINS, W. Va.—Services for Mrs. George Darden, Sr., 57, one of the most prominent civic leaders of Elkins, who died while watching television Friday night, were conducted yesterday in First Methodist Church. Rev. J. C. Fisher, pastor, officiated and interment was in the Maplewood Cemetery.

Mrs. Darden was on the official board of First Methodist Church and a member of the board of directors of the Elkins YMCA for a number of years.

She was active in the Mountain State Forest Festival and was a past sponsor of the Junior Department of the Women's Club of Elkins.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, she was born January 4, 1902, a daughter of the late Thomas and Margaret (Thomas) Miles.

Survivors include her husband, George E. Darden; two sons, George E. Darden Jr., of here, and Ralph Miles Darden, Baltimore; a daughter, Mrs. David R. Brown, Troy, Ohio; two brothers, John Miles, Pasadena, Calif., and Harold Miles, Youngstown; three sisters, Mrs. Paul Reebel, Mrs. S. D. Horner and Mrs. LaVerne Cailor, all of Youngtown, and 11 grandchildren.

JAMES A. MARKWOOD

PETERSBURG, W.Va.—James A. Markwood, 82, of here, died yesterday in Grant County Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient five days. He had been in ill health for some time.

A native of Grant County, he was a son of the late John and Mary (Cornell) Markwood. His first wife, Cora (Hull) Markwood, preceded him in death.

He is survived by his widow, Minnie (Frye) Markwood; three children by his first marriage, Mrs. Loren Hott, Cabins; William, Westminster, Md.; Orlando, Baltimore, and Otha Markwood, Arbutus, Md.; a brother, Edgar Markwood, Terra Alta; 13 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

He was a member of Lehmansville Evangelical United Brethren Church where services will be conducted at 2 p.m. by Rev. Leslie Gillium and Rev. W. B. Obaugh. Burial will be in Lehmansville Cemetery.

The body is at the Schaeffer Funeral Home here and will be taken to the church at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Don't faint. This letter is being written by a man. I was touched by the sad letter from the girl who wanted to develop her measurements and was miserable because nature had cheated her. She signed her letter "Flat Florence."

I was married to the other kind for three years. She lived in front of the mirror with a tape measure in her hand. She was a lousy cook (when she cooked) and the world's worst housekeeper. If a button came off my coat she'd pin it on. I never saw a needle or thread in our house.

Her own clothes were beautiful and that's all she cared about. She wasn't happy unless every man in the room was falling all over her.

My second wife is a wonderful person but she has a terrific complex because she's a Flat Florence, too. She keeps comparing herself with my first wife. No matter how I try, I can't get it through her head that it doesn't matter. I wish you'd print this letter, Ann. I think it would make her feel better.—SYD

DEAR SYD: Here's the letter—and I hope it makes your wife feel better. It should give a lift to all Flat Florences to know there are men around who aren't dimension-wacky.

DEAR ANN: My husband and I both work five days a week. When I get home I have to wash the breakfast dishes, clean the house, prepare dinner, wash, iron, pay bills and do the endless chores a housewife fall heir to.

My husband plops himself in front of the TV, reads the paper and takes a nap in the chair until I wake him up and announce that dinner is on the table. After dinner he goes back to the same chair until bed time.

If I suggest that he fill my coffee cup or carry out the garbage he gives me a scathing look and says, "I worked hard all day."

Am I wrong to expect a little help around the house? If I am, please tell me and I'll keep my mouth closed. If I'm right, I'd like a little support from you IN WRITING. — POOPED YVONNE

DEAR YVONNE: A woman who helps bring home the bacon has a right to expect her husband to help her fry it.

Since you're holding down two jobs your hubby should get off his rusty dusty and pitch in on the home front. If he refuses, tell him you're quitting your salaried job before you cave in.

DEAR ANN: I'm having a peculiar problem with my 13-year-old and I need your help.

I hardly recognize Bernice when she walks in the door. She always has someone else's clothes on. There are six girls in her "inside circle" as she calls it, and they are forever switching clothes.

I don't know why she goes to such pains to buy just the right dresses, skirts, sweaters and blouses. After two weeks I never see them.

Are ALL girls this way, or is this bunch daffy? What should I do about it?—JUST ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR JUST ANOTHER: This adolescent "sickness" is common among 13-year-olds. Be patient and I promise she'll outgrow it as she did the previous phases.

CONFIDENTIAL: TORN TO PIECES: Put yourself back together and cut out the self pity. I hear from plenty of people who deserve a medal for facing life every day.

DEAR ANN: To look at me you'd never guess I had two teen-age children. I have no grey hair, no wrinkles and no excess baggage.

A few months ago I became fascinated by an art dealer whose studio is near our apartment. I'm not the type to sneak around so I told my husband everything. I didn't want a divorce or a separation—only his patience and understanding until the tornado blew itself out.

Being broad-minded and intelligent he agreed to stand by. He treated me beautifully and we put up the usual front of a happily married couple.

In less than three months the affair was over. I love my husband more than ever for his maturity and strength. He's delighted to have me back on a full-time basis and is willing to forgive and forget. No one was hurt and I learned from experience there's no place like home. Now we're closer than ever. I feel that everyone profited—do you agree?—MITZIE.

DEAR MITZIE: If you're looking for a good conduct medal you came to the wrong place.

Consider yourself lucky your husband didn't broom you out when the tornado hit. Just because he didn't throw himself on the floor and chew the rug doesn't mean he wasn't deeply hurt.

And while you're counting your blessings, include a prayer of thanks that your children didn't hear the gossip. You were luckier all the way around than you had a right to be.

DEAR ANN: Clark and I have gone steady for 18 months and we're getting engaged. The problem is the ring.

He comes from a well-to-do family and is rather spoiled. He works for his father at a good salary but spends everything he makes. Last year he bought an expensive sports car which made me angry.

Now he wants to give me a big diamond which was his mother's engagement ring. I told him I'd rather have a small ring—one he paid for himself.

He says I'm cracked. My mother agrees with him. Dad thinks I'm right. What do you think?—LORNA.

DEAR LORNA: Congratulations. In this materialistic age when so many dames are hunting for husbands with a geiger counter it's refreshing to find a girl who isn't interested in a skating rink to shove under the noses of her girl friends.

Stick to your guns. Tell Clark you're not marrying his father and that you want only the kind of ring HE can afford.

DEAR ANN: This noon, while the people who rent from us were gone, I took my key and let myself in. I had reason to suspect they had my hand-saw. I did nothing illegal after I got into the house. All I did was look around.

I didn't find the hand-saw but I did see a shot gun which disappeared from our back porch last year.

How can I get the gun back without letting them know I was in their house?—WALLEYE.

DEAR WALLEYE: You're not short on brass, Bub, and you may be in legal trouble. Look at your lease. Does it say you have the right to enter when the tenants aren't at home? If the lease gives you this right, then tell them you saw the gun and you're glad they "found it." If not, ask them to please keep their eyes open for the shot gun you "lost" last year, and nix on breaking and entering in the future.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experience of thousands of teen-agers if you read ANN LANDERS booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Gina, Cleavage And All, Breaks Into Red Press

BERLIN (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida broke into the official Communist press Sunday — complete with cleavage.

Such things rarely happen in sober party-line Communist papers. But the East German daily Neues Deutschland carried an interview the Italian film star gave another Communist paper on the forthcoming meetings between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

"It's really time for a meeting like that to take place," she said. "Now people can breathe a little."

Wheat Acreage Change Cited

A change in the method of determining wheat history acreage for wheat farms on which the allotment is underseeded was announced yesterday by William L. Dudley, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

This change is the result of a law which has just gone into effect and which is designed to help farmers who underplant protect their future wheat allotments.

Under the new law, a farmer who plants no wheat for 1960 harvest may still obtain maximum history acreage credit for 1960 if his actual planted acreage of wheat in either 1958 or 1959—plus any acreage diverted from wheat under the Soil Bank or Great Plains program—was equal to 75 per cent of his farm wheat allotment.

If a farmer does not meet this requirement and wants to get maximum wheat history credit for 1960, then he must meet the 75 per cent planting requirement for 1960. In other words, by planting 75 per cent of his wheat allotment in any of the three years 1958, 1959, or 1960, the farmer assures himself of full history credit for 1960.

In addition, a farmer who is prevented from seeding wheat for the 1960 crop because of unfavorable weather can preserve his maximum 1960 wheat history acreage credit if he notifies the county committee by December 1, 1959 (June 1, 1960 in spring wheat areas) and the committee makes an official determination of this fact.

Mr. Dudley urges farmers who have any questions about these provisions to consult the county office in the short time that remains before winter wheat planting.

Bicycler Rests

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— A 19-year-old bicycler rested Sunday from his 18-day pedaling trip from Portland, Ore., to Kansas City. Kurth Layman, a sophomore at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, pedaled into Kansas City Saturday night after averaging nearly 100 miles a day on his bicycle. He had spent the summer in Kodiak, Alaska, at an ecumenical work camp. On the way back he decided to make his bicycle trip, camping out at night.

Growing Cancer Of Censorship

California's Rep. John E. Moss is determined to find out who in the Pentagon is clamping the most restrictive censorship on public affairs yet attempted by any bureaucrat.

This particular attempt to cut off the flow of knowledge to the public began a few weeks ago with the announcement from within the labyrinths of military suites that officers were henceforth banned from publishing books on military subjects with which they were familiar as long as they remain in service.

Having apparently succeeded in establishing this restriction, a military official who obviously has insufficient justifiable work to occupy his time went further by banning signed newspaper or magazine articles by high officers in any but military publications.

Military presses have their own censors to insure nothing critical or objectionable to the high command will ever be offered to the public.

Representative Moss, who at times finds himself very much alone in attempts to protect the public's right to know, has demanded — as chairman of the House Government Information subcommittee — an explanation from Defense Secretary McElroy. If this directive from the Defense Department is allowed to stand, no ranking officer can publish any article on any subject in a private publication without jeopardizing his career.

Total blackouts now imposed on Defense Department personnel make no pretense of "security" as the reason for refusal to divulge information. The regulation simply stands without foundation, cause or constitutional authority. If Mr. McElroy was ignorant of the departmental laws issued in his name, he is no longer.

The longer he hesitates to rebuke those responsible and assure Representative Moss and the public that similar dictatorial abuses cannot reoccur, the greater blame he must accept for a censorship which must remain foreign to this government.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Numbers Game

Statistics can be very confusing if they are only numbers. Whenever I see statistics in dollars, I like to divide in half, which is too high. The purchasing power of the 1959 dollar is variously estimated as to be worth less than 50 cents, so when the figure appears, for instance, that the personal consumption expenditure is thus and so, we need to translate the dollars into realistic currency. This, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States does in a pamphlet recently issued, using 1958 dollars as a criterion. Unless figures are translated into a common language, comparisons are untruthful and distorted.

Taking 1940 as a base, the Chamber of Commerce finds that in that year the population of the United States was about 132,000,000; the labor force about 56,000,000; the gross national product (in 1958 dollars), $227,000,000,000; personal consumption expenditures, $155,700,000,000; and the personal consumption expenditure per capita $1,179. In 1940, the United States was a prosperous nation, living on the proceeds of huge war activities in Europe. The next year, this country entered the war and all figures began to move upward and to continue to move upward.

The population of the United States increased from 132,000,000 in 1940 to 174,000,000 in 1958. This is an enormous increase in a short period of 18 years and represents crowding in our large cities, the blighting of areas, the movement of "good families" to suburbs, changing the character both of the cities and the countryside. This is a transformation not only in homebuilding and household devices but in the social life of the country. It is particularly a revolution in child life which our psychologists and sociologists are currently studying.

The labor force has increased from 56,000,000 in 1940 to 71,000,000 in 1958. The rise in the labor force has not been as sharp because more persons are taken out of it to continue their education or to go into the armed services which have obviously become a permanent social institution in the United States.

According to these figures, the average post-war investment per job is more than $13,281 which is very high, making it increasingly difficult for small business to get started. It requires too much money to set up a new enterprise and few enterprises can be started out of family savings or borrowing from friends and neighbors, but require financing by banks, insurance companies, labor union reserve and pension funds and such organized money-lending bodies. This leads to a concentration of operations in increasingly large corporations which, despite all legislation to the contrary, tend toward monopolies.

This, too, has altered the nature of private enterprise, shifting responsibility from ownership to management, reducing the authority of ownership, which often, to protect itself from management, has to have recourse to the courts. Unfortunately the American corporate structure and corporate law are such that fractional ownership can give control of an enterprise. This makes it possible for astute minds, often criminally inclined, so to manipulate ownership, as literally to steal established enterprises. This is called raiding.

The data in this pamphlet, "Investment for Jobs," is interesting and from it one can draw many conclusions, the most serious undoubtedly being that we are constantly being forced to move away from free, private enterprise to a mixed government - controlled, bank - controlled, managerial enterprise in which ownership plays an increasingly smaller and less responsible role. The Chamber of Commerce says:

". . . if the government absorbs an unduly large slice of the business or individual income dollar, the capacity and incentive to invest may be all but eliminated . . ."

This is so true that a Congressional committee ought to study the movement of American private capital out of the country. An attempt was made to organize such an investigation but it was stopped in its tracks, undoubtedly by important financial influences who did not want an investigation made of their deposits in such places as Nassau, Montevideo and Zurich. Had such a study been made, there would be no Guterma and Birrell cases in the courts today. And Guterma and Birrell were small operators.

The significance of this activity is not that individuals are accused of this or that felony or misdemeanor. The significance is that American capital is being moved out of the United States.

Khrushchev Had Better Re-Read U.S. History

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev must think the American people are dumb or naive and c. readily be deceived. There seems to be no other logical explanation for the hypocritical article which he wrote for "Foreign Affairs," a quarterly magazine published by the Council on Foreign Relations of New York City, a private group of citizens interested in the discussion of international problems.

In that article, Mr. Khrushchev demands that the free world accept as an accomplished fact the conquest of Eastern Europe by the Soviet armies and the continued enslavement of the "captive nations," including such formerly independent countries as Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary. These, he says in effect, must remain forever under the military domination and duress of the Communist government in Moscow.

The Soviet Premier says that the resolution adopted by the Congress of the United States a few weeks ago, declaring its sympathy with the "captive nations," was "an act of provocation." He then proceeds to suggest sarcastically that Americans would have been similarly annoyed "if the Parliament of Mexico had passed a resolution demanding that Texas, Arizona and California be 'liberated from American slavery.'"

Actually, very few people would be annoyed today if that happened. In fact, a resolution by any democratic government on the subject of free elections would be welcomed because it probably would urge that the United Nations be asked to conduct free elections — such as have been held regularly for more than a century in Arizona, California and Texas — so that the people of the various states of the Soviet Union itself, as well as the "captive" states, could determine what government they wish to govern them.

Mr. Khrushchev hopes the world will forget that he himself ordered his foreign minister at the recent Geneva Conference to turn down the plan offered by Britain, France and the United States that an election be held in both East and West Germany to let the German people choose a single government.

Mr. Khrushchev defines "peaceful co-existence" in terms that ha.e been repeatedly violated in the last 15 years by the Soviet imperialists. He writes:

"Apart from the commitment to non-aggression, it (peaceful co-existence) also presupposes an obligation on the part of all states to desist from violating each other's territorial integrity and sovereignty in any form and under any pretext whatsoever. The principle of co-existence signifies a renunciation of interference in the internal affairs of other countries with the object of altering their system of government or mode of life or for any other motives."

Yet how would the Soviet Premier justify the Soviet's sending of munitions of war to attack and invade the independent Korean Republic, or the dispatch of arms to help Communist sympathizers to destroy the national government on the mainland of China? How would he classify the dispatch of arms to the Middle East by the Soviet Government to intensify friction between the countries there? How would the Soviet Premier define the sending of Soviet troops to East Germany and Hungary, where the people were coerced to accept Communist rule? And how would the Soviet Premier characterize the invasion of India and Laos this summer by Communist forces, or the recent overthrow of the constituted government of Tibet?

Would he ignore the fact that in every case there was a violation of the territorial integrity and sovereignty of other nations by Soviet imperialism? In what country of the world indeed has the apparatus of Communist imperialism not been established, with its agents of subversion financed by Moscow to encroach upon the sovereignty of independent governments?

Apparently Mr. Khrushchev thinks the American people are not well informed on what has been happening in the "Cold War" in the last few years. His effort to over-simplify the struggle in the world today as merely a clash between two rival systems of social or economic ideology reveals transparently the insincerity and fakery in his approach to a serious-minded audience in the United States such as the council on Foreign Relations in New York City.

There is a certain boldness and arrogance in Mr. Khrushchev's flat assertion that "in our day there are only two ways, peaceful co-existence or the most destructive war in history—there is no third choice."

There is indeed a third choice —it's honest co-existence. But this, of course, means freedom and human liberty and the right of every people to choose their own form of government without any outside pressure or duress. Mr. Khrushchev isn't willing to have that kind of co-existence. It's a choice, therefore, today between autocratic government and democracy, between tyranny and freedom, between ideals of human liberty and the cruel despotism of the modern Czar of Russia who is bent on world conquest.

Nikita Khruschev is as foggy as Adolf Hitler and misguidedly as determined to win by threats what he is not sure he can win by force of arms. For, while nobody wants war, Mr. Khrushchev had better read American history and note that from the earliest days of this republic there were men who cried out, "Give me liberty or give me death." That's what will eventually prove the undoing of Nikita Khrushchev and his gangster regime as the peoples of the captive countries, including peoples in parts of the Soviet Union like Ukraine, will some day rise up to demand their freedom and independence. History is not "irreversible," as Mr. Khrushchev claims. History really repeats itself often where injustice and despotism have deprived men of human rights.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SENATE BUILDING—As if the going hasn't been rough enough for the architect of the Capitol, one of the nation's outstanding architectural magazines has now come out in sharp criticism of the new $25 million Senate Office Building.

The criticism was not aimed at such mundane things as slippery floors, unworkable elevators, bad acoustics and eerie screechings from the public address system. It went to the very heart of the controversy and vehemently attacked the architectural form itself, from the materials used in construction to the design of the building with its completely false and phony entrance.

Because of the unrelenting attacks on the building, another Capitol structure, the new House Office Building, is proceeding slowly. No architectural design has been completed, although a huge foundation has been dug. It is a gaping hole that so far has cost $16 million, with nothing to go on top.

Behind Crisis In Laos Is A Story Of Give-Aways And Corruption

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note — While Drew Pearson is on a "work and play vacation," his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam has responded to the crisis in Laos characteristically by pouring still more aid into a jungle kingdom that has already received more than it can absorb.

The new supplies will go to build up the 25,000-man Laotian army, a crack motorized force which unhappily is roadbound in a country without roads. Its jeeps and trucks are of little value in the steamy jungles where the Red guerrillas are attacking.

Providentially, the first supply plane brought in a load of jungle boots which are not only more useful but less costly than all the Laotians' modern, mechanized American equipment.

President Eisenhower has also authorized funds to increase the little army to 30,000 men, although there is considerable doubt that the present payroll goes to the 25,000 soldiers who are supposed to collect it.

Of the $250 million Uncle Sam has already sent to Laos, all but a small, green trickle has gone for military aid. Yet the Laotian army couldn't rescue a surrounded paratroop company because the reinforcements had no parachutes.

Dollar Dumping

For its small size, Laos has become the biggest dollar dumping ground outside of Fort Knox. The greenbacks have blown in faster than King Sissavang Vong and his courtiers could spend them until now the government has almost as much green as the surrounding jungle.

The result has been a record of corruption and mismanagement such as has not been seen since the decline of Chiang Kai-shek. Although it is impossible to sell more than $2 million worth of imported goods in Laos in a single month, for instance, the Laotian ministers breezily issue import licenses for as much as $7 million a month.

Of the 2 million Laotians, less than 150,000 around the royal capital at Vientiane have benefited from American aid. Next to nothing has gone into the remote sections of the country now being overrun by Communist rebels.

Several investigating teams have been sent into Laos to find out where the money is going. All have come back with dreary reports about waste and corruption.

The chief dispenser of aid to Laos during the give-away days was Carter de Paul who sold a 10-year-old Cadillac, worth $600 at best on the Laotian market, to the Universal Construction Company for $3,038. This happened to be one of the contractors with which he had been doing government business. The car was left outside the Universal office as a rusting symbol of corruption until, at the request of the American mission, it was torn up and dropped down an abandoned well.

Officials Rewarded

De Paul's reward was a promotion as chief of the Investment Division in Washington where he also does liaison work with the National Security Council, the government's top policy-making body.

De Paul's work in Laos and the sale of his Cadillac was approved by Ambassador Graham Parsons who was also promoted a few weeks ago. As Secretary of State in charge of Far Eastern Affairs, he is now in a position to spend money and influence people throughout the Far East.

Note — The cloak-and-dagger boys at Central Intelligence would like to answer the Communists in Laos by smuggling food and arms to the Tibetan tribesmen who are fighting the Communists in the high Himalayas. As long as the Reds stir up revolution in Laos, the CIA boys believe we should keep the Tibetan pot boiling. Two can play at the game of subversion and infiltration.

Hoffa Seeks Loopholes

Labor Day Round-up: On the second floor of the Teamsters' palatial headquarters, Jimmy Hoffa's lawyers already are searching the new labor bill for loopholes. To get around the new restrictions, he has already served an ultimatum upon Brinks that all contracts with armored car drivers across the country must be signed at the same time . . . Dictator Khrushchev has agreed to see labor leaders in San Francisco on September 20. Only Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers, Jim Carey of the Electrical Workers, and Joe Beirne of the Communications Workers are expected to keep the date . . . The Senate-House conferees fought bitterly behind closed doors over the labor bill. The room was acrid with tobacco smoke and controversy. At one point, Oregon's bristle-browed Sen. Wayne Morse shouted "This is not the way to write legislation for the American people!" and stomped out of the room . . . On another occasion, Morse announced to his chief antagonist, Congressman Graham Barden of North Carolina: "I am going to get the Congressman from North Carolina to agree to one thing. For that I ask for a one-minute recess." . . . Then Morse passed a box of cigars, explaining: "My champion Devon cow gave birth to a bull calf while at the Gaithersburg Fair last night. I understand the Congressman from North Carolina is a great cattleman, and I am going to sell him that bull calf." . . . Sen. Jennings Randolph, West Virginia Democrat, also broke the tension once by quoting a passage from Joaquin Miller's poem, "Columbus." . . . "This mad sea shows his teeth tonight, he curls his lips, he lies in wait with lifted teeth as if to bite," repeated Randolph. Just as Columbus had sailed on to find land, the Senator urged the conferees to search on. "We may find common ground on which to stand," he said . . . Later, Morse was explaining to Randolph why he had voted against a proposal that would help West Virginia coal operators. Michigan's gravel - voiced Sen. Pat McNamara broke in mischievously: "The Senator from Oregon is just explaining to the Senator from West Virginia that he is a fair weather friend."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The twins were in their playpen. They looked up, blue-eyed blondes with tiny pony tails, mouths open. Mommy was saying goodbye. Daddy was taking her to the hospital to have another baby, and the twins felt vaguely uneasy. Why did she hold them so tight this particular time? Why the long, wet kiss, the nuzzling behind the ear?

They watched. Mommy stood up, pulled the dress down over the awkward form, blew one more kiss and followed Charlie and the little valise of clothes out. Gayle told her sister not to worry: "Lil and I will take care of them. They'll be good."

This is the moment of trial for millions of young women. This is the hour when there is no future, just the present. Charlie drove her up to Holy Name Hospital in Teaneck, New Jersey. The Sisters of St. Joseph were waiting. Sister Canise and Sister Philomena had been present when Robin and Pamela had been born, exactly a year ago. And Sister Bartholomew, who ministered to my mother and my father and to me in that hospital, was now kneeling in the dim and cool chapel, saying a prayer that the new generation would continue in health.

Dr. Albert Higdon was waiting too. He knows that some things start, and then stop. It's an aggravating truth. That is what happened. It was like this all day. Virginia Lee Frechette put her robe on and walked the corridor and met other young women. To some this was a new story. To some it was old.

"Mine has got to be a boy," said Ginny. Everybody laughed. "It's simply got to. My father had girls. He never had a son, so he must have a grandson. You know what their vanity is like when they reach 50."

The red ball of the sun hung above the deep green trees on the horizon. Nothing. Some of the girls were taken to the labor room. Not Ginny. She sat on the side of her bed and shrugged. The pretty face broke into smiles. "Nothing," she said to Dr. Higdon. "Just nothing."

It was night and the antiseptic dinner came up on a tray. The nurse at the desk made notes on charts. The clock on the wall spun lazily and silently. The gleaming corridor was quiet. Then something happened. It was no maybe - I - imagined - it thing. This was real. The doctor was called. It was real all right.

There was no fright in Ginny. No panic. "This is fine," she said. "I wouldn't want to go home and start all over." She does not believe in anesthetics and needles at times like these. She thinks that most of the pain is emotional.

But, before the night was over, her eyes were wild with fright and a doctor was sitting behind her holding a cone on her nose, murmuring: "If you'd only breathe deep as I tell you, you won't feel the next one." Before dawn, she heard the doctor say: "Get her husband. I want to talk to him," and she thought sadly: "This is what it's like to die. This is what it's like." She was wrong. The doctor wanted Charlie, sleeping on a hall bench, to be awakened because the time was near.

The sun came up over Leonia mean and hot. Only the snowy statue of the Sacred Heart in front of the hospital braved the rays in cool splendor. Breakfast trays rattled and doctors hopped out of parked cars to visit patients in many parts of the hospital. Starched nurses shook thermometers and jammed them into faces young and old.

The nuns walked the corridors in silence, their rubber heels making kissing sounds on the linoleum. "All right," Doctor Higdon said softly. "Now. Now. There. There." There was the sound of a slap, and a loud, thin wail assailed the walls of the delivery room. A second doctor got the silver nitrate, and the blue eyes which did not want to look at the world, were opened by force.

It was ten a. m. The doctor was tired. He went out into the hall. "Charlie," he said to my big red - headed son - in - law, "everything is fine. Ginny is all right. The baby is fine. Weighs about 8 pounds."

Charlie grinned and sat down. "Boy or girl, doc?" he said. The doctor smiled. "Boy," he said. "I asked Ginny what she's going to call him and she said Jim Bishop Frechette."

Potent Remedies For High Blood Pressure

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is a pill to fit every degree of high blood pressure. Reserpine is mild and takes care of borderline patients, whereas the potent Ansolysen, Inversine, and Ecolid are reserved for more serious cases. Many of these products are used in combination or along with Diuril, depending upon individual needs.

Guanethidine is the newest of the more potent anti-hypertensive drugs. It was administered by Dr. Irvine H. Page and Dr. Harriet P. Dustan of Cleveland to 18 patients for periods of 2 to 12 weeks. Following its use, the pressure fell slowly for several days to a week. During the test period there were no signs of toxicity. Diarrhea developed when large doses were given.

On standing from a sitting position, it is normal for the blood pressure to fall. The powerful remedies for high blood pressure appear to accentuate this reaction. Tension may drop so abruptly, the user feels dizzy and may faint. The effect usually wears off as the body adjusts to the lowered reading. Hypertensives using guanethidine had a marked drop in pressure every time they sat or stood up.

Physicians often suggest that someone in the household take the patient's blood pressure several times a day. The spouse, for example, is taught how to do this. The daily dosage of the potent remedy is regulated by the pressure and the lower the reading, the less medication is needed.

Many of these side reactions have been eliminated by combining the stronger drug with Diuril or reserpine. This enhances the good effects of both products and reduces the unpleasant side effects.

We do not know how well guanethidine will compare with the other potent remedies. If it passes the test of time, it means another drug to safeguard those with high blood pressure.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on hypertension, if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.)

LUNG CLEANSING

W. T. writes: After a person gives up smoking, is there any way to purify the lungs to clean out the tar?

REPLY

The lungs are self-cleansing and do this automatically. Smoker's cough is an example of how the body tries to eliminate the by-products of smoke.

FUNGI IN LUNG

D. E. writes: Does a fungus growth in the lungs act like tuberculosis?

REPLY

Yes, and special tests must be done to tell them apart. One Chicago surgeon had tuberculosis on one side, and several years later developed a fungal growth on the other lung. He was certain tuberculosis had spread to the other side and was a happy man when tests showed infection was due to a fungus rather than to tuberculosis.

CRANKY WHILE REDUCING

D. R. writes: Whenever I try to lose weight I become irritable and depressed. Do you think it worthwhile to stay on a reducing diet?

REPLY

At this stage you must contrast the disadvantage of obesity with disadvantages that stem from irritability and depression. Prescription products such as Dexedrine and Desoxyn impart a feeling of well being while on a reducing diet.

CAUSES OF ANEMIA

T. L. writes: Does anemia indicate that a disease is present?

REPLY

Not necessarily. There are many causes of anemia, including disease, faulty diet, and blood loss. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on anemia.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

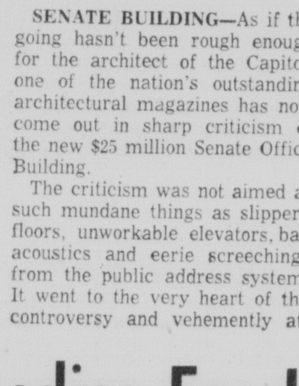
An ardent cowboy—not the TV variety—galloped up to his lady love in a cloud of dust, dismounted and declared. "Dearest gal of mine, I've ridden over 60 miles of desert just achin' to get here."

"Goodness me," breathed the lady love, "you must be tuckered out. Sit yourself down."

"Nothing doing," demurred the cowboy. "That's where I'm achin'."



A courtroom trick claimed as original by district attorneys in eight different states concerns the trial of a young man accused of murdering his sweetheart. Problem: her body was undiscovered, so the evidence was perforce circumstantial.

At a tense moment in the trial, the D.A. suddenly cried dramatically, "Here's the girl now!"

Only one person in the courtroom didn't wheel around to look toward the door—the defendant. The D.A. got the verdict he wanted: murder in the first degree.

Sandra Roeder Captures County Singles Championship

15-Year-Old Is Youngest To Cop Title

Defeats Mrs. Bowie; Day And Bernstein Reach Men's Final

Sandra Roeder won the women's singles championship in the Allegany County Tennis Tournament yesterday when she defeated Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie in the finals, 6-2-6-1, on the Garlitz courts.

Miss Roeder is believed to be the youngest player ever to win the county championship. A daughter of Mrs. Lucile Roeder, city finance commissioner, Sandra is 15 years old. She also won the title in the 15-16 year old division in the recent City Recreation Department junior tennis tournament.

Bill Day and Maurice Bernstein became finalists in the men's singles tournament yesterday and will clash at 1 p.m. today for the title on the Garlitz courts.

Day defeated Jimmy Twigg, 5-7, 6-4 and 7-5 while Bernstein eliminated Johnny Byrd, 6-2, 6-3.

Calvin Hadidian and Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie advanced to the finals in mixed doubles by defeating Harold Brown and Henrietta Lippold, 6-2 and 9-7. They will play Donald Hanekamp and Betty Flake in the championship match Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.

Charles Sager and Glenn Workman, of Frostburg, wrapped up the men's doubles championship on Saturday by defeating Charles Day and Maurice Bernstein, the defending champions, 6-3 and 6-1.

Maxwell's Single Wins Game In 9th

DETROIT (AP) — Charlie Maxwell scored Harvey Kuenn from second base with a ninth-inning single Sunday in giving the Detroit Tigers a 7-6 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics and pitcher Pete Burnside his first victory of the season.

The Tigers, who twice came from behind, staged the winning rally against Tom Sturdivant and handed the ex-Yankee reliefer his seventh defeat against one victory.

The Tigers rattled out 15 hits, including a two-run home run by Frank Bolling and a three-run smash by Al Kaline, as they completed a sweep of the three-game series and edged into third place in the American League ahead of the New York Yankees.

Kuenn, the league leading batter, led off the ninth with a double. Kaline drew an intentional walk before Maxwell delivered his game-winning bllow.

Burnside pitched five innings of shutout ball in relief of Frank Lary, who was batted out in the fifth inning when Kansas City scored four times and took a 6-2 lead.

Cards' Larry Jackson Shuts Out Giants, 1-0

Beats McCormick In Hurling Duel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Right-hander Larry Jackson, who had lost three straight decisions to the San Francisco Giants, blanked the National League leaders on five singles Sunday as the St. Louis Cardinals won 1-0 on an unearned eighth inning run.

A crowd of 22,893 saw Jackson throttle the Giants. He scattered hits in the third, seventh, eighth and ninth frames to win a pitching duel against youthful left-hander Mike McCormick. The loser was touched for only four hits before leaving in favor of an eighth-inning pinch hitter.

Jackson (13-12) fanned six and didn't allow a walk in pitching his second shutout in a row.

The winning run scored on a hit, a two-base error and a squeeze bunt.

With one out, Don Blasingame singled to left. Orlando Cepeda's throw to second went all the way to the Giants' dugout, and Blasingame reached third on the left fielder's error. Alex Grammas pushed a bunt along the first base line, scoring Blasingame as McCormick threw the runner out at first.

McCormick pitched no hit ball until two were out in the fifth. Then Gino Cimoli smashed a grounder that third baseman Joe Pagan couldn't handle as he ran to the left and it was scored a single.

The Old Exports won the first game by the score of 5-0 and Maple Inn took the second contest, 13-11.

Barton Snares Title

Barton won the championship of the Maryland-West Virginia Little League by beating Corriganville on Saturday by the score of 4-3 in the third and deciding game of their series at Corriganville. Larry Duckworth was the winning pitcher.

Jimmy High paced the Barton hitters with a triple and two singles while Russell Morgan had three safeties for Corriganville.

Old Gees Lose Two

The Puerto Rican All-Stars of Brooklyn, N. Y., won a doubleheader from the Old Germans of the Rec Softball League yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by scores of 4-2 and 7-0.

Banks' Homer In 10th Sinks Dodgers, 3-0

Koufax Hangs Up Strikeout Record

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ernie Banks' 10th inning three-run homer Sunday gave the Chicago Cubs a 3-0 victory over Los Angeles despite a pitching record by Dodger Sandy Koufax in the first game of a doubleheader.

By striking out 10 Cub batters Sunday, Koufax ran his strikeout total for three consecutive games to 41 to break a 49-year-old major league record. Koufax went into Sunday's game with 31 strikeouts in his two previous appearances—18 last Monday when he tied the major league record for one game.

His total surpassed the record of 38 set by Walter Johnson in 1910 and equalled by Bob Feller in 1938. He also broke the National record of 32 set by Dazzy Vance in 1925.

Although Art Ceccarelli, the Cub hurler, did not equal Koufax's strikeouts, he held the Dodgers scoreless. Koufax gave up two walks in the 10th and with one out, Banks got his first hit of the game—but a big one. A 350-foot homer over the left center field enclosure.

It was his 39th homer of the season.

Centerville Beaten, 1-0, At Hyndman

Barrelville Downs Mt. Savage, 2 To 1; Raines, See Score

Barrelville's Old Exports nosed out Mt. Savage, 2-1, and Hyndman's Merchants eked out a 1-0 decision over the Centerville Reds yesterday as the playoffs got under way in the Pen-Mar Baseball League at Barrelville and Hyndman.

Barrelville broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning when Dorcil Kline and Ronnie Cage singled, George Miller sacrificed and Joe Glass' sacrifice fly sent Kline home with what proved to be the winning run.

Manager "Buck" Fiorita's pennant winning club scored its first run of the game in the third inning when Leroy Morris hit safely, was forced at second by Ronnie Emerick who romped on a lusty triple by Galen McGregor.

Mt Savage knotted the score at one-all in the top of the fourth when Kenny Johnson got a life on an error, took second on Steve Faulkner's single to center and came home when the ball got by Dorcil Kline.

Raines Fans 13

Bobby Raines pitched a four-hitter, struck out 13 and failed to issue a pass as he registered his 13th victory of the campaign against a single loss. Jack Lowery turned in a creditable performance for the losers, yielding seven hits while his strikeout victims totaled seven. He gave up only one pass.

No player got more than one hit. McGregor and Ronnie Cage blasted triples for Barrelville.

Robert "Ab" See was returned the winner over Glenn Deremer in the 1-0 slab duel at Hyndman, completed in the time of one hour, 35 minutes.

The Merchants scored the game's lone tally in the eighth when Bob Bryant doubled down the left field foul line, moved to third on See's sacrifice and registered at home on "Pete" Deremer's two-base shot to left-center.

Centerville threatened in the first inning when singles by Jay Eckard, Dwight Rose and Dave Rose loaded the hassocks but Manager Mel Nee popped to Shortstop "Pete" Deremer and A. Growden hit into a double play, Deremer to "Candy" Lowery to Lew Hite.

Pull Three Double Plays

Hyndman filled the bases in the second inning after one away but this threat died when Bob Bryant smacked into a twin killing. Hyndman executed its second double play to stop the Reds in the ninth inning.

See scattered six hits and fanned three while Deremer gave up seven safeties and struck out two. No bases on balls were issued by either twirler.

Cliff Clites led the Hyndman stickers with a double and single. Jay Eckard and Dave Rose collected two blows each for the Reds.

Both series will continue next Sunday at which time Hyndman will visit Centerville and Mt. Savage will host Barrelville. The scores:

Springfield Is Hampshire Loop Champ

Tom Frye Masters Capon Bridge, 4-1

Springfield's Rockets won the championship of the Hampshire County Baseball League yesterday when they defeated Capon Bridge in a playoff game on the Romney High School Field by the score 4-1.

The extra game was necessary when the teams finished their regular schedules deadlocked for first place with 11-3 records.

It was the third straight victory for the Rockets over Capon Bridge this season. Scores of the other games were 4-2 and 4-3.

The Cosner brothers accounted for what proved to be the winning run in the second inning when Frank was safe on an error, pilfered second base and came home on Dale's two-base blow.

Lefty Tom Frye went the route for the Rockets, scattered nine hits and struck out seven. It was his fourth win against two defeats this season. John McCauley, the loser, yielded seven hits, whiffed four and issued two bases on balls.

Dale Cosner with two doubles and Dennis Straw with a two-bagger and single sparked the attack. Ronnie Sowers, John McCauley and Clarence Saville shared six of the losers' nine blows.

Springfield's championship team is managed by Sidney Grim.

Finsterwald Ties Goalby At 206 In Kansas City Open

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., fired a 3-under-par 69 and early leader Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., hung on with a 71 as they battled to a tie of 206 after three rounds in the Kansas City Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

While Finsterwald and Goalby were experiencing only minor difficulties making their third tour of the 6,542-yard par-72 Blue Hills Country Club course, Tommy Bolt just about shot himself out of any possibility of making the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

Bolt, a member of the stable of pros playing out of Crystal River, Fla., shot an even par 72 that left him with a 210 total and 4 strokes off the lead. He has to win this one to qualify for the cup team.

Vic Power's Two-Run Double Beats Chicago In Ninth, 2-1

Cleveland Defeats Donovan; Sox Lead Cut To 4½ Games

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Vic Power's two-run double in the ninth inning Sunday supported Mudcat Grant's 8-hit job to give the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 victory over the league-leading Chicago White Sox.

The Sox' second straight loss to the second-place Tribe shaved their lead to 4½ games.

Power's blow to deep right center scored Tito Francona and Woody Held, each of whom had singled.

It was a heartbreaker for right-hander Dick Donovan, seeking his second straight shutout over Cleveland and his 10th victory of the season.

But the Sox supported him in typically powerless fashion. Their only run came in the fifth on a run-scoring 40-foot single by Jim Landis.

Grant registered his first triumph over the Sox, after dropping six decisions to them last year and two this season. It was his 9th victory against 6 losses for the campaign.

The cliff-hanging Sox now have absorbed 11 one-run defeats and have won 31 single point decisions.

The Sox got to Grant for three hits in the fifth. Luis Aparicio singled and filched second for his 49th stolen base. Nelson Fox singled Aparicio to third. Then Landis scratched a 40-foot single off Grant's glove and Aparicio raced home.

Aparicio's lead-off double in the first inning was the only extra base hit allowed by Grant. He struck out 2 and walked 4.

Pizarro Scores For Milwaukee Over Cincinnati

Keeps Flag Hopes Alive With 6-2 Win

CINCINNATI (AP)—Juan Pizarro wavered in the last two innings but hung on for a seven-hit Milwaukee victory Sunday over Cincinnati 6-2.

It kept alive the flickering pennant hopes of the defending National League champs, now four games off the pace with 19 season games to go.

The Reds were powerless against Pizarro until the eighth inning when Ed Bailey led off with a double and Eddie Kasko singled him in.

The Milwaukee southpaw shut off that rally. But in the ninth, Frank Robinson led off with his 34th season homer. Frank Thomas and Ed Bailey lined out while Willie Jones drew a walk and Kasko doubled.

Pizarro bore down and struck out pinch hitter Pete Whisenant to end the game.

The only hits the Reds could extract from Pizarro in the first seven innings were Robinson's fourth-inning single and Kasko's double in the fifth.

Only three singles were needed in the Braves' three-run sixth inning when Cincinnati's prize young southpaw, Jim O'Toole was routed.

National Champions Vie In Motorcycle Hill Climb Today

Four Contests Are Set For Oldtown Road

Card Of Four Events To Start At 2 P.M.; Mosser To Officiate

National champions will head a field of approximately fifteen professional and amateur riders today in the motorcycle hill climbing program to be staged on Route 51, nineteen miles east of Cumberland and four miles west of Paw Paw on Oldtown Road.

Joseph W. Hemmis, Cumberland professional, and Harold Werner, Easton, Pa., amateur, who won national championships at Muskegon, Mich., August 9, top the list of slant riders who are 'ated to compete in the four events, the first of which will get under way at 2 p.m., EDT. Hemmis is also national point scoring champion for 1958-59.

First Since 1957

The hill climb will be the first in Western Maryland since June 16, 1957 when the slant riders competed on the Kline Farm Hill near the Cumberland Municipal Airport. The pro events were won by Howard Mitzel, York, Pa., and Joseph Hemmis, and amateur honors were captured by Charles Jacobs, Bangor, Pa., and Gordon Mitzel, York, Pa.

Jacobs, Earl Buck of Detroit, and Raleigh "Bobby" Johnson, were among the out-of-town riders who put in their appearance here yesterday. Jacobs finished second to Hemmis in the national championship test at Muskegon.

Other prominent riders expected to compete today are Kenny Hatton, Ontario, Canada; Andy Baycura, Pittsburgh; Clarence J. "Jake" Nealen and his son Duane, of Bedford, Ohio; Clarence "Tee" Hemmis, brother of Joe, and Clarence Eichner, of Columbus, Ohio.

"Flying Dutchmen" Vie

Clarence Harper, of Cumberland, who ranked ninth nationally as an amateur for 1958-59, will be among the contestants as will Paul and Joe Mayer, Gordon Mitzel and Beese Wendt, of York, Pa., better known as "Mitzel's Flying Dutchmen," and Herbert Hislop, of Muskegon, Mich.

Sam Kakabar, Beaverdale, Pa., who suffered a broken back in the hill climb here two years ago, is ridin again and is expected to be here but Clement "Buddy" Cosgrove, former Cumberland riding star and now a resident of Ohio, will be missing. He has been inactive since last year when he was injured at Dayton, Ohio.

Mosser To Officiate

Today's program shapes up as one of the best ever staged in the tri-state area and should attract a large holiday crowd. "Red" Mosser, of Altoona, Pa., will be the official referee for today's events.

Cash awards will go to the riders finishing first, second, third and fourth in every one of the four contests on today's card.

Motorcyclists gathered here last evening for the annual dinner meeting of the Hill Climbers' Association at the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall. This organization meets every year and submits rules changes and other proposals for the betterment of the sport to the American Motorcycle Association.

Phils Edge Pirates, 2-1, Roberts Decisions Law

Clemente's Error Ties Score, Sets Up Winning Tally

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A fielder's two-base error broke up a tight pitching duel in the eighth inning Sunday as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated Pittsburgh 2-1 and snagged the Pirates' National League pennant hopes.

The Pirates, now are in fourth place, still within striking distance of first place San Francisco.

Robin Roberts, the big right-hander, almost lost the game in the ninth when the Pirates loaded the bases with none out. But he started a double play that nipped the runner at third, then got the last batter to pop to the catcher. It was his 13th win against 15 losses.

The loser was Vernon Law (15-9). He gave up only five hits, but four of them were in the unlucky two-run eighth. Carl Sawatski got the first single. Roberts also singled and reached third when Roberto Clemente let the ball get through him in right field. Joe Koppe singled home Roberts with the winning run.

Pittsburgh collected its lone run in the eighth. Up to that point the Pirates had only one hit, in the sixth. Smoky Burgess doubled. Dick Schofield, running for Burgess, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on another.

In the ninth Glenn Nelson, batting for Law, singled. Bob Skinner also singled. Dick Groat then was hit by a pitch. Clemente lined to Roberts. The Phils missed a triple play at second base by just a step.

Orioles Edge Yankees, 5-4

Walker Bags 10th, Whitey Ford Loser

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hector Lopez' muff of a fly ball enabled the Baltiore Orioles to score the deciding run Sunday in a 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Lopez, a converted infielder, dropped Brooks Robinson's long drive to left field in the seventh inning for a three-base error.

Robinson then scored on Don Larsen's wild pitch for the Orioles fifth run of the game that proved to be the winning tally when the Yankees narrowed the gap later.

The Orioles hammered Whitey Ford for four runs in the first two innings with ex-Yankee Gene Woodling leading the assault.

Woodling homered in the first inning and singled home two runs in the Orioles' three-run second inning rally.

Yogi Berra drove in three runs for the Yankees with a sacrifice fly in the fourth, a homer in the sixth, and a force-out in the eighth. Norm Siebern's pinch-hit homer in the ninth provided the Yankees' last run.

Jerry Walker gained his 10th victory for the Orioles although he needed help from Hal Brown in the eighth when the Yankees loaded the bases with one out. Brown induced Berra and Lopez to ground out. Ford suffered his eighth defeat.

Boston Breaks Losing Streak

Brewer Is Winner Over Senators, 2-1

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Tom Brewer pitching a five-hitter and socking a home run, the Boston Red Sox snapped a five-game losing streak by nosing out Washington 2-1 Sunday.

Brewer's homer, his first of the year, came with none on in the third inning. The winning run came in the fifth as Don Buddin doubled and Pumpsie Green singled him home. Losing pitcher Pedro Ramos and reliefer Hal Woodeshick also allowed only five hits.

Green played a key role in cutting off Washington's bid to tie the game in the eighth. Roy Sievers' double over Jackie Jensen's head drove in one run. However, when Jim Lemon tried to make it all the way home from first base, Green took Jensen's throw on the outfield grass and fired a perfect peg to catcher Sam White to nail the sliding Lemon.

Belington Knocks Moorefield Out Of Playoffs, 4 To 2

Belington advanced to the finals of the playoffs in the Mountain State Baseball League by beating Moorefield yesterday at Belington by the score of 4-2.

The victory gave Belington a two-game sweep in the series and earned a shot at the winner of the Century-Mill Creek playoff series.

three-run rally punctuated by Fitzvater's triple and Jeran's two-bagger won the game for Belington in the fourth inning.

Joe Jeran worked 8⅔ innings on the rubber for Belington and notched the win. He yielded six hits, including a double and single by Harlan Hott. Bright retired the only batsman he faced in the 9th to end the game. Harold Mongold, who pitched until the fifth for the pennant winners, was charged with the loss. Score:

Russell Ponton Leads In Peskin Memorial Golf

Paces Field With 67 For First 18 Holes

Russell Ponton carded a net 72-5—67 yesterday to lead a field of 70 players for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole Morton Peskin Memorial Golf Tournament which will be concluded today at the Cumberland Country Club.

Ben LaNeve, who won the first leg on the Peskin trophy last year held the runner-up spot at the end of 18 holes with a net 76-5—71.

Other players in the top ten include:

George Garlitz 78-5—73, John Rokisky 78-5—73, Vince Panico 82-9—73, Harry White 78-5—73, Clifton Van Roby 77-3—74, "Steve" Johnson 76-2—74, Jerome Ellenson 79-5—74 and Jack Moberly 81-7—74.

In the odd hole tournament held over the weekend, George Garlitz was the winner with a net 35-3—32. Players with flags on par three holes were: No. 1—Max Bastian. No. 6—Harold Francis. No. 10—"Steve" Johnson. Nos. 15 and 18—Bill George.

Five first round matches were played yesterday in the fall tournament with results as follows:

Second Flight—George Schwarzenbach defeated Hollis Seavy, 1 up, 19th; Dr. Frank Leger defeated George Bottorf, 2 and 1; Bert Mason defeated R. J. Cannon, 3 and 2. Fourth Flight—Allan Tyler defeated Buford Saville, 5 and 3. Fifth Flight—Robert Gerson defeated Marvin Kaplon, 1 up, 19th.

In championship flight matches played Saturday, C. S. Catherman, Jr., defending champion, defeated Max Bastian, 3 and 2, Ed Mattingly eliminated Joe Wolfe, the medalist, 3 and 2, and "Steve" Johnson trimmed John Wilson, 7 and 6.

In the third flight, Dr. William Ryan defeated Bob Peterson, 2 up on the 18th.

Jockey Art Stone Suspended For Life

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico — (UPI) — A second jockey, Arthur Stone, was suspended—in effect—for life Sunday by the Caliente Stewards because of a Los Angeles County grand jury investigation into alleged race fixing.

Stone, one of the top riders and winner of many stakes races at top traces in the United States, has ridden such turf greats as Count Fleet and Polynesian.

He is named as a key figure in the grand jury probe into alleged fixing and doping horses at tracks in the states as well as here.

High School Gridder Dies From Injuries

PIQUA, Ohio (UPI)—A 16-year-old high school football player died about three hours after being tackled in a scrimmage game Saturday.

The youth—David Murray—had just completed a 48-yard touchdown run when he was tackled from behind by two other players. He never regained consciousness.

He was a halfback on the Covington, Ohio, High School team. His twin-brother, Douglas, is the other halfback.

Alex Olmedo Beats Flam

MacKay Eliminates 45-Year-Old Mulloy

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Peruvian Alex Olmedo played both his favorite roles—the jungle cat and the listless lamb — in squeaking through to a second round victory Sunday in the National Tennis Championships.

The top-seeded favorite, looking only at times like the clever court matador who swept to the Wimbledon title, outmaneuvered soft-baller Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in a two-hour match 7-5, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2.

Serves Popcorn Balls

It wasn't easy. Serving popcorn balls and shoving his "nothing" shots into the corners and over Olmedo's head, Flam gave the South American a rugged workout.

In the fourth set, Olmedo became so disturbed he turned angrily to the marquee and yelled: "Shut up, will you?"

Olmedo was joined in the round of 32 by his thunderbolt-serving teammate, Barry MacKay; Australia's Neale Fraser, Rod Laver, Roy Emerson and Bob Mark; India's Ramanathan Krishnan; Luis Ayala of Chile and a pair of ex-Wimbledon champions, Dick Savitt and Vic Seixas.

Fraser, individual star of the challenge round and seeded second, never lost a service in beating Mike Green of Miami, Fla., 8-6, 6-4, 6-1. His teammate, Rod Laver, toppled Frank Froehling III of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-4, 6-0, 6-2. Krishnan, seeded No. 5 erased Reginald Bennett, an Englishman attending Lamar Tech in Texas, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2. Ayala, No. 6, advanced over Forrest Stewart of Altadena, Calif., 6-2, 6-4, 6-0.

Mulloy Eliminated

MacKay seeded third, had his cannonball service smoking as he erased 45-year-old Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Emerson, No. 8, played sparkling tennis in beating British Davis Cupper Tony Pickard, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Savitt, from New York, cut down Pablo Eisenberg of Millburn, N.J., 9-7, 6-0, 6-2.

With top-seeded Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil idle, South Africa's doll-like Sandra Reynolds and Britain 6-foot Christine Truman led a sweep of favorites in the women's division.

Miss Reynolds, seeded No. 2, crushed Barbara Weigandt of Alexandria, Va., 6-1, 6-3. Miss Truman avenged a 1957 Wimbledon setback in beating Tiny Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., 7-5, 6-1.

Barton Braves Meet

A meeting of the Barton Braves, pennant winners in the Twilight Baseball League, will be held today at 7:30 p. m., at Kifer's Bowlmor Center, Barton, to discuss plans for playing a home-and-home series with Moorefield's All-Stars, regular season champions of the Mountain State League.

U.S. Takes Six Pan-American Rowing Races

Puerto Rico Beats U.S. Ball Team, 9-5

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States won six out of seven rowing races on the last full-scale day of competition in the Pan-American Games Sunday and sent its gold medal total to the mazing mark of 118.

Argentina with nine was the nearest rival.

What looked for a time like a clean sweep in swimming was interrupted when Mexico's Alvaro Gaxiola won the platform dive.

And in rowing, only Uruguay's victory in the pair oars with coxswain marred a Yankee sweep all the way from the single sculls victory of Harry Barker of Philadelphia up through the triumph of Syracuse's magnificent shell in the eight oar class.

When the daytime competition was nearly completed, the United States also had 70 silver medals, and 51 bronze medals. Argentina had 9-21-11 and Brazil 9-6-4.

In the last Pan-American Games in Mexico City the United States won 89 gold medals, 59 silver, and 38 bronze, and Argentina 28-13-29.

Among the day's victors were Lt. Daniel Puckel of Marion, Ind., who broke the world's record for the 300 meter free style rifle event with 1,147 out of a possible 1,200. The old mark was 1,139 set by Anatoli Boedanov of Russia in 1955. Puckel picked up four gold medals.

A grand slam home run by Reinaldo Vazquez in the ninth inning with one out gave Puerto Rico a victory over the United States in baseball 9-5, and dropped the United States to a third place tie with Cuba. Venezuela won the baseball title.

Round Table Runs Today At Arlington

Hillsdale To Run At Belmont Park

By The Associated Press

Round Table and Hillsdale, leading candidates for the handicap championship and horse of the year honors, headline the Labor Day racing card with appearances in widely separated races.

Round Table, world's leading money winner with earnings of $1,541,889, goes in the $100,000 added Washington Park Handicap in Arlington Park.

Hillsdale, idle since July 11 when he chalked up his eighth stakes triumph of the year with victory in the Hollywood Gold Cup, returns to action in a mere $15,000 race in Belmont Park. It's a 7-furlong affair serving as the secondary feature to the $50,000 added Jerome featuring Intentionally, the speedy 3-year old from Harry Isaacs Brookfield Farm.

Birds Buy Coleman

DETROIT (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics Sunday sold pitcher Rip Coleman to the Baltimore Orioles in a straight cash deal. The 28-year-old left-hander had a 2-10 record with the Athletics, who acquired him in February 1957 in a big trade with the New York Yankees. Terms of the sale were not announced.

Charles Lohr, Maryland Grid Player, Dies

Heat Exhaustion Given As Cause

BALTIMORE (UPI)— Charles "Sonny" Lohr, 19-year-old University of Maryland football player who collapsed on the practice field from heat exhaustion last Wednesday, died Sunday at University Hospital.

Lohr, a sophomore and a center on the football team had been in critical condition ever since his collapse. He grew weaker Sunday night and died at 5:30 a.m. e.d.t.

Lohr had been taken from the football field to Prince Georges County Hospital, not far from the university. Recently he was removed to the university hospital at Baltimore where an artificial kidney was used to treat a kidney infection.

Lohr of Blandensburg, Md., was the first string center on last year's freshman team at Maryland.

TV Quiz Show Probe To Begin On October 6

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House influence investigating subcommittee has announced it will launch public hearings Oct. 6 in its investigation of charges that some famous television quiz shows were rigged.

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said he hoped to complete the hearings within a week by holding all-day sessions.

The witness list was expected to include television network officials and some of the quiz show contestants, who received thousands of dollars in prizes.

Harris also announced that the subcommittee hoped to hear again sometime this fall from Boston textile manufacturer Bernard Goldfine. Harris said no definite date had been set, however.

Goldfine, who pleaded "no defense" to contempt of Congress charges here, will be given a chance to answer the questions he dodged during the subcommittee's original hearings on his tangled financial dealings.

The television quiz shows, which had wide public appeal, were the target of a nine-month investigation by a New York grand jury following charges that they were rigged to insure their popularity.

The grand jury returned a "presentment," or summary of its findings, which was sealed by the court. New York Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer agreed on Aug. 4 to release the presentment and the minutes of the inquiry to the subcommittee.

Harris said the subcommittee hoped to have a complete transcript of the grand jury testimony available at the opening of the October hearings.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — The first picture Jean Seberg will make for Columbia since Sam Briskin took over her contract from Otto Preminger, is "Let No Man Write My Epitaph." Jean is a girl of great courage. Her notices were very bad in "Joan of Arc," but she kept at it. She was much better in "Bonjour Tristesse," and best of all, I'm told, in the picture she made in London titled "The Mouse That Roared."

"Let No Man Write My Epitaph" is an out-and-out Columbia production. Jean's role is that of a girl from the right side of the tracks who marries a boy who is not quite as fortunate. Burl Ives, James Darren, and Shelley Winters, who plays Darren's mother, are in the cast.

Fabian's party at the Interlude brought out a lot of the younger generation, as well as many of the people with whom he has done business since he came to Hollywood.

He has a straight six year contract with 20th Century - Fox. He was paid $35,000 for his first picture, "Hound Dog Man" and for each succeeding picture the price goes up, and there are no options. He has one of the few straight contracts in town.

The more I see of this boy the better I like him. He seems so eager to please everyone, and he's unspoiled. One of the executives at 20th told me that he will be a very good actor, perhaps a better actor than a singer.

Ernest Borgnine has been set up by our State Department to fly to Moscow the last week in October to attend the Russian premiere of "Mary." This is the first film that will be shown in our cultural exchange program with the Reds.

To make this trip possible, Allied Artists is not only delaying the start of Ernie's next picture, "Pay Or Die," but Ernie himself may delay his marriage to Katy Jurado. Ernie tells me the civil ceremony uniting him and Katy will definitely be performed in this country, but he wants to wait 'til he has time for a real honeymoon. Meanwhile, he has to finish "Man On A String" for Columbia.

The party Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson gave after the opening of "The Gazebo" at Scandia, was in a way a farewell to Ros who leaves Friday for New York to rehearse for her Ford spectacular. Before going to the theatre, a few of us had a bite to eat at the Brissons, and I had a chance to admire Nedda Logan's necklace. She told me it had belonged to Lady Mendl. It is an Indian necklace of emeralds, set in gold, and backed with fascinating enamel.

Doris (Mrs. Jules) Stein, who had recently been to India, identified the piece of jewelry as coming from Jaipur. Roz had an equally beautiful ruby necklace and matching bracelet, gifts from Freddie.

Lance, the Brissons' stalwart son, escorted Johnny and Bunny Green's daughter—such a pretty girl. Jayne Meadows and Steve Allen told me they are very house conscious now that they have settled here. Their home is high on a hill in the valley, if you can fathom that paradox.

Television and Radio

Connoisseurs Of Charm

Bert Parks, the effulgent master of ceremonies who handles the annual Miss America telecast from Atlantic City, has written the Governors of all the states, calling them "connoisseurs of charm and talent," a nasty accusation if ever I heard one, and asking them what there was about their states that would produce the special glow needed in the next Miss America. Thirteen Governors and one Mayor rose to this sucker bait and answered, spitting adjectives and civic pride as if they were running for Miss America themselves.

"Having grown up amid such surroundings (forested mountains, soaring peaks, crystal mountain lakes, haunting purple-splashed buttes and deserts, foaming waterfalls and sparkling meadows), Idaho men get a taste for beauty," trumpeted Gov. Robert E. Smylie of guess where. "Idaho parents simply do not have daughters that cannot hold their own with the scenery."

Several of the other Governors decided that the local scenery had a lot to do with it. Said Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire: "A young girl, growing up in such an atmosphere of beauty, is aware at a very early age of the countless blessings of nature so abundant in New Hampshire, and her own personality, charm and feminine attractiveness are influenced by this awareness during her maturing years." Gov. J. Hugh Aronson, of Montana, trilled: "Any state with such lovely scenery could hardly help but have beautiful girls to match."

A close second to scenery ran the girl's ancestry and heritage which gave the Governors scope to ring in all sorts of boosts for the local electorate. Heading this school of prose poets was that old master of malarkey, Gov. Happy Chandler of Kentucky: "With the charm, friendliness and beauty received from grandmothers reared in the old South," wrote old Happy, the scene of orange blossoms rising like heady wine from the stationery, "our Kentucky girls are endowed with special qualities no other state can boast."

Those Southern Governors wield a mighty pen when it comes to laying on the blarney. New Mexico Gov. John Burroughs elbowed aside all other state business to delve deep into the business of female beauty—especially the New Mexican variety. "We have here the serene Indian maiden whose beauty dates back for centuries, the vivacious Spanish senorita who has maintained the charm of old Spain, the lively and interesting all-America girl—all three of them merging into one perfect pageant of potential Miss Americas." Until a better one comes along, this will stand as the ultimate paean to New Mexican womanhood, fitting to be studied in the public schools and perhaps carved in marble on the state house.

When you get out of the South, you run into a lot more variety on why the local babes are yummy—some of the reasoning pretty far-fetched, considered purely as anthropology. For instance Gov. Harold Handley of Indiana declared with a perfectly straight face: "We are located in the very center of this nation's heartland, and thus epitomize America's great heritage as well as being in the very forefront of America's present progress." (What's progress got to do with girls, Governor? There's been very little progress in that line since they stopped breathing through their gills.)

From South Dakota came a more realistic appraisal, chemically speaking. Gov. Ralph Herseth out there wrote that the many "beautiful young ladies we raise in South Dakota" were "a subtle blending of clean Dakota

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear father, James E. Twigg, who passed away 12 years ago, Sept. 7, 1947.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still.
His memory is as clear today,
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
THE CHILDREN — Thurman, Kermit, Phyllis, Mrs. Ervin A. Shrout.

ORDINANCE NO. 2117

AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND, ENTITLED, "AN ORDINANCE TO RESTRICT HEAVY TRUCKS AND HEAVY EQUIPMENT FROM USING CERTAIN STREETS, ALLEYS AND HIGHWAYS LOCATED WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS OF CUMBERLAND; AND PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF."

WHEREAS, certain streets, alleys and highways in the City of Cumberland were constructed many years ago; and

WHEREAS, many of said streets, alleys and highways in the City are now used by heavy trucks and equipment, for which use said streets, alleys and highways were not designed and great damage has resulted from such use of said streets, alleys and highways by said trucks and equipment; and

WHEREAS, many of the streets, alleys and highways in the City of Cumberland are narrow and were not designed for use by heavy trucks and equipment, which said streets are now being used by such trucks and equipment and as a result thereof traffic on such streets, alleys and highways has become congested and other hazards have resulted, all of which are a danger to life and property; and

WHEREAS many water and sewer lines were placed under the beds of certain streets, alleys and highways in the City of Cumberland prior to usage of the surface thereof by heavy trucks and equipment, which said streets are now being used by such trucks and equipment and damage to said water and sewer lines has been caused thereby.

NOW, THEREFORE:

SECTION 1. BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, That whenever it is necessary for the protection of any street, alley or highway, or the safety of traffic thereon to avoid congestion and other hazards which cause danger to life and property, the Mayor and City Council shall from time to time, by Order, designate and name streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof within the City Limits of Cumberland, whereon a limitation of load or weight of vehicles using such streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, shall be established. All such orders passed by said Mayor and City Council shall be considered as a part of this Ordinance.

SECTION 2. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That where it is necessary to protect the surface and or bed of streets, alleys and highways, the Mayor and City Council shall from time to time, by Order, designate and name streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof within the City Limits, whereon a limitation of load or weight of vehicles using such streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, shall be established, and all such Orders shall be considered as a part of this Ordinance.

SECTION 3. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That whenever it is necessary for the protection of water and or sewer lines located under the streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof within the City Limits, the Mayor and City Council shall from time to time, by Order, designate and name streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, whereon a limitation of load or weight of vehicles using such streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, shall be established, and all such Orders shall be considered as a part of this Ordinance.

SECTION 4. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That after the erection of said signs, it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to drive or operate upon said streets, alleys or highways, any vehicle, the weight load of which shall be in excess of the limit set by Order and posted on said streets, alleys or highways.

SECTION 5. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That any person, persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance, or any Order which is passed in accordance therewith, shall be subject to a fine of not less than Ten Dollars ($10.00) nor more than Fifty Dollars ($50.00) and, in default of payment of any fine imposed under this section, the convicted person shall be confined in the City or County Jail for not less than one (1) day nor more than thirty (30) days.

SECTION 6. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That any Ordinance or parts of Ordinances conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed.

SECTION 7. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That this Ordinance shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Passed this 31st day of August, 1959.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

Bonita and Jack Wrather also said they would soon be bidding us adieu on their yearly honeymooon trip to Europe.

About "Gazebo." I don't know when I have laughed as hard, and I wasn't alone. The entire audience roared with appreciation over a comedy based on, of all things, a murder. Tom Ewell is really tops when it comes to pantomime and his double-takes are screamingly funny.

I loved Jan Sterling who not only looks like a doll but is excellent in her giddy role. Her proud husband, Paul Douglas, had a seat in front, and had to go home and change his shirt (he was so nervous for Jan) before he could come to the Brisson party afterward. Jan told me that Paul is wonderful in that he never asked her to give up her career, even though it separated them.

Vincent Barbi, who plays one of the gangsters, told me he had written to me saying that some day he would see me in Hollywood. "And here I am," he said, "all the way from Rome!" He's good, too, and so is Don Briggs.

Debbie Reynolds and Glenn Ford have the Sterling and Ewell roles in the motion picture version of "Gazebo" at MGM.

Back from her honeymoon, Margaret O'Brien Allen, as she called herself when she telephoned to report in, is still on cloud 9. She loved Honolulu, she is radiantly happy, and the only dark cloud is that she leaves the last of the month for New York. She's booked to do "Back Country" for the U.S. Steel Hour.

"My husband can't go with me," said Margaret, "because he'll be in school, but we'll write each other every day." I was pretty sure Bob wouldn't let anything interfere with his education, and I think he's right. He wants to graduate and go to work.

New International Air Mail Stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Post Office has announced that a new 15-cent orange and black international air mail stamp, intended primarily for use to Europe and the Middle East, will go on sale Nov. 20.

The stamp will feature a drawing of the State of Liberty with the slogan "Liberty for All" immediately above and on the left. The lettering "U.S. mail" and the denomination "15C" are arranged in the right with a jet airplane silhouetted superimposed over the "U."

About three months after birth, a baby's eyes become able to focus distinctly.

Brushing enhances natural-looking waves and brings out the beauty of a permanent.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Yours For More Beautiful Hair

One of the most foolish fears some girls have is believing the old wive's tale about not brushing the hair after it is set. They think it ruins the "set" or harms a permanent wave. Actually, just the opposite is true. It will improve the hair and make it look more natural and softened.

All good hairdressers brush the hair thoroughly as soon as they remove the pins. Proper brushing encourages a "set" into tractability — and it will last longer. Most hairdressers arrange a fresh hairdo with a brush rather than a comb.

Hair has come in for a grooming, not only with the brush, but by the experts. Paris pace-setters brush and brush the hair behind the ears to give a well-groomed look and to get away from the untidy gamin look of the past seasons.

Brushing helps you to find your natural waves. If you don't brush your hands to such tasks. If you can't work with them on, dig your nails into a bar of pure soap first. Less dirt will get imbedded under them and what does will wash out easier.

"Hand-y Hints"

Do your nails split when you pry open bobby pins, untie knots on your shoelaces, or punch typewriter keys? Maybe you need a little more calcium in your diet to make your nails stronger. Some women find that eating gelatin works miraculously. Still other nails just need a little extra pampering.

Every time you wash your hands be sure you rinse and dry thoroughly. Press back your cuticles as you dry. Always follow up with a tiny amount of hand lotion or cream.

Give yourself a manicure every week. Between manicures soak your nails in warm castor oil for ten minutes. Always buff the nails well when the polish has been removed. Buff in one direction—this avoids heating. Shape your nails with a long emery board, taking strokes from side to center, never in a back and forth sawing motion. All this keeps nails healthy looking and prevents them from getting brittle or breaking easily.

Save your nails — use letter openers for opening everything from rent bills to cereal box tops. When you have to clean out your closet or do a lot of gardening or any dirty job, wet your hands and rub with dry oatmeal followed by a good sudsing with soap. The heavy dirt will roll off fast. Of course, it's always wise to wear gloves when exposing air, sunny climes and nourishing food, combined with a healthy environment and a generous mixture of Western hospitality.

"Produces some of the finest girls in the nation," he said, sounding a little like a cattle breeder extolling the stock.

A lot of the Governors either didn't or, at any rate, haven't yet answered Mr. Parks. From only one was a definite snub and it came from her Majesty's representative in Canada, a very stiff-necked epistle which ran in full:

"Referring to your letter of the 17th August, the Governor General wishes me to let you know that he has no comments to offer which would be of any help to you in your assignment as master of ceremonies at the forthcoming pageant in Atlantic City."

Blessing Of Fishing Fleet Carried Over To Air Age

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The age-old custom of blessing the fishing fleet has been carried over into the air age.

At least one major airline conducts an annual ceremony calling down God's favor on its aircraft, their crews and passengers.

Irish Air Lines, the commercial air arm of 94 per cent Catholic Ireland, has been holding the ceremony at Dublin Airport each June for the past two decades.

In the belief of Roman Catholics and some Protestants, a blessing places the item blessed—be it a person, a ship, a harvest or even a typewriter—under the special protection of God.

Notable blessing ceremonies in the United States are those conducted annually for the fishing fleet at Gloucester, Mass., and the shrimp fleet in Biloxi, Miss.

The blessing of the Irish air fleet, invoking God through the Virgin Mary, consists of prayers, a short sermon and an invocation.

Not content with an annual blessing, the Irish also bestow their planes with patron saints, a particularly appropriate move since the Irish holy men were a well-traveled group.

The aircraft are watched over by such saints as:

St. Patrick, the patron of all Ireland, who probably was born in Britain, studied for the priesthood in France and paid at least one visit to Rome.

St. Columban, who helped revive the Christian faith on the European continent by establishing monasteries in France, Switzerland and Italy.

St. Cathal, who visited the Holy Land, was shipwrecked near Taranto, Italy, and spent the rest of his life preaching in southern Italy.

St. Brendan, who traveled so widely that, for a long time, he was believed by some to have discovered America before Columbus.

Three Injured In Auto Crash On Route 50

Five Persons Hurt Near Bloomington

Three persons were hospitalized here last night with injuries sustained in an auto accident on U.S. Route 50 in nearby Mineral County, W.Va.

Full details were not available late last night.

Last night's accident was the second area highway accident in two days, marring the long Labor Day holiday.

Five Hurt In Crash

Five persons were injured, three of them hospitalized, on Saturday with injuries sustained in a one-car accident on Backbone Mountain about two miles west of Bloomington on Route 135.

Admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser were Mrs. Virginia Mae Wilson, 39, of RD 1, Bloomington, who was the most seriously injured; her husband, Forrest Raymond Wilson, 39; and Dailey Woodward Shockey, 39, of RD 1, Keyser, the driver of the automobile.

Hospital attaches said yesterday that Mrs. Wilson, who was admitted in serious condition, is "somewhat improved" and the two other persons are in "good" condition.

Injuries Severe

Mrs. Wilson sustained a possible fractured skull and an injury to her spine. Her husband suffered a laceration of his left arm and abrasions on the right side of his face. Mr. Shockey sustained a laceration above the right eye, abrasions of his chest, arms and face, and had his right ear almost torn off, Trooper R. C. Dishong of the State Police said.

Trooper Dishong said the driver was traveling west on the highway about 4:15 p. m. Saturday and apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

The car left the north side of the highway, hit some rocks and continued on for some distance before turning over on its top.

Church Ground Broken

Ground was broken yesterday morning for the construction of a $115,000 sanctuary and classrooms at Grace Baptist Church, 213 Greene Street. The first shovel of dirt was turned over by Rev. W. Randolph Keefe Jr., center, pastor of the church who conducted the responsive reading, dedicatory prayer and benediction. Others who took part in the ceremony are J. K. Trenton, left, chairman of finance committee and treasurer of the building committee, and Fern Wilson, right, chairman of the building committee. Work on the new structure will begin soon. The R. G. Robeson Construction Company, city, is contractor for the project.

Soil Sample Report Shows County Farms Need Lime

About 71 per cent of the farm land in Allegany County is in need of more lime, according to a summary of Maryland Soil Test Results this year, Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent said yesterday.

He said a total of 140 soil samples were procured in the county and forwarded to the Agricultural Experiment Station at College Park to be analyzed.

Mr. Steger said 71 per cent of the land sampled is below a pH reading of 6.5 to 7 which is ideal for the growing of crops.

In reference to the fertilization of farm land in the county, Mr. Steger pointed out that 50 per cent is medium or low in phosphate and in need of it for good growth.

He said that 42 per cent of the land is high in phosphate and is in good shape for crops.

Mr. Steger pointed out that 58 per cent of the farm land is medium or low in potash and fertilizer must be added.

The county agent said that farmers who had their soil tested will be informed as to the amount of lime or fertilizer required for producing certain crops.

Mr. Steger said he gets quite a number of calls on the treatment of soil for producing better lawns. Anyone desiring a sample test run may do so by bringing in about a pint of dry soil to Mr. Steger's office at the Court House.

It is a good idea to get soil samples at random and from various sections of a field, said Mr. Steger.

Noted China Missionary To Speak Here

Miss Gladys Aylward, author of the story "The Small Woman" which appeared in Reader's Digest magazine and portrayed by Ingrid Bergman in the movie "Inn of the Sixth Happiness" will speak at the new First Methodist Church on Frederick Street Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Miss Aylward, who is from England, is appearing in this country on a speaking tour sponsored by the World Vision, Inc., an interdenominational missionary-service agency.

Miss Aylward spent more than 20 years in China as a missionary.

There will be no admission charge to Miss Aylward's talk at the new church at 1707 Frederick Street.

Local Baptist Unit To Host Meeting

The Women's Missionary Society of Grace Baptist Church will be host to all the Baptist churches in Cumberland and Frostburg at a study meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

The group will study the book "Christian Witnessing." Teachers for the session will be Mrs. Elwood Settle, First English Baptist Church, and Mrs. Wesley Harris, Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, both of Frostburg, and Mrs. J. C. Ledbetter, Bedford Road Baptist Church.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Charles Eversole and Mrs. Russell Dawson.

Rheumatic Fever Booklet Available At Heart Office

The Allegany - Garrett County Heart Association has a free booklet available to parents entitled "Home Care of the Child with Rheumatic Fever."

Copies of this 24-page illustrated booklet may be obtained at the association office or by writing to the association at 111 Union Street.

The booklet was prepared especially for parents of youngsters for whom hospital treatment is either not advised or not available.

It contains basic information and hints useful in the care of sick children in general, and offers practical pointers on home nursing techniques. The article also includes suggestions for dealing with the psychological and emotional problems that are likely to arise when a youngster is confined to bed for more than a week or two.

The booklet points out that it is necessary to explain to the sick child the importance of following the doctor's orders. The child also should be helped to accept some responsibility for planning and carrying out the limited activity routine while he remains in bed.

The rheumatic fever control program was started in Allegany-Garrett County by the local Heart Association in 1955. Today the active case load is 228 patients who receive penicillin daily in the step toward prevention of "strep" infections and subsequent attacks of rheumatic fever.

Also available to these patients are all types of hospital bedside equipment on a free-loan basis.

Forms Mailed For Estimated Income Tax

Irving Machiz, district director of Internal Revenue, has announced third-quarter installment notices for federal estimated income taxes have been mailed to taxpayers who are due to make payment on or before September 15.

Mr. Machiz said taxpayers should return the bills with their payments so that proper credit may be given.

He also added that even though they were not required to file a declaration of estimated tax on April 15, changes in income or exemptions may require that a declaration be filed at a later date.

In such a case, Mr. Machiz said, the time for filing is as follows: September 15 if the change occurs after June 1 and before September 2; January 15, 1960 if the change occurs after September 1. The estimated tax may be paid in full or in equal installments on the remaining payment dates.

A taxpayer must file an amended declaration if the estimated tax is substantially different than that estimated on the declaration. This declaration should be marked amended, and filed with the same district director who received the original declaration.

Amended declaration forms may be secured from the district director's office.

Cut-Rate Plan:

Bearded 'Santa' Conducts One-Man Peace Crusade

Albert S. Falk, a man with a Santa Claus beard and a philosophy to match, arrived in Cumberland over the weekend to sell his 25-cent plan for world peace.

Mr. Falk, 67-year-old Minnesotan who describes himself as America's only registered lobbyist for world peace, came here from Hagerstown.

He's on his way to Pittsburgh and then to Cleveland, where he hopes to enlist the aid of industrialist Cyrus Eaton, himself a noted advocate of international understanding.

Mr. Falk said he's been making trips to publicize the cause of the poor and the need for world peace for the past 30 years. His current junket has already lasted for a year and a half and has taken him as far as Cuba.

His plan is relatively simple. It calls for destruction of armaments and abolition of military forces. The money saved by each government would be distributed to all its citizens. Mr. Falk figures this would mean a share of $100 a month for everybody over 21.

The author of the plan sells copies for a quarter. They used to be a dollar, but he said the lower price brought him a better market. The leaflets are modestly titled "America's Greatest Plan for World Peace."

He has sent copies to nearly every world leader he could think of, and has asked for the support of the U.S. and Soviet governments, so far without much effect.

Mr. Falk, who said he used to be a high wire walker in a circus, now devotes all his time to selling his plan. He drives around in an old car covered with peace slogans.

He finds that his beard—which flows unrestrained over half his chest — attracts considerable attention, not all of it favorable.

"But it went over big in Cuba," he said.

Dorothy Lamour Stops For Gas At Belle Grove

Dorothy Lamour, the movie actress who has appeared in many films about roads in her career, traveled along the historic National Road yesterday.

The actress, her husband and two sons stopped at Roby's service station at Belle Grove along U.S. Route 40 at the eastern end of Allegany County about 7:30 o'clock last night.

They were traveling east in a station wagon bearing California tags and the credit card she used bore the name of Mrs. Dorothy Lamour Howard. They stopped about 10 minutes. She told the station attendant they were planning to move to Hagerstown.

4 Vacationers Hurt In Crash In Ontario

Four area persons, on vacation in Canada last week, were hospitalized with injuries sustained in a one-car accident about six miles from Cornwall in the Province of Ontario.

Mrs. Pearl E. Keith, 35, of 638 North Centre Street, most seriously injured; her husband, Rudolph H. Keith, 29; her mother, Mrs. Corrine Deffinbaugh and a brother, Gordon Deffinbaugh, both of Oldtown, were admitted to Cornwall General Hospital.

Mrs. Keith, who suffered a fractured pelvis and facial injuries, underwent surgery on her eyes Friday and is expected to be hospitalized until mid-October.

Her husband suffered a fractured ankle. Mrs. Deffinbaugh and her son, who were less seriously injured, returned home Saturday night by bus.

The accident occurred about 1 p.m. last Monday as the vacationers were driving toward Montreal.

Mrs. Keith, who was driving the car on the highway, wet with rain, lost control of the vehicle, which skidded into some gas pumps at a service station and turned over.

Mr. Keith is an employe of the Queen City Brewing Company. His wife is employed at Allegany Instrument Company.

Next Holiday Due Saturday

A second legal state holiday is in store this week.

Saturday is Defenders' Day, the anniversary of the Battle of North Point in which the British were thwarted in their efforts to take Baltimore in the War of 1812.

The few offices in the Court House and Union Street Building which observe Saturday hours probably will be closed all day Saturday.

San Francisco Volume Among New Library Books

A volume about San Francisco is among the new and interesting books now available at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, assistant to Miss Mary G. Walsh, the librarian, reports that Herb Caen has written a colorful and entertaining story of life, people and places in modern San Francisco. There are many interesting anecdotes about such people as Saroyan, Kathleen Norris, Harry Bridges, Joe DiMaggio and many others. Miss Cain says "Bagdad By The Bay" is a worthy successor to "Don't Call It Frisco" and "The San Francisco Book."

"The Vatican" by Jean Neuvecelle presents a lucid account of the organization of the Vatican City, its customs and way of life. The magnificent ceremonies and colorful services are vividly described by the veteran Vatican correspondent for an important French newspaper.

"The Firsts of American Jewish History" by Tina Levitan contains an amazing story of accurate information about the first connections of the Jewish people with America, from the time of the Spanish and Portuguese background of discovery, right down to the atomic age. It is believed by many that this text will be influential in the cause of tolerance and good will.

The Cumberland Ministerial Association has presented the Library with many excellent and interesting religious books. These books, together with volumes in the Library's religious section, will be a source of joy and consolation to all denominations, according to Miss Cain.

For the junior readers, the Library recommends the Row-Peterson Film-Story books by Mabel O'Donnell. This series describes the habits, customs and manners of the Chinese, English, French, Italian, Japanese, Norwegian and Spanish children. These books are well written and illustrated with authentic photographs from the various countries.

Union Official To Speak At Labor Picnic

Mt. Calvary Site Of Annual Event

Solomon "Al" Barkin, research director of the Textile Workers Union of America, will be the guest speaker today at the annual Labor Day picnic sponsored by the Western Maryland Central Labor Council.

The picnic will be held at Mt. Calvary grounds on Mason Road and will feature pony rides for the youngsters, games, athletic events and a musical program.

The Men of LaSalle, who have been given the food concession for the picnic, have secured the services of Robert Holmes who will be in charge of the kitchen.

The menu for today's event will include ham and chicken dinners, hot dogs, hamburgers, baked ham sandwiches and ice cream.

The LaSalle organization will have six ponies available for youngsters to ride. A cotton candy machine also will be at the picnic site.

Drinks, which will be supplied by the union and which will be free to all who attend, will be dispensed by the Men of LaSalle.

Miss Etta Marie Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Benson of Spring Gap, is one of 16 student nurses at the Lutheran Hospital School of Nursing in Baltimore who will receive diplomas and graduate caps at 8 p. m. Friday during a lawn ceremony at the school.

Miss Mary Price, director of nurses at Johns Hopkins Hospital, will deliver the commencement address.

Miss Benson is a 1956 graduate of Fort Hill High School.

Man Arrested For Failing To Help Policeman

Wouldn't Summon Aid, Officer Says

A local man was arrested early yesterday morning and was charged with refusing to assist a policeman attempting to arrest another man.

Raymond F. Zegler, 327 Bedford Street, was charged with refusing to assist a policeman in violation of Chapter 18, Section 8 of the City Code. He posted bond of $5 pending a hearing in Police Court.

James Cranford, city, who was charged with three violations, including disturbing the peace and resisting arrest, was confined to City Jail until yesterday evening when $80 bond was posted.

The two men were arrested by Officers Joseph Harvey and James Bohn, and will be given hearings later this week.

Officer Harvey got a report of a disturbance at a local restaurant early yesterday morning, took Cranford out of the business establishment and told him to go home.

When the policeman got the man outside, Cranford created a disturbance and took a swing at the police officer. Officer Harvey asked Zegler, who was standing nearby, to go to Police Headquarters for another policeman to help put Cranford in the patrol wagon.

Officer Harvey asked the man a second time but he shook his head, the policeman said. A cab driver went to headquarters for help, Officer Harvey said.

Third Death Involving Fire Strikes Family

Gilbert Junior Fulk, 29, a former resident, was burned to death Friday night in a rooming house fire in Mansfield, Ohio. His death was the third tragedy involving fire which has struck the Fulk family.

The first tragedy to strike the Fulk family occurred when Bruce T. Fulk, father of Gilbert, died in Allegany Hospital October 14, 1946, of injuries sustained when he was thrown from the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company truck, while answering a call to a blaze in Frantztown.

While traveling on Baltimore Pike the truck skidded on a patch of wet leaves and threw Fulk to the road, fatally injuring him.

James Fulk, another son of the victim of the fire truck accident, was burned to death February 14, 1949, at the age of 21, when his home was set ablaze by an overheated kerosene heater.

Five of the children of Bruce Fulk were sent to Mooseheart, the children's home maintained by the Moose Lodge. Three of them are still at the home with two others now married.

The victim of the Friday night blaze was born in Virginia, January 4, 1930, and was employed as a home building construction worker.

He was a son of the late Bruce T. and Ada (Smith) Fulk. He is survived by six sisters, Mrs. Ray Hiser, Mansfield; Mrs. Charles Faulkner, Riverside, Calif., Mrs. John Cruz, Mt. Savage; Mrs. Junior Granke, Chambersburg, Pa.; Mrs. William Wilhelm, Cleveland, and Miss Joyce Fulk, Mooseheart; and three brothers, Wayne Fulk, Riverside, and Dennis and William Fulk, both of Mooseheart.

The maternal grandfather, Gibson Smith, is a resident of Cumberland.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home where friends will be received from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today. It will then be taken to Genoa, W.Va., where services will be conducted Tuesday at 1 p.m. with Rev. Max Fisher officiating. Interment will be in the Oak Grove Cemetery.

Deaths

Darden, Mrs. George Sr., 57, Elkins, W. Va.

Durst, Mrs. Ruth O., 66, Grantsville.

Traffic Deaths Soaring

Holiday Toll Running Ahead Of Last Year

Traffic	264
Boating	9
Non-boating drownings	15
Miscellaneous	33
Total	321

Millions of Americans on the last big summer fling clogged the country's highways Sunday and sent the Labor Day holiday traffic death toll spiraling up.

The death count in traffic accidents ran far higher Sunday than in the comparable period of last year's holiday. Then 420 were killed by motor vehicles during the three-day 78-hour holiday.

At one time the rate was more than 25 per cent faster than a year ago. Then it slowed a bit.

The National Safety Council, in a pre-holiday estimate, said 450 persons would die. As the toll climbed an official of the NSC said:

"The pace of the toll has slowed a bit, but it still is running ahead of last year.

"We ask every driver to act as his own traffic officer and to accept personal responsibility for preventing an accident—the one he might cause.

"Safety law enforcement is working at an emergency peak. It's traffic that calls for unusual care and alertness.

"Yet, many potential victims—drivers and their passengers—are relaxed and careless. Accidents and deaths could be held down. But now, it's strictly up to the drivers."

The safety council estimated that 71 million vehicles will be in operation at some time during the holiday period from 6 p.m., Friday, to midnight Monday.

The worst danger was the head-on crash, a split-second killer. Such smashups killed five in Missouri; killed four and injured six in Iowa; killed four Marines in Virginia; killed three men in Ohio, and left two women and a man dead in West Virginia.

Widespread good weather was a big factor in the highway turnout.

Morse's Delaying Tactics Bog Down Adjournment Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower returns from Europe Monday to find Congress suddenly bogged down in its adjournment drive — mostly because of the one-man slowdown being staged by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

The congressional aim had been to get out of town by the end of this week, before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrives Sept. 15, but now there is no sign of when the windup will come.

Several major items of legislation have yet to be disposed of, including such highly controversial issues as foreign aid and civil rights. Also to be settled is whether anything is to be done about Eisenhower's vetoes of housing and public works programs.

Despite the fading hopes of going home this week, both the Senate and House will hold rare Labor Day sessions. The House will dispose of a batch of relatively minor bills, paving the way for more important legislation later in the week.

Just how much the Senate can accomplish will depend on the outcome of the parliamentary tug-of-war between Morse and the leadership. Morse succeeded in snarling things up Saturday and it was only toward the end of a session lasting 13 hours and 10 minutes that the Senate was able to pass one bill.

That measure would raise the federal gasoline tax from three to four cents a gallon for the next 21 months to keep the interstate highway construction program from stalling for lack of money.

The Senate will at least start off Monday with Morse apparently blocked off from reading a three-volume history of the labor movement, as he has threatened. But the peppery Oregonian could very well pull something else out of his well-stocked bag of delaying tricks.

The Senate will take up a bill to continue the disposal of farm surpluses abroad. It was agreed last Wednesday to limit debate on this measure to 30 minutes on each amendment and two hours on the bill itself.

This agreement precludes Morse from any lengthy speech, at least as long as the parliamentary situation isn't switched.

Morse says he is stalling the drive toward adjournment to prevent Congress from quitting before Khrushchev arrives.

"We the Congress should be on hand, shoulder to shoulder with the President," Morse declared, saying Congress has responsibility too for foreign affairs.

Morse also said he is protecting his parliamentary rights. He accused Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas of dictatorship in calling the Saturday and Labor Day sessions.

Cabinet Group Calls Inflation Grave Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Cabinet committee headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon warned anew Sunday against inflationary forces. It said it is making researches now on which it will recommend a comprehensive program for price stability and economic growth.

In a report titled "The Record on Prices"—second in a series—the committee said practically all rises in the price level in the past generation have differed from the up-and-down historical record in that they have become permanent and thus cumulative.

So, it added, even small increases are dangerous in a way that they were not before.

"This means," the committee said, "that preventing rises in the price level will require in the future more vigilant and vigorous public policies than have been pursued in the past generation."

The report went on to say, however, that, "Our history gives a sound basis for optimism that vigilant and vigorous public policies can in all probability achieve reasonable stability of the general price level."

In saying public policies for "combatting inflation" must be more energetic in the future than in the past 25 years, the committee seemed to be trying to correct any impression that it is relaxing its concern over inflation dangers.

Some people gained such an impression from the committee's Aug. 17 report which omitted the word "inflation" in a 1,600-word statement and appeared to shift emphasis to promoting economic growth. A committee member said at that time, however, that the Nixon task force was not scrapping the word "inflation," but merely using another term because many people do not know what "inflation" means.

Crashes Kill Three In Md.

By The Associated Press

A car which State Police said apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed left a Washington County highway Saturday night and killed the driver, increasing Maryland's Labor Day violent death toll to three.

The latest victim of a rash of holiday accidents was 63-year-old Samuel L. Shank of R F D 3, Waynesboro, Pa.

He was dead on arrival at a Hagerstown hospital with a fractured skull.

State Trooper E. L. Baum said the car failed to negotiate a curve on Marsh Pike road about 22 miles north of Hagerstown, hit a road sign and the guide wire of a pole. The car then skidded sideways into a field. Skidmarks were visible for 393 feet, Baum reported.

The first fatalities occurred early Saturday when a car rammed into an embankment near Chestertown. The victims were Earl Robert Syter, 35, and his wife, Dorothy, 30, of Lynch, Kent County.

Vocalist's $14,900 Necklace Missing

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A former vocalist with Tommy Dorsey's orchestra complained to police Sunday that her Tiffany 43-diamond necklace, valued at $14,900, was missing.

Mrs. Janice Edwards, who sang under the name of Janice Maxwell, said she first noticed the loss after leaving Tantilla Gardens ballroom shortly before midnight Friday.

Club Manager William F. Via said a search failed to turn up any trace of the necklace.

Ken Maynard Held In Slaying

PINEVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—Ken Maynard, 23, of nearby Cyclone, was held in the Wyoming County jail Sunday without bond on a charge of murder.

Sheriff Bert Short said Maynard was charged with the shooting of Blane Cook, 32, also of Cyclone following an argument between the two men near the Maynard home Saturday night.

Actress Kay Kendall, 32, Dies At Height Of Career

LONDON (AP)—Kay Kendall, enchanting and sophisticated beauty of film and stage, died Sunday at the height of her career.

The 32-year-old wife of Rex Harrison, droll star of the musical smash hit "My Fair Lady," succumbed to leukemia—cancer of the blood. Harrison was at her side in the London Clinic when she died.

Miss Kendall, gay English girl who was born in a family of theatrical tradition going back four generations, had entered the hospital eight days ago. She then appeared wan and wasted, having been in poor health for 20 months.

The long-stemmed, slender English beauty had captivated all who knew her, both personally and in her stage and screen performances. She had few rivals in gay, high comedy roles.

She scored her first major triumph several years ago as the trumpet-playing beauty in the comedy film "Genevieve," one of Britain's most successful postwar film hits.

"Sparkling," "subtle," "enchanting," "bewitching," and "delicious," the critics had said of her performance in this and other films. The same adjectives were used by her friends to describe Miss Kendall as a person. One of her biggest hits was in the film "Les Girls," with Gene Kelly. This picture was accorded the honor of a royal command performance in 1957.

She began her career in the chorus at the London Palladium at the age of 12. She had started ballet training at the same time.

Communication Via Satellites Forecast

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Wernher von Braun, the United States' German-born rocket expert, said Sunday an earth satellite communication relay system would soon make transatlantic cables and shortwave transmissions redundant.

He said the United States is working on a project which provides for the stationing of three satellites about 23,000 miles distant from the globe, at the equator. The three satellites would make it possible to connect any point on earth with another by means of bundled "centimeter waves," Von Braun said. The satellites would be ferried to their final destination by the Saturn rocket, now in the testing stage.

New Disarm Talks Slated By Big Four

Soviet Agreement Before Khrush Visit Called Significant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, Russia, Britain and France have agreed to end a two-year deadlock by setting up a 10-nation commission to recommend ways of ending the arms race, official sources said Sunday night.

They said the decision would be announced within a day or two. The Big Four powers have been unable to get together on the question since London talks by a United Nations subcommittee blew up in disagreement in September, 1957.

Significant Development

U. S. officials viewed Russia's agreement to engage in new arms talks particularly significant because it came on the eve of the scheduled visit to this country of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

They said President Eisenhower considers disarmament to be the most important single matter he plans to discuss with Khrushchev.

The new commission was expected to start work soon. The aim will be to make some headway toward solving such touchy problems as ending production of fissionable weapons materials, trimming current atomic stockpiles and conventional military forces and setting up a system to prevent surprise attack.

Overall Formula Needed

Since the London talks broke down in 1957, the United States, Britain and Russia have made some headway at Geneva toward devising a system to police an atomic test ban. They failed, however, to come up with methods of lessening the danger of surprise attack.

The Western allies hope the new commission can produce a wide range of recommendations for tackling the overall disarmament problem rather than isolated sections of it. The London talks broke down after Russia rejected a Western proposal for a package disarmament deal.

Miss America Pageant Opens

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI) —The 32nd Miss America Pageant opens Monday with entrants at odds over the role of bathing suits in the beauty contest.

Some of the 54 shapely girls said they thought it was a good idea to parade their pulchritude before the public and the judges.

Some did not like the idea at all. Others were neutral.

A few admitted their feelings reflected how they looked in bathing suits. But they all agreed that bathing beauty would be the least important phase of the contest to select a Miss America of 1960, who will stump the nation making speeches, modeling clothes and appearing at conventions for a total of close to $100,000.

The question of swim suits came up as a result of a recent decision to suspend the annual Miss Universe bathing beauty contest at Long Beach, Calif. Mrs. America traded her swim suit for a house dress several years ago.

Plans To Lunch With Iceland's Top Officials

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—President Eisenhower went to church in the Tam O'Shanter country of poet Robert Burns Sunday, got in a last round of golf on a Scotch course and decided to head for home Monday.

He was reported convinced that his tour of Western Europe has bolstered the Allies for dealing with the Soviet Union.

The President, who has been golfing and resting here since Friday, arranged to take off from the American Air Force base at nearby Prestwick at 10 a.m. GMT—5 a.m. EST. He plans a refueling stop in Iceland, where he will lunch with that island-nation's President Asgeir Asgeirsson and other officials.

Due At 3:45 P. M.

The President's big jet airliner is due in Washington at 3:45 p.m. EST. If the weather is good he will land at National Airport. If it is bad he will put down at Andrews Air Force Base across the Potomac River from the capital.

There had been indications Eisenhower might stay on in Scotland for another day or two. In announcing plans for departure Monday, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said no emergency of any kind had arisen.

"He just decided he wanted to be home Monday afternoon," Hagerty told a news conference.

Sunday morning, in glorious sunny weather, Eisenhower attended Church of Scotland services in a 182-year-old church in Kirkoswald parish, about two miles from Culzean Castle, where he has a 16-room apartment, given to him after the war by the Scottish people.

Pastor Welcomes President

At the services, the pastor, the Rev. Mr. George Iving, welcomed Eisenhower from the pulpit and told him: "I trust you will feel at home here because this is your parish and we pray that your stay here will help you to bear the heavy burdens which are yours as president of the United States."

The pastor's sermon, based on the Book of Samuel, stressed the importance of prayer and the need for it in handling of the world's problems.

Ex-Rep. May, Bribery Case Figure, Dies

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Andrew Jackson May, a power in Congress until war-bribe charges ruined him, died Sunday in a hospital.

The 84-year-old Democrat entered the hospital four days ago with a kidney infection and complications.

May, a backwoods lawyer who first went to Congress in 1930 and became chairman of the potent House Military Affairs Committee, was convicted at Washington in 1947 with munitions makers Murray and Henry Garsson of conspiring to defraud the government.

He was accused of accepting $53,000 in bribes from the Garssons. It was charged by the government he used his influence to obtain contracts and other favors for the brothers in World War II.

May and the Garssons were sentenced to from eight months to two years in federal prison. May's attorney twice carried his case to the U.S. Supreme Court but was unsuccessful and May in 1949 went to the federal correctional institution near Ashland, Ky. He was paroled after nine months and 13 days.

In refusing to reduce May's sentence, U.S. Dist. Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut said sternly: "The integrity of the national Congress is at stake."

The Garsson brothers were confined at Danbury, Conn. They were released in 1951. Murray died March 26, 1957, penniless and homeless. Henry lives in New York and is a consulting engineer.

Witnesses at their sensational trial included some of the top brass of World War II. Both President Eisenhower, then a general, and then Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson testified that May asked favors of them for the Garssons and their friends.

May maintained his innocence to the end, and his popularity in this eastern Kentucky mountain area never waned, although he was defeated for re-election in 1946.

Episcopal Bishop Raps White House

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Episcopal bishop of California Sunday criticized the White House for ignoring his invitation to Nikita Khrushchev to attend nonsectarian church services here Sunday, Sept. 20.

That "suggests that the place of religion in American life is not as important as that of the other aspects of American life" included in the Soviet Premier's tour, the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike told a Grace Cathedral audience.

"This omission would present our country to him on the same materialistic basis that we criticize in the Soviet ideology," he said.

Union Leaders Say Big Business Has Labor In Legal, Economic Doghouse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union leaders said Sunday that big business has forced labor into a legal and economic doghouse. They vowed to get out.

Organized labor's top chiefs devoted a series of Labor Day statements to complaints about the new labor control bill that has just cleared Congress, and employers' resistance to wage increases, particularly in the steel strike.

The AFL-CIO officially dedicated labor's holiday Monday as "Support the Steelworkers Day" —a move to aid the half million steel strikers in their eight-week-old walkout.

There was a bitter overtone in all the union leaders' comments —accompanied by pledges to step up political and bargaining activities to win new success for workers.

President Eisenhower on the other hand saw this Labor Day as an occasion for rejoicing at worker gains already at hand and in prospect. In this, he was joined by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

"American labor has advanced continuously to new heights of accomplishment," Eisenhower's statement said. "The rise in our level of living—the social and economic progress of American working men and women—gives promise of continuing achievement."

Mitchell said that besides enjoying democratic rights, the American worker is "rewarded for his labor by a return sufficient for him to share in the benefits of progress." He said the nation enjoys the highest living standard in history.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, in a statement echoed by a number of other top union chiefs, said, "Big business leaders are doing everything in their power to weaken and destroy our trade union movement."

"We have determined that we will have to organize for political education and political action in the same thorough and painstaking way that we organized in the past for economic purposes," Meany said.

"This program will take time and patience and hard work and money. But it is our only hope for the resumption of progress."

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, criticized the Eisenhower administration for what he called "a deficit in leadership" and for being, as Reuther put it, "wholly obsessed with balancing the budget rather than balancing the economy."

On-The-Spot Check By U.N. Is Proposed

Security Council Gets Plan Today; Faces Soviet Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States announced Sunday it will ask the U.N. Security Council to send a fact-finding subcommittee to Laos, where insurgents are threatening the government.

The proposal, to be made formally when the 11-nation Council meets Monday to consider Laos' complaint of Communist aggression, may run into a Soviet veto.

The Laotian government charges Communist North Viet Nam—which is not a U.N. member—is supporting the rebels in Laos with troops, leadership cadres and equipment.

U.S. Statement Read

The U.S. spokesman read out this statement to correspondents here: "The United States hopes that a group of countries, of which it would be one, will join in proposing to the Security Council the formation of a subcommittee of the council to look into the facts on the spot in Laos.

"We hope to have wide sponsorship in the Council on a resolution to this effect. There seems to be a widespread feeling that this would be a good thing to do."

There was no indication how many or which countries might be on the proposed subcommittee, or how it might be chosen. Diplomats also doubted that North Viet Nam could be invited to sit in on the debate, since the subcommittee would only go to Laos.

Other diplomats said the Soviet Union has drafted a resolution to have the Council urge revival of the dormant international control commission for Laos.

Laos Opposes Commission

Laos, backed by the United States and Britain, has opposed reviving the commission on the ground that the three-nation body —Canada, India and Poland—has finished its work and that the Polish members spied on Laos.

If a Soviet veto bars Council action, the General Assembly could be called into emergency session within 24 hours by a vote of any seven council members. There is no veto in the General Assembly.

Ngon Sananikone, the special Laotian envoy who brought his country's request for aid to U.N. headquarters, was asked by newsmen if his government would accept observers instead of the U.N. force Laos requested.

Ngon said Laos will agree to whatever the Council or the Assembly decides.

Laos To Ask SEATO Aid If U.N. Balks

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Laos will turn to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization —SEATO— if its request for U.N. military aid is refused, Defense Secretary Col. Phoumi Nosavan said Sunday.

Laos has asked for a U.N. force to meet Communist-led infiltration and attacks. The government charges the insurgents are backed by Communist regulars from neighboring North Viet Nam.

Asked if Laos is planning an immediate appeal for SEATO help, the defense chief noted that so far Laos has asked only for military aid from the U.N.

What if the U.N. refuses?

"If that happens, SEATO would be our last chance," he replied. Phoumi declined to elaborate.

Foreign Minister Khamphan Panya is heading for Bangkok, the capital of Thailand and headquarters for SEATO. From there he will go on to the U.N. headquarters in New York.

Diplomatic sources reported Khamphan plans to stop in Bangkok for a day to confer with Pote Sarasin, secretary general of SEATO

Man Without A Country Sweats It Out In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Nicholas Petrulli, 38, a man without a country and broke, sweated it out Sunday in the luxury of a Moscow tourist hotel.

Living on borrowed rubles, he is waiting for word on whether the Soviet Parliament will grant him Soviet citizenship. The World War II veteran from Valley Stream, N. Y., turned in his U. S. passport and renounced his American citizenship Thursday.

A week ago, Petrulli had written the Supreme Soviet—parliament—asking for citizenship. He gave his letter to the Intourist bureau at the Ukrania Hotel and Intourist said it would be forwarded.

Petrulli, who was mustered out of service after what he described as a nervous breakdown, said he wants to stay in the Soviet Union because he likes it here.

"Nobody is in a hurry, nobody gets nervous breakdowns like in the United States," he said.

He first came to the Soviet Union on a $965 tour. He had borrowed $50 from his brother, Dominick, with whom he lived in Valley Stream for extra expenses.

Now the money is gone. Petrulli, sipping a glass of tea at breakfast in the Ukrainia's ornate dining room, said he doesn't know what is coming next.

He blamed the U. S. Embassy here for his present status. He said he first wrote to the Soviet parliament thinking that if he was granted citizenship here his U. S. citizenship would automatically be annulled.

But Petrulli then went to the embassy, he said, and was advised he had to renounce his U.S. citizenship first. He turned in his passport after filling out five renunciation forms.

Petrulli said he had not talked with any Soviet officials about his citizenship other than the Intourist people. Asked what he would do if Soviet citizenship is not granted, Petrulli shrugged his shoulders.

His Soviet visa expired Aug. 18 and he now has no passport of any kind.

Passion Play Cast Will Be Chosen Today

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany (AP)—Twenty-four bearded men of this picturesque Alpine village assemble Monday to select the cast for the 1960 version of the world-famed Passion play.

In the arch-roofed amphitheater where the three-centuries-old spectacle is staged, they will select by secret vote the 125 principal players.

About 1,000 of Oberammergau's 4,700 villagers will take part in the performance, depicting life in the time of Christ. The classic is staged every 10 years. The 1960 version will run from May 19 until Sept. 25.

The casting committee votes only on candidates for the roles of Christ, Mary and the other speaking roles. The rest of the cast are volunteers. The players are chosen exclusively from this Roman Catholic village 45 miles southwest of Munich.

For nine years of every decade, villagers earn their living by carving wood figurines, farming or catering to tourists who visit Oberammergau. On the tenth year the hamlet becomes a center of world attention as the home of the Passion play.

The play is staged in a huge amphitheater looking out on an open stage against a backdrop of the Bavarian Alps.

It dates from 1633 when the community was hit by plague which killed 84 persons. The villagers in their distress vowed to play Christ's Passion every 10 years if the plague stopped. According to legend, it stopped.

Rhino Loses To 'Dozer

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—A two-ton rhino matched its weight against a 30-ton bulldozer at Kariba. The rhino lost. James Weldon, pilot for a civil engineering firm, said the rhino charged head-on and lifted the bulldozer four feet in the air. But the impact sent the beast reeling and it died almost instantly.

BROKEN PADDLE—Tawny, two-month-old duck, won't be doing any swimming for a while. His affection for his mistress, Lynn Jones, 12, of Memphis, Tenn., shown here looking at Tawny's splintered leg, proved to be bad luck. He waddled along with her to a backyard swing. The swing collapsed throwing her clear, but part of the falling swing cracked Tawny's right drumstick. Fast work by a veterinarian saved the day—and the duck. Lynn says Tawny makes an unusual tapping sound as he walks around the house these days. (AP Photofax)

'Backyard Bikini Bounce' Accomplishes Mission

MALDEN, Mass. (UPI)—Dancing Dotty, the red hot mama of Malden, Sunday ended her backyard pyrotechnics and pronounced a happy "mission accomplished" on her efforts to find a career in show business.

The blonde, 33-year-old mother of three thrilled a crowd of 1,200 Saturday night in a repeat performance of her now - famed "backyard bikini bounce" before six local policeman, harrassed by the five-block-long traffic jam, broke up the show.

Dotty, known around home as Mrs. Michael Ferragamo, and her mother, Mrs. Mary L. de Marco, 55, of nearby Revere, pranced around the backyard for three hours to the gaudy rhythms of rock 'n roll records on mom's hi-fi.

The younger dancer was tastefully attired in a halo of flowers and two bracelets, one around her wrist and one circling an ankle plus her pinkish-lavender turkish toweling bikini. The bracelets gleamed in the spotlights as she shook, shimmied, twirled and leaped. Mom, on the other hand, was dressed in a net blouse and toreador pants among other costumes. Though seeking to focus attention on her talented daughter, she changed costumes and records frequently as the evening progressed.

But Sunday, Dotty, whose previous efforts in the backyard had drawn the ire of some of her neighbors, said her free performances were over for the time being.

"She's tired," her husband said. "And besides, she's got several good offers; one from a large outdoor restaurant and a couple from New York."

Morton Sees Public Support Of Ike's Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R-Ky) said Sunday Republican surveys indicate general grass roots approval of President Eisenhower's series of vetoes.

Morton, the GOP national chairman, said in an interview the President's firm stand against what he calls costly programs sponsored by congressional Democrats has been reflected in greater party unity down the line to the precincts.

"I think the effect of the President's actions is going to be a positive one, that his stand is supported by the country and that it is going to have an impact on next year's elections," Morton said.

If there is such an impact, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said he thinks it will be a bad one—from the standpoint of the Republicans.

"The President is paying no more attention to the majority viewpoint of Congress than Premier Khrushchev pays to the views of the Russian legislative body," Humphrey told a reporter. "I don't think the country is going to like this government-by-veto."

But Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said Eisenhower's "effectiveness and leadership" are bringing "divided government closer together in achieving legislative goals set by the President earlier this year."

Democrats are banking, however, on the belief that while Eisenhower's vetoes may have popular appeal now they will be less palatable to the voters when the effect of reductions in housing, public works and other programs is felt next year.

U. Of Md. Coed Crowned Queen Of State Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — An auburn-haired University of Maryland coed officially became queen of the Maryland State Fair at Timonium Sunday as nearly 37,000 holiday weekend spectators looked on.

Rep. Daniel Brewster, fair president, placed the crown on the head of 18-year-old Allie Lee Boice of Hall, Prince Georges County, and then escorted her and her four attendants to a special stand to review a fair parade.

The queen wore a borrowed white dress, the customary garb of the fair ruler. She did have a pastel shade gown, which one of her attendants lacked. The attendant swapped her white dress for Miss Boice's.

The attendants were Lois Richardson of Queen Annes County, Peggy Heflin of Frederick County, Pat Agee of Carroll County, and Ruth Anne Smith of Harford County.

Ideal fair weather drew a near capacity crowd to the grounds north of Baltimore. The day's activities started with church services in charge of the Rev. John A. Baden, former rector of St. James Church in Monkton who has officiated in that capacity for the past eight years.

The coronation and parade of 4-H Club youngsters with 48 colorfully decorated floats followed.

The 4-H float judged the best was one entered by "The Harford Honeys" from Harford County. Its theme was "Plant a 4-H Club and grow a better community." Other blue ribbon winners were the Davidsonville 4-H Club from Anne Arundel County, the Long Green Girls Club from Baltimore County, the Glen Arm Boys Club from Baltimore County, the Port Tobacco Club from Charles County, the Cockeysville Boys Club from Baltimore County and the Freedom Girls Club from Carroll County.

In the "Older Youths" division, first prize went to Howard County, while blue ribbons were earned by the Cecil and Frederick County entries. The winners' theme was "4-H keeps your community ticking."

Attendance was 36,958, compared to 34,468 on the first Sunday last year. About 75,000 persons are expected on Labor Day.

Meanwhile, scores of prize livestock began moving into the grounds for competition in the open class judging starting tomorrow.

Last week's judging was devoted to 4-H Club entries. In some instances, prize stock shown by the 4-Hers remained in their stalls and will compete with animals entered by adults.

In Saturday's livestock judging for seniors, Charles Streett of Baltimore County walked off with the top prize, followed by John King of Montgomery County and Bill Strett of Baltimore County.

Baltimore County also won team honors with Montgomery County second and Howard, third.

Montgomery County took first place in dairy cattle judging.

State Employe Pay Hike Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pay increases for 3,100 state employes were recommended by Russell S. Davis, commissioner of personnel.

He has outlined his proposed revision of classification of State employes to a Legislative Council committee. Later, he will ask the Standard Salary Board to approve them and forward the plan to Gov. Tawes.

The reclassification by Davis is separate from a request by the 22,000 State employes for a straight 10 per cent raise for all.

Davis is backing "selective adjustments" in 230 of the 1,100 classifications. They are to eliminate inequities, or at least come close to comparable pay in private industry.

The last wholesale salary reclassification for state employes was in 1957, but didn't go into effect until this year.

State employes sought an across-the-board increase from the 1959 General Assembly which by-passed it along with more pay for school teachers.

The Legislative Council committee headed by Sen. James (D-Harford) has been studying both requests this summer.

Davis estimated that his proposed adjustments would cost $860,000 to $1,100,000. Each one per cent of any general increase would require nearly $740,000, he informed Sen. James.

Pa. Man Critical After Shooting

WILLIAMSPORT, Md. (AP) — A Mercersburg, Pa. man was shot and critically wounded Sunday when he and another man argued over a girl friend.

Deputy Sheriffs Tom Funkhauser and John Davis said Robert S. Raub, 59, of near Williamsport was charged with assault and intent to murder Ray Starliper, 36, of Mercersburg.

The officers said the argument occurred at the home of Clarence Teach, a relative of the unidentified woman. Raub was arrested at the home.

Second Man Seized In Holdup Of Bank

$17,000 Found Hidden In Shoe Boxes

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—The FBI arrested a second man Sunday in the $27,500 armed robbery of the County Trust Co. at Mechanicsville, Md., on Friday.

Identified by the FBI as Charles Edward Lawrenson, 40, of Washington, he was arrested at Miami Beach, Fla.

When taken into custody, he had about $17,000 in cash hidden in shoe boxes inside two pieces of expensive luggage, recently purchased, the FBI said.

Robert Lawrence Couch, 22, of Washington, was arrested Saturday night by the FBI in a nearby Alexandria, Va., supermarket where he was working and charged with taking part in the bank robbery. None of the money was recovered from Couch.

Couch was held in the Alexandria city jail in lieu of $50,000 bond for a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Stanley King on Sept.11.

Two men, wearing railroad engineer's overalls, baggy caps, cowboy boots and sunglasses, bound and gagged three women tellers at the Southern Maryland bank. They then fled with $3,000 from the teller booths and $24,500 from the bank vault.

The FBI said the two men made their escape in one car, later switched to another vehicle and drove to the Washington bus station before splitting up late Friday, intending to meet later to divide the money. The second man was reported to have failed to keep this meeting date.

Two rolls of dimes and one roll of quarters were found by FBI agents in Couch's Washington apartment along with a pistol of the type used to start races.

Youngster Drowns In Tub Of Hot Water

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 13-month-old boy drowned in a tub of hot water Saturday while his mother had gone to a nearby grocery store, police reported.

Firemen called to the home of Mrs. Barbara Bryan, 20, said the water was so hot they had to empty the tub before they could remove the infant's body.

Police said Mrs. Bryan told them she left the boy, Roystan E. Bryan, in a crib with a 4-week-old brother when she and another son, 2, went to the store.

Diamonds Make Arkansas Pasture Happy Hunting Ground For Tourists

By ED MARTIN

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Beneath a churned-up cow pasture near this sleepy country town lies a treasure trove that some geologists believe may hold a billion dollars in diamonds.

But this possible rival to the fabulous Kimberley deposits in South Africa is only a tourist attraction—every attempt at commercial mining has failed.

Mismanagement, sabotage, legal brawling and high operating costs stymied promoters. A decade ago the property owners gave up all hopes of mining and turned a 32-acre tract into a happy hunting ground for sightseers.

Forty thousand persons a year pay a small fee to pry through the multicolored soil of this volcanic freak known as the Crater of Diamonds.

Some strike it rich. The rule is finders keepers for stones under five carats, but a royalty must be paid to the management on larger gems.

Recently a Louisiana woman unearthed a 3.65-carat diamond in the backwoods fairyland. Several years ago a housewife from Texas picked up a shiny chunk which proved to be a 15-carat beauty, worth $25,000 after cutting. Tourists have stumbled on hundreds of sparklers ranging up to three carats.

In the years of abortive mining operations by various promoters, thousands of first-quality stones were taken from the old pasture. One, a 40-carat dazzler, was the biggest diamond ever found in North America.

The remarkable pasture is one of two sites in the world where diamonds are found in their natural matrix. The other is in South Africa's Kimberley district.

Although skullduggery and confusion loomed large in the history of the Crater of Diamonds, and although land title disputes grew so hot that bullets whizzed, the only casualties were dreams of wealth.

First of the dreamers was a lanky farmer named John Wesley Huddleston, who turned up a couple of diamonds in 1906. A banker in Murfreesboro offered him 50 cents.

But canny John sent his trinkets to a Little Rock jeweler, who in turn dispatched them to a Tiffany expert in New York.

The expert electrified the world with an announcement that Huddleston's stones were high-grade diamonds. A diamond rush brought thousands of prospectors, con men and promoters to southwest Arkansas, but no one made another strike.

And Huddleston? He sold out for $36,000, a fortune in those days, then went on a king-size spree and ended a pauper. Years later, he returned to Murfreesboro and the townspeople got up a fund for him. When he died in 1941, he was drawing a dollar a day for living expenses.

Cancer Study Grant

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Dr. Bertil Bjorklund, assistant professor at the state bacteriological laboratory in Stockholm, was granted $253,249 by the American Advisory Cancer Research Council Saturday. Bjorklund has shown that there are certain essential immunological differences between normal and cancer cells. He has also succeeded in isolating a natural blood factor which attacks cancer cells under laboratory conditions. The U.S. grant will enable him to continue and expand his experiments.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠A 10 9 8 5 ♥A 10 6 5 4 ♦ 2 ♣4 2
The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. Inasmuch as you are forced to proceed to game, this is the logical step. A rebid of four hearts would be dangerous in that it might persuade partner that you have a better suit. From partner's failure to bid three no trump over three hearts, you may deduce that he has a long and powerful two suiter.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠8 6 3 ♥— ♦A 6 2 ♣A K Q J 9 8 2
The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. Prospects for a slam are excellent despite the fact that your partner originally passed and, as yet, has shown no special signs of strength. If partner shows the ace of hearts now, you will have to sign off, but if he is able to bid five diamonds, you should contract for a slam in clubs.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠5 ♥A J ♦10 8 6 2 ♣A 9 7 5 4 2
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Double	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have enough high card strength to redouble but, lacking any reasonable idea of where you are headed, it is more discreet to pass temporarily and await developments. If the hand is a misfit, by no means an unlikely prospect, you may be able to inaugurate a doubling campaign against the opposition, when the bidding gets back to you, that could spell a handsome profit for your side where no game was available.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠J 7 2 ♥K J 6 2 ♦A 9 3 2 ♣J 10
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. This hand just makes the grade. A bid in this spot should be made only with the outlook of reaching for a game. This does not appear likely since your hearts appear to be badly placed for a spade contract but, since partner may have a hand that could help produce nine tricks at no trump, one forward move by you is justified. If partner merely returns to two spades, you will, of course, pass.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠K 5 ♥A 8 ♦A 10 8 7 6 3 2 ♣J 5
The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. There is no completely desirable call on this hand. Three hearts is somewhat of an underbid, but we dislike raising all the way to four with just two trumps. The alternative bid of four diamonds may land us in an unmakeable diamond game when four hearts could be spread. The simple heart raise leaves open the further possibility that partner may wish to try for the nine trick game at no trump.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠A 7 9 8 7 ♥Q 8 ♦K 8 ♣K 8 7 5
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner was unable to make a better initial response than one no trump, there can be no very good play for a game. Even if he has all of his high card values in clubs and spades, which seems a likely explanation for his second round jump, it will not adequately fill the holes in your hand.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠A Q ♥K 8 7 6 ♦6 5 4 ♣A K 9 6
The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand was microscopically short of an immediate jump shift response and as such merits very strong treatment. On hands of this strength the proper procedure is to bid new suits twice and then raise partner. There is only a slight risk partner will take this as a legitimate suit which impression you will correct on the next round when you raise hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠A 8 ♥A K Q J 7 2 ♦9 7 3 ♣K 3
The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Prospects for game have not been entirely dimmed by partner's pass, but the shorter, no trump route to game looks like the best shot at this point since all partner needs are a couple of face cards strategically placed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

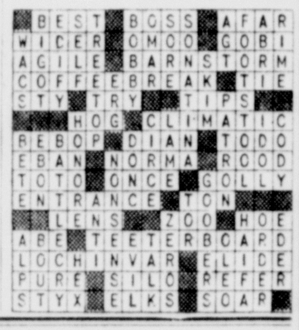
Sinner Reforms

ILFORD, England (UPI)—Damon Runyon would have been pleased when Tom Keer married Brenda Neve Saturday. Brenda, like the heroine of Runyon's "Guys and Dolls," was a member of the Salvation Army. And Tom was a sinner she met while doing a little missionary work in a pub. Tom, 23, became a color sergeant in the Salvation Army. And after he married 18-year-old Brenda Saturday he said, "now we can work together to convert others."

Answer To Previous Puzzle



Money, No Work Called Formula For Long Life

JERSEY CITY N. J. (UPI) — A Puerto Rican who claims to be 110, and his older sister, who says she is 120, said recently that plenty of money and no work can insure a long life.

Isaias Delgado and his sister, Mrs. Julia Delgado Otero, arrived from San Juan to visit relatives here.

Asked for a formula for long life, Delgado said "we've never had to work a single day in our lives."

"Our father left us plenty of money," his sister added.

The aged couple said their father, a plantation owner, had left them such vast properties that they keep between $50,000 and $100,000 around the house for spending money.

Both discounted any special kind of food as a factor in their long lives—except that they could always eat when they wanted to.

Their relatives here, Mr. and Mrs. Angel Rodrigues, said the couple's estimate of their ages was "fairly accurate."

Mrs. Rodrigues is a great-grandniece of the couple.

Mrs. Otero said she has been a widow for 95 years. Her brother said with a wink that he was "still available."

Both agreed firmly it was money that had kept them going. As further proof, they said, their father died at 135 and their mother at 110.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

It might be interesting to present today's hand, all hands exposed, to your favorite partner with the query as to whether he would prefer to play or defend against the six spade contract.

Declarer took the opening lead of the king of clubs and drew trumps in three rounds, discarding the six of diamonds and the deuce of clubs. He then led a low diamond and the queen was taken by East's ace. A club was returned and ruffed by declarer.

The king of diamonds was cashed and the closed hand was reentered with the ace of hearts. Two more trumps were cashed and now, four cards from the end, dummy held three hearts and the jack of clubs. West held three hearts and the queen of clubs. When declarer led his last trump, it was impossible for West to make a safe discard.

Returning to the position after trumps were drawn, at trick five, when the diamond was led and the queen played from dummy, East had a chance for a brilliant diagnosis. It was clear that declarer had six solid spades, and the only other side cards he could have were the ace and queen of hearts. It was evident that 11 tricks were available to him, but that the 12th could be developed in a squeeze against West, who is known to have the queen of clubs and probably holds a heart stopper.

East should have refused to win the trick. By refusing to permit declarer to concede his losing trick early in the play, East could spike the enemy's guns.

Note, now, if declarer leads all his trumps, West will be left with five cards instead of four; in other words, he will have a spare diamond which can be discarded on South's last trump lead, enabling him to retain his heart stopper and the queen of clubs.

David Cuppett Earns Eagle Scout Award

PETERSBURG — David Cuppett 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cuppett, was presented an Eagle Scout award during a Court of Honor for Boy Scout Troop 63 here a recent evening.

Lester McDowell, advancement chairman of Tri-Valley District, presided at the ceremony, assisted by David G. Nuzum and Fred H. Anderson, Potomac Council officials.

Prior to the ceremony, held at Petersburg Park, the mothers of the scouts served a picnic supper. Members of Troop 63, formed a guard of honor during the program.

Scoutmaster Walter Riddleberger presented the Eagle badge to Mrs. Cuppett, who affixed it to the uniform of her son. He in turn presented his mother with a miniature Eagle badge. The official certificate of the rank was given to David's father by Riddleberger.

The 13-year-old youth is the eighth member of Troop 63 to earn Eagle rating. An eighth grade student at Petersburg School, he is a member of the school's Lucky 13 4-H Club. David has been scribe for his troop and leader of the Panther Patrol. He presently is junior assistant scout leader.

Bakery Cited By Federal Food Agency

KINGWOOD — The Kingwood Baking Company and Phillip Contic Jr., and Richard Contic, partners in the business, have been cited by the government on two counts of alleged violation of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

U. S. Attorney Albert M. Morgan has filed two charges against the bakery and the partners.

The firm is charged with shipment in interstate commerce of bread and sandwich buns which were adulterated with insects and insect fragments. The alleged shipment was from Kingwood to Oakland, Md.

Basis for the action allegedly occurred June 16, 1959, and the charge read "the shipment was purportedly prepared under unsantiary conditions whereby it may have become contaminated with filth."

The litigation resulted from the alleged failure of the firm to effect promised measures to correct deficiencies noted in prior government inspections of the establishment.

Steel Liner Is Authorized For Reservoir

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and Council last week voted to install a steel liner 17 feet high inside the Westernport reservoir at a cost of $25,861.

The contract was let to the Grover Tank and Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh. When the work is completed it will result in a big saving in water, according to Mayor Ray L. Wilt, who said he believed about a fourth of the water at present is lost by leakage.

Company representatives said workmen could complete the work in three weeks after material is assembled. The work will not begin until all material needed is on the site.

The steel will be placed within one inch of the concrete reservoir. The price includes painting it on the inside and a coat of red lead after the work is completed.

After the first reading of an amendment to the water ordinance, it was unanimously approved by the Council. It states that water meters up to a certain size will be provided by the town without cost, but over that size the water user must pay for the meter and all costs of installation.

John Coleman, resident engineer of the firm building the sewage plant at the lower end of town, conferred with Council on putting in a manhole on Fourth Street to take care of surface water. There was no objection.

Mrs. Edwin Ross and Mrs. Owen Lewis complained about the bad condition of Ross Street. Mayor Wilt stated he would request the Cumberland Contracting Company to give him an estimate on blacktopping it.

Commissioner L. C. Lambert was authorized to inspect the window blinds at the Bureau of Mines quarters, in the City Building and to purchase new ones if needed.

Commissioner Lambert said Mrs. Paul McCoy had requested that holes on Hammond Street be filled. This was approved. Miss Lola Martin complained of dust from the town parking lot on Church Street. Brush on it near her residence was ordered cut.

Police Commissioner Leo Herbert announced that bicycle permits already issued will be good until next April 1, and those issued until that time will cost 25 cents.

RICHARD W. HAINES

ROMNEY — Richard Wesley Haines, 78, a retired member of the West Virginia State Roads Commission, died at his home in Springfield Friday. He was born in Hampshire county, a son of the late Samuel and Eliza Jane (Shanholtz) Haines.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Florence (Kline) Haines; six sons, Homer Haines, Winchester, Va.; Edgar E. Haines, Falls Church, Va.; Brady A. Haines, Augusta; Hoy S. Haines, Romney; Cecil D. Haines, Kirby, and Lawrence Haines, Weston; a daughter, Mrs. Randall Martin, Pleasant Dale; a sister, Mrs. Mary Hare, Gettysburg, Pa., ten grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Services were conducted yesterday at Mt. Zion Methodist Church with Rev. Mr. Painter, pastor of Springfield Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Mt. Zion Cemetery, Augusta.

MRS. GEORGE DARDEN, SR.

ELKINS, W. Va.—Services for Mrs. George Darden, Sr., 57, one of the most prominent civic leaders of Elkins, who died while watching television Friday night, were conducted yesterday in First Methodist Church. Rev. J. C. Fisher, pastor, officiated and interment was in the Maplewood Cemetery.

Mrs. Darden was on the official board of First Methodist Church and a member of the board of directors of the Elkins YMCA for a number of years.

She was active in the Mountain State Forest Festival and was a past sponsor of the Junior Department of the Women's Club of Elkins.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, she was born January 4, 1902, a daughter of the late Thomas and Margaret (Thomas) Miles.

Survivors include her husband, George E. Darden; two sons, George E. Darden Jr., of here, and Ralph Miles Darden, Baltimore; a daughter, Mrs. David R. Brown, Troy, Ohio; two brothers, John Miles, Pasadena, Calif., and Harold Miles, Youngstown; three sisters, Mrs. Paul Reebel, Mrs. S. D. Horner and Mrs. LaVerne Cailor, all of Youngtown, and 11 grandchildren.

JAMES A. MARKWOOD

PETERSBURG, W.Va.—James A. Markwood, 82, of here, died yesterday in Grant County Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient five days. He had been in ill health for some time.

A native of Grant County, he was a son of the late John and Mary (Cornell) Markwood. His first wife, Cora (Hull) Markwood, preceded him in death.

He is survived by his widow, Minnie (Frye) Markwood; three children by his first marriage, Mrs. Loren Hott, Cabins; William, Westminster, Md.; Orlando, Baltimore, and Otha Markwood, Arbutus, Md.; a brother, Edgar Markwood, Terra Alta; 13 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

He was a member of Lehmansville Evangelical United Brethren Church where services will be conducted at 2 p.m. by Rev. Leslie Gillium and Rev. W. B. Obaugh. Burial will be in Lehmansville Cemetery.

The body is at the Schaeffer Funeral Home here and will be taken to the church at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Don't faint. This letter is being written by a man. I was touched by the sad letter from the girl who wanted to develop her measurements and was miserable because nature had cheated her. She signed her letter "Flat Florence."

I was married to the other kind for three years. She lived in front of the mirror with a tape measure in her hand. She was a lousy cook (when she cooked) and the world's worst housekeeper. If a button came off my coat she'd pin it on. I never saw a needle or thread in our house.

Her own clothes were beautiful and that's all she cared about. She wasn't happy unless every man in the room was falling all over her.

My second wife is a wonderful person but she has a terrific complex because she's a Flat Florence, too. She keeps comparing herself with my first wife. No matter how I try, I can't get it through her head that it doesn't matter. I wish you'd print this letter, Ann. I think it would make her feel better.—SYD

DEAR SYD: Here's the letter—and I hope it makes your wife feel better. It should give a lift to all Flat Florences to know there are men around who aren't dimension-wacky.

DEAR ANN: My husband and I both work five days a week. When I get home I have to wash the breakfast dishes, clean the house, prepare dinner, wash, iron, pay bills and do the endless chores a housewife fall heir to.

My husband plops himself in front of the TV, reads the paper and takes a nap in the chair until I wake him up and announce that dinner is on the table. After dinner he goes back to the same chair until bed time.

If I suggest that he fill my coffee cup or carry out the garbage he gives me a scathing look and says, "I worked hard all day."

Am I wrong to expect a little help around the house? If I am, please tell me and I'll keep my mouth closed. If I'm right, I'd like a little support from you IN WRITING. — POOPED YVONNE

DEAR YVONNE: A woman who helps bring home the bacon has a right to expect her husband to help her try it.

Since you're holding down two jobs your hubby should get off his rusty dusty and pitch in on the home front. If he refuses, tell him you're quitting your salaried job before you cave in.

DEAR ANN: I'm having a peculiar problem with my 13-year-old and I need your help.

I hardly recognize Bernice when she walks in the door. She always has someone else's clothes on. There are six girls in her "inside circle" as she calls it, and they are forever switching clothes.

I don't know why she goes to such pains to buy just the right dresses, skirts, sweaters and blouses. After two weeks I never see them.

Are ALL girls this way, or is this bunch daffy? What should I do about it?—JUST ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR JUST ANOTHER: This adolescent "sickness" is common among 13-year-olds. Be patient and I promise she'll outgrow it as she did the previous phases.

CONFIDENTIAL: TORN TO PIECES: Put yourself back together and cut out the self pity. I hear from plenty of people who deserve a medal for facing life every day.

DEAR ANN: To look at me you'd never guess I had two teen-age children. I have no grey hair, no wrinkles and no excess baggage.

A few months ago I became fascinated by an art dealer whose studio is near our apartment. I'm not the type to sneak around so I told my husband everything. I didn't want a divorce or a separation—only his patience and understanding until the tornado blew itself out.

Being broad-minded and intelligent he agreed to stand by. He treated me beautifully and we put up the usual front of a happily married couple.

In less than three months the affair was over. I love my husband more than ever for his maturity and strength. He's delighted to have me back on a full-time basis and is willing to forgive and forget. No one was hurt and I learned from experience there's no place like home. Now we're closer than ever. I feel that everyone profited—do you agree?—MITZIE.

DEAR MITZIE: If you're looking for a good conduct medal you came to the wrong place.

Consider yourself lucky your husband didn't broom you out when the tornado hit. Just because he didn't throw himself on the floor and chew the rug doesn't mean he wasn't deeply hurt.

And while you're counting your blessings, include a prayer of thanks that your children didn't hear the gossip. You were luckier all the way around than you had a right to be.

DEAR ANN: Clark and I have gone steady for 18 months and we're getting engaged. The problem is the ring.

He comes from a well-to-do family and is rather spoiled. He works for his father at a good salary but spends everything he makes. Last year he bought an expensive sports car which made me angry.

Now he wants to give me a big diamond which was his mother's engagement ring. I told him I'd rather have a small ring—one he paid for himself.

He says I'm cracked. My mother agrees with him. Dad thinks I'm right. What do you think? —LORNA.

DEAR LORNA: Congratulations. In this materialistic age when so many dames are hunting for husbands with a geiger counter it's refreshing to find a girl who isn't interested in a skating rink to shove under the noses of her girl friends.

Stick to your guns. Tell Clark you're not marrying his father and that you want only the kind of ring HE can afford.

DEAR ANN: This noon, while the people who rent from us were gone, I took my key and let myself in. I had reason to suspect they had my hand-saw. I did nothing illegal after I got into the house. All I did was look around.

I didn't find the hand-saw but I did see a shot gun which disappeared from our back porch last year.

How can I get the gun back without letting them know I was in their house?—WALLEYE.

DEAR WALLEYE: You're not short on brass, Bub, and you may be in legal trouble. Look at your lease. Does it say you have the right to enter when the tenants aren't at home? If the lease gives you this right, then tell them you saw the gun and you're glad they "found it." If not, ask them to please keep their eyes open for the shot gun you "lost" last year, and nix on breaking and entering in the future.

Are your parents too strict?

You can benefit from the experience of thousands of teen-agers if you read ANN LANDERS booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Gina, Cleavage And All, Breaks Into Red Press

BERLIN (AP) — Gina Lollobrigida broke into the official Communist press Sunday — complete with cleavage.

Such things rarely happen in sober party-line Communist papers. But the East German daily Neues Deutschland carried an interview the Italian film star gave another Communist paper on the forthcoming meetings between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

"It's really time for a meeting like that to take place," she said. "Now people can breathe a little."

Wheat Acreage Change Cited

A change in the method of determining wheat history acreage for wheat farms on which the allotment is underseeded was announced yesterday by William L. Dudley, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

This change is the result of a law which has just gone into effect and which is designed to help farmers who underplant protect their future wheat allotments.

Under the new law, a farmer who plants no wheat for 1960 harvest may still obtain maximum history acreage credit for 1960 if his actual planted acreage of wheat in either 1958 or 1959—plus any acreage diverted from wheat under the Soil Bank or Great Plains program—was equal to 75 per cent of his farm wheat allotment.

If a farmer does not meet this requirement and wants to get maximum wheat history credit for 1960, then he must meet the 75 per cent planting requirement for 1960. In other words, by planting 75 per cent of his wheat allotment in any of the three years 1958, 1959, or 1960, the farmer assures himself of full history credit for 1960.

In addition, a farmer who is prevented from seeding wheat for the 1960 crop because of unfavorable weather can preserve his maximum 1960 wheat history acreage credit if he notifies the county committee by December 1, 1959 (June 1, 1960 in spring wheat areas) and the committee makes an official determination of this fact.

Mr. Dudley urges farmers who have any questions about these provisions to consult the county office in the short time that remains before winter wheat planting.

Bicycler Rests

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— A 19-year-old bicycler rested Sunday from his 18-day pedaling trip from Portland, Ore., to Kansas City. Kurth Layman, a sophomore at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, pedaled into Kansas City Saturday night after averaging nearly 100 miles a day on his bicycle. He had spent the summer in Kodiak, Alaska, at an ecumenical work camp. On the way back he decided to make his bicycle trip, camping out at night.

Growing Cancer Of Censorship

California's Rep. John E. Moss is determined to find out who in the Pentagon is clamping the most restrictive censorship on public affairs yet attempted by any bureaucrat.

This particular attempt to cut off the flow of knowledge to the public began a few weeks ago with the announcement from within the labyrinths of military suites that officers were henceforth banned from publishing books on military subjects with which they were familiar as long as they remain in service.

Having apparently succeeded in establishing this restriction, a military official who obviously has insufficient justifiable work to occupy his time went further by banning signed newspaper or magazine articles by high officers in any but military publications.

Military presses have their own censors to insure nothing critical or objectionable to the high command will ever be offered to the public.

Representative Moss, who at times finds himself very much alone in attempts to protect the public's right to know, has demanded — as chairman of the House Government Information subcommittee — an explanation from Defense Secretary McElroy. If this directive from the Defense Department is allowed to stand, no ranking officer can publish any article on any subject in a private publication without jeopardizing his career.

Total blackouts now imposed on Defense Department personnel make no pretense of "security" as the reason for refusal to divulge information. The regulation simply stands without foundation, cause or constitutional authority. If Mr. McElroy was ignorant of the departmental laws issued in his name, he is no longer.

The longer he hesitates to rebuke those responsible and assure Representative Moss and the public that similar dictatorial abuses cannot reoccur, the greater blame he must accept for a censorship which must remain foreign to this government.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Numbers Game

Statistics can be very confusing if they are only numbers. Whenever I see statistics in dollars, I like to divide in half, which is too high. The purchasing power of the 1959 dollar is variously estimated as to be worth less than 50 cents, so when the figure appears, for instance, that the personal consumption expenditure is thus and so, we need to translate the dollars into realistic currency. This, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States does in a pamphlet recently issued, using 1958 dollars as a criterion. Unless figures are translated into a common language, comparisons are untruthful and distorted.

Taking 1940 as a base, the Chamber of Commerce finds that in that year the population of the United States was about 132,000,000; the labor force about 56,000,000; the gross national product (in 1958 dollars), $227,000,000,000; personal consumption expenditures, $155,700,000,000; and the personal consumption expenditure per capita $1,179. In 1940, the United States was a prosperous nation, living on the proceeds of huge war activities in Europe. The next year, this country entered the war and all figures began to move upward and to continue to move upward.

The population of the United States increased from 132,000,000 in 1940 to 174,000,000 in 1958. This is an enormous increase in a short period of 18 years and represents crowding in our large cities, the blighting of areas, the movement of "good families" to suburbs, changing the character both of the cities and the countryside. This is a transformation not only in home-building and household devices but in the social life of the country. It is particularly a revolution in child life which our psychologists and sociologists are currently studying.

The labor force has increased from 56,000,000 in 1940 to 71,000,000 in 1958. The rise in the labor force has not been as sharp because more persons are taken out of it to continue their education or to go into the armed services which have obviously become a permanent social institution in the United States.

According to these figures, the average post-war investment per job is more than $13,281 which is very high, making it increasingly difficult for small business to get started. It requires too much money to set up a new enterprise and few enterprises can be started out of family savings or borrowing from friends and neighbors, but require financing by banks, insurance companies, labor union reserve and pension funds and such organized money-lending bodies. This leads to a concentration of operations in increasingly large corporations which, despite all legislation to the contrary, tend toward monopolies.

This, too, has altered the nature of private enterprise, shifting responsibility from ownership to management, reducing the authority of ownership, which often, to protect itself from management, has to have recourse to the courts. Unfortunately the American corporate structure and corporate law are such that fractional ownership can give control of an enterprise. This makes it possible for astute minds, often criminally inclined, so to manipulate ownership, as literally to steal established enterprises. This is called raiding.

The data in this pamphlet, "Investment for Jobs," is interesting and from it one can draw many conclusions, the most serious undoubtedly being that we are constantly being forced to move away from free, private enterprise to a mixed government - controlled, bank - controlled, managerial enterprise in which ownership plays an increasingly smaller and less responsible role. The Chamber of Commerce says:

". . . if the government absorbs an unduly large slice of the business or individual income dollar, the capacity and incentive to invest may be all but eliminated . . ."

This is so true that a Congressional committee ought to study the movement of American private capital out of the country. An attempt was made to organize such an investigation but it was stopped in its tracks, undoubtedly by important financial influences who did not want an investigation made of their deposits in such places as Nassau, Montevideo and Zurich. Had such a study been made, there would be no Guterma and Birrell cases in the courts today. And Guterma and Birrell were small operators.

The significance of this activity is not that individuals are accused of this or that felony or misdemeanor. The significance is that American capital is being moved out of the United States.

Khrushchev Had Better Re-Read U.S. History

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev must think the American people are dumb or naive and could readily be deceived. There seems to be no other logical explanation for the hypocritical article which he wrote for "Foreign Affairs," a quarterly magazine published by the Council on Foreign Relations of New York City, a private group of citizens interested in the discussion of international problems.

In that article, Mr. Khrushchev demands that the free world accept as an accomplished fact the conquest of Eastern Europe by the Soviet armies and the continued enslavement of the "captive nations," including such formerly independent countries as Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary. These, he says in effect, must remain forever under the military domination and duress of the Communist government in Moscow.

The Soviet Premier says that the resolution adopted by the Congress of the United States a few weeks ago, declaring its sympathy with the "captive nations," was "an act of provocation." He then proceeds to suggest sarcastically that Americans would have been similarly annoyed "if the Parliament of Mexico had passed a resolution demanding that Texas, Arizona and California be 'liberated from American slavery.'"

Actually, very few people would be annoyed today if that happened. In fact, a resolution by any democratic government on the subject of free elections would be welcomed because it probably would urge that the United Nations be asked to conduct free elections — such as have been held regularly for more than a century in Arizona, California and Texas — so that the people of the various states of the Soviet Union itself, as well as the "captive" states, could determine what government they wish to govern them.

Mr. Khrushchev hopes the world will forget that he himself ordered his foreign minister at the recent Geneva Conference to turn down the plan offered by Britain, France and the United States that an election be held in both East and West Germany to let the German people choose a single government.

Mr. Khrushchev defines "peaceful co-existence" in terms that have been repeatedly violated in the last 15 years by the Soviet imperialists. He writes:

"Apart from the commitment to non-aggression, it (peaceful co-existence) also presupposes an obligation on the part of all states to desist from violating each other's territorial integrity and sovereignty in any form and under any pretext whatsoever. The principle of co-existence signifies a renunciation of interference in the internal affairs of other countries with the object of altering their system of government or mode of life or for any other motives."

Yet how would the Soviet Premier justify the Soviet's sending of munitions of war to attack and invade the independent Korean Republic, or the dispatch of arms to help Communist sympathizers to destroy the national government on the mainland of China? How would he classify the dispatch of arms to the Middle East by the Soviet Government to intensify friction between the countries there? How would the Soviet Premier define the sending of Soviet troops to East Germany and Hungary, where the people were coerced to accept Communist rule? And how would the Soviet Premier characterize the invasion of India and Laos this summer by Communist forces, or the recent overthrow of the constituted government of Tibet?

Would he ignore the fact that in every case there was a violation of the territorial integrity and sovereignty of other nations by Soviet imperialism? In what country of the world indeed has the apparatus of Communist imperialism not been established, with its agents of subversion financed by Moscow to encroach upon the sovereignty of independent governments?

Apparently Mr. Khrushchev thinks the American people are not well informed on what has been happening in the "Cold War" in the last few years. His effort to over-simplify the struggle in the world today as merely a clash between two rival systems of social or economic ideology reveals transparently the insincerity and fakery in his approach to a serious-minded audience in the United States such as the council on Foreign Relations in New York City.

There is a certain boldness and arrogance in Mr. Khrushchev's flat assertion that "in our day there are only two ways, peaceful co-existence or the most destructive war in history—there is no third choice."

There is indeed a third choice —it's honest co-existence. But this, of course, means freedom and human liberty and the right of every people to choose their own form of government without any outside pressure or duress. Mr. Khrushchev isn't willing to have that kind of co-existence. It's a choice, therefore, today between autocratic government and democracy, between tyranny and freedom, between ideals of human liberty and the cruel despotism of the modern Czar of Russia who is bent on world conquest.

Nikita Khruschev is as foggy as Adolf Hitler and misguidedly as determined to win by threats what he is not sure he can win by force of arms. For, while nobody wants war, Mr. Khrushchev had better read American history and note that from the earliest days of this republic there were men who cried out, "Give me liberty or give me death." That's what will eventually prove the undoing of Nikita Khrushchev and his gangster regime as the peoples of the captive countries, including peoples in parts of the Soviet Union like Ukraine, will some day rise up to demand their freedom and independence. History is not "irreversible," as Mr. Khrushchev claims. History really repeats itself often where injustice and despotism have deprived men of human rights.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SENATE BUILDING—As if the going hasn't been rough enough for the architect of the Capitol, one of the nation's outstanding architectural magazines has now come out in sharp criticism of the new $25 million Senate Office Building.

The criticism was not aimed at such mundane things as slippery floors, unworkable elevators, bad acoustics and eerie screechings from the public address system. It went to the very heart of the controversy and vehemently attacked the architectural form itself, from the materials used in construction to the design of the building with its completely false and phony entrance.

Because of the unrelenting attacks on the building, another Capitol structure, the new House Office Building, is proceeding slowly. No architectural design has been completed, although a huge foundation has been dug. It is a gaping hole that so far has cost $16 million, with nothing to go on top.

Potent Remedies For High Blood Pressure

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is a pill to fit every degree of high blood pressure. Reserpine is mild and takes care of borderline patients, whereas the potent Ansolysen, Inversine, and Ecolid are reserved for more serious cases. Many of these products are used in combination or along with Diuril, depending upon individual needs.

Guanethidine is the newest of the more potent anti-hypertensive drugs. It was administered by Dr. Irvine H. Page and Dr. Harriet P. Dustan of Cleveland to 18 patients for periods of 2 to 12 weeks. Following its use, the pressure fell slowly for several days to a week. During the test period there were no signs of toxicity. Diarrhea developed when large doses were given.

On standing from a sitting position, it is normal for the blood pressure to fall. The powerful remedies for high blood pressure appear to accentuate this reaction. Tension may drop so abruptly, the user feels dizzy and may faint. The effect usually wears off as the body adjusts to the lowered reading. Hypertensives using guanethidine had a marked drop in pressure every time they sat or stood up.

Physicians often suggest that someone in the household take the patient's blood pressure several times a day. The spouse, for example, is taught how to do this. The daily dosage of the potent remedy is regulated by the pressure and the lower the reading, the less medication is needed.

Many of these side reactions have been eliminated by combining the stronger drug with Diuril or reserpine. This enhances the good effects of both products and reduces the unpleasant side effects.

We do not know how well guanethidine will compare with the other potent remedies. If it passes the test of time, it means another drug to safeguard those with high blood pressure.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on hypertension, if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.)

LUNG CLEANSING

W. T. writes: After a person gives up smoking, is there any way to purify the lungs to clean out the tar?

REPLY

The lungs are self-cleansing and do this automatically. Smoker's cough is an example of how the body tries to eliminate the by-products of smoke.

FUNGI IN LUNG

D. E. writes: Does a fungus growth in the lungs act like tuberculosis?

REPLY

Yes, and special tests must be done to tell them apart. One Chicago surgeon had tuberculosis on one side, and several years later developed a fungal growth on the other lung. He was certain tuberculosis had spread to the other side and was a happy man when tests showed infection was due to a fungus rather than to tuberculosis.

CRANKY WHILE REDUCING

D. R. writes: Whenever I try to lose weight I become irritable and depressed. Do you think it worthwhile to stay on a reducing diet?

REPLY

At this stage you must contrast the disadvantage of obesity with disadvantages that stem from irritability and depression. Prescription products such as Dexedrine and Desoxyn impart a feeling of well being while on a reducing diet.

CAUSES OF ANEMIA

T. L. writes: Does anemia indicate that a disease is present?

REPLY

Not necessarily. There are many causes of anemia, including disease, faulty diet, and blood loss. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on anemia.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An ardent cowboy—not the TV variety—galloped up to his lady love in a cloud of dust, dismounted and declared. "Dearest gal of mine, I've ridden over 60 miles of desert just achin' to get here."

"Goodness me," breathed the lady love, "you must be tuckered out. Sit yourself down."

"Nothing doing," demurred the cowboy. "That's where I'm achin'."

A courtroom trick claimed as original by district attorneys in eight different states concerns the trial of a young man accused of murdering his sweetheart. Problem: her body was undiscovered, so the evidence was perforce circumstantial.

At a tense moment in the trial, the D.A. suddenly cried dramatically, "Here's the girl now!"

Only one person in the courtroom didn't wheel around to look toward the door—the defendant. The D.A. got the verdict he wanted: murder in the first degree.

Behind Crisis In Laos Is A Story Of Give-Aways And Corruption

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note — While Drew Pearson is on a "work and play vacation," his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam has responded to the crisis in Laos characteristically by pouring still more aid into a jungle kingdom that has already received more than it can absorb.

The new supplies will go to build up the 25,000-man Laotian army, a crack motorized force which unhappily is roadbound in a country without roads. Its jeeps and trucks are of little value in the steamy jungles where the Red guerrillas are attacking.

Providentially, the first supply plane brought in a load of jungle boots which are not only more useful but less costly than all the Laotians' modern, mechanized American equipment.

President Eisenhower has also authorized funds to increase the little army to 30,000 men, although there is considerable doubt that the present payroll goes to the 25,000 soldiers who are supposed to collect it.

Of the $250 million Uncle Sam has already sent to Laos, all but a small, green trickle has gone for military aid. Yet the Laotian army couldn't rescue a surrounded paratroop company because the reinforcements had no parachutes.

Dollar Dumping

For its small size, Laos has become the biggest dollar dumping ground outside of Fort Knox. The greenbacks have blown in faster than King Sissavang Vong and his courtiers could spend them until now the government has almost as much green as the surrounding jungle.

The result has been a record of corruption and mismanagement such as has not been seen since the decline of Chiang Kai-shek. Although it is impossible to sell more than $2 million worth of imported goods in Laos in a single month, for instance, the Laotian ministers breezily issue import licenses for as much as $7 million a month.

Of the 2 million Laotians, less than 150,000 around the royal capital at Vientiane have benefited from American aid. Next to nothing has gone into the remote sections of the country now being overrun by Communist rebels.

Several investigating teams have been sent into Laos to find out where the money is going. All have come back with dreary reports about waste and corruption.

The chief dispenser of aid to Laos during the give-away days was Carter de Paul who sold a 10-year-old Cadillac, worth $600 at best on the Laotian market, to the Universal Construction Company for $3,038. This happened to be one of the contractors with which he had been doing government business. The car was left outside the Universal office as a rusting symbol of corruption until, at the request of the American mission, it was torn up and dropped down an abandoned well.

Officials Rewarded

De Paul's reward was a promotion as chief of the Investment Division in Washington where he also does liaison work with the National Security Council, the government's top policy-making body.

De Paul's work in Laos and the sale of his Cadillac was approved by Ambassador Graham Parsons who was also promoted a few weeks ago. As Secretary of State in charge of Far Eastern Affairs, he is now in a position to spend money and influence people throughout the Far East.

Note — The cloak-and-dagger boys at Central Intelligence would like to answer the Communists in Laos by smuggling food and arms to the Tibetan tribesmen who are fighting the Communists in the high Himalayas. As long as the Reds stir up revolution in Laos, the CIA boys believe we should keep the Tibetan pot boiling. Two can play at the game of subversion and infiltration.

Hoffa Seeks Loopholes

Labor Day Round-up: On the second floor of the Teamsters' palatial headquarters, Jimmy Hoffa's lawyers already are searching the new labor bill for loopholes. To get around the new restrictions, he has already served an ultimatum upon Brinks that all contracts with armored car drivers across the country must be signed at the same time . . . Dictator Khrushchev has agreed to see labor leaders in San Francisco on September 20. Only Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers, Jim Carey of the Electrical Workers, and Joe Beirne of the Communications Workers are expected to keep the date . . . The Senate-House conferees fought bitterly behind closed doors over the labor bill. The room was acrid with tobacco smoke and controversy. At one point, Oregon's bristle-browed Sen. Wayne Morse shouted, "This is not the way to write legislation for the American people!" and stomped out of the room . . . On another occasion, Morse announced to his chief antagonist, Congressman Graham Barden of North Carolina: "I am going to get the Congressman from North Carolina to agree to one thing. For that I ask for a one-minute recess." . . . Then Morse passed a box of cigars, explaining: "My champion Devon cow gave birth to a bull calf while at the Gaithersburg Fair last night. I understand the Congressman from North Carolina is a great cattleman, and I am going to sell him that bull calf." . . . Sen. Jennings Randolph, West Virginia Democrat, also broke the tension once by quoting a passage from Joaquin Miller's poem, "Columbus." . . . "This mad sea shows his teeth tonight, he curls his lips, he lies in wait with lifted teeth as if to bite," repeated Randolph. Just as Columbus had sailed on to find land, the Senator urged the conferees to search on. "We may find common ground on which to stand," he said . . . Later, Morse was explaining to Randolph why he had voted against a proposal that would help West Virginia coal operators. Michigan's gravel - voiced Sen. Pat McNamara broke in mischievously: "The Senator from Oregon is just explaining to the Senator from West Virginia that he is a fair weather friend."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The twins were in their playpen. They looked up, blue-eyed blondes with tiny pony tails, mouths open. Mommy was saying goodbye. Daddy was taking her to the hospital to have another baby, and the twins felt vaguely uneasy. Why did she hold them so tight this particular time? Why the long, wet kiss, the nuzzling behind the ear?

They watched. Mommy stood up, pulled the dress down over the awkward form, blew one more kiss and followed Charlie and the little valise of clothes out. Gayle told her sister not to worry: "Lil and I will take care of them. They'll be good."

This is the moment of trial for millions of young women. This is the hour when there is no future, just the present. Charlie drove her up to Holy Name Hospital in Teaneck, New Jersey. The Sisters of St. Joseph were waiting. Sister Canise and Sister Philomena had been present when Robin and Pamela had been born, exactly a year ago. And Sister Bartholomew, who ministered to my mother and my father and to me in that hospital, was now kneeling in the dim and cool chapel, saying a prayer that the new generation would continue in health.

Dr. Albert Higdon was waiting too. He knows that some things start, and then stop. It's an aggravating truth. That is what happened. It was like this all day. Virginia Lee Frechette put her robe on and walked the corridor and met other young women. To some this was a new story. To some it was old.

"Mine has got to be a boy," said Ginny. Everybody laughed. "It's simply got to. My father had girls. He never had a son, so he must have a grandson. You know what their vanity is like when they reach 50."

The red ball of the sun hung above the deep green trees on the horizon. Nothing. Some of the girls were taken to the labor room. Not Ginny. She sat on the side of her bed and shrugged. The pretty face broke into smiles. "Nothing," she said to Dr. Higdon. "Just nothing."

It was night and the antiseptic dinner came up on a tray. The nurse at the desk made notes on charts. The clock on the wall spun lazily and silently. The gleaming corridor was quiet. Then something happened. It was no maybe - I - imagined - it thing. This was real. The doctor was called. It was real all right.

There was no fright in Ginny. No panic. "This is fine," she said. "I wouldn't want to go home and start all over." She does not believe in anesthetics and needles at times like these. She thinks that most of the pain is emotional.

But, before the night was over, her eyes were wild with fright and a doctor was sitting behind her holding a cone on her nose, murmuring: "If you'd only breathe deep as I tell you, you won't feel the next one." Before dawn, she heard the doctor say: "Get her husband. I want to talk to him," and she thought sadly: "This is what it's like to die. This is what it's like." She was wrong. The doctor wanted Charlie, sleeping on a hall bench, to be awakened because the time was near.

The sun came up over Leonia mean and hot. Only the snowy statue of the Sacred Heart in front of the hospital braved the rays in cool splendor. Breakfast trays rattled and doctors hopped out of parked cars to visit patients in many parts of the hospital. Starched nurses shook thermometers and jammed them into faces young and old.

The nuns walked the corridors in silence, their rubber heels making kissing sounds on the linoleum. "All right," Doctor Higdon said softly. "Now, Now. There. There." There was the sound of a slap, and a loud, thin wail assailed the walls of the delivery room. A second doctor got the silver nitrate, and the blue eyes which did not want to look at the world, were opened by force.

It was ten a. m. The doctor was tired. He went out into the hall. "Charlie," he said to my big red - headed son - in - law, "everything is fine. Ginny is all right. The baby is fine. Weighs about 8 pounds."

Charlie grinned and sat down. "Boy or girl, doc?" he said. The doctor smiled. "Boy," he said. "I asked Ginny what she's going to call him and she said Jim Bishop Frechette."

Sandra Roeder Captures County Singles Championship

15-Year-Old Is Youngest To Cop Title

Defeats Mrs. Bowie; Day And Bernstein Reach Men's Final

Sandra Roeder won the women's singles championship in the Allegany County Tennis Tournament yesterday when she defeated Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie in the finals, 6-2-6-1, on the Garlitz courts.

Miss Roeder is believed to be the youngest player ever to win the county championship. A daughter of Mrs. Lucile Roeder, city finance commissioner, Sandra is 15 years old. She also won the title in the 15-16 year old division in the recent City Recreation Department junior tennis tournament.

Bill Day and Maurice Bernstein became finalists in the men's singles tournament yesterday and will clash at 1 p.m. today for the title on the Garlitz courts.

Day defeated Jimmy Twigg, 5-7, 6-4 and 7-5 while Bernstein eliminated Johnny Byrd, 6-2, 6-3.

Calvin Hadidian and Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie advanced to the finals in mixed doubles by defeating Harold Brown and Henrietta Lippold, 6-2 and 9-7. They will play Donald Hanekamp and Betty Flake in the championship match Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.

Charles Sager and Glenn Workman, of Frostburg, wrapped up the men's doubles championship on Saturday by defeating Charles Day and Maurice Bernstein, the defending champions, 6-3 and 6-1.

Maxwell's Single Wins Game In 9th

DETROIT (AP) — Charlie Maxwell scored Harvey Kuenn from second base with a ninth-inning single Sunday in giving the Detroit Tigers a 7-6 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics and pitcher Pete Burnside his first victory of the season.

The Tigers, who twice came from behind, staged the winning rally against Tom Sturdivant and handed the ex-Yankee reliefer his seventh defeat against one victory.

The Tigers rattled out 15 hits, including a two-run home run by Frank Bolling and a three-run smash by Al Kaline, as they completed a sweep of the three-game series and edged into third place in the American League ahead of the New York Yankees.

Kuenn, the league leading batter, led off the ninth with a double. Kaline drew an intentional walk before Maxwell delivered his game-winning bllow.

Burnside pitched five innings of shutout ball in relief of Frank Lary, who was batted out in the fifth inning when Kansas City scored four times and took a 6-2 lead.

Bouchee Ailing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — First baseman Ed Bouchee was out of the Philadelphia Phillies lineup Sunday with what the team physician announced was diaphragmatic pleurisy.

Bouchee left with the Phillies, who started a western trip after Sunday's game with Pittsburgh. It was expected he would be out of the lineup for two or three days.

Bettenhausen Wins

DU QUOIN, Ill (UPI) —Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., raced to victory Sunday in the U. S. Auto Club's national championship midget car race, setting a new track record.

Bettenhausen finished the 100-mile grind in one hour, 6 minutes, 10.76 seconds. The old record of one hour, seven minutes, 14.26 seconds was set by the late Mike Nazaruk of North Belmore, N.Y., in 1953.

Beats McCormick In Hurling Duel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Right-hander Larry Jackson, who had lost three straight decisions to the San Francisco Giants, blanked the National League leaders on five singles Sunday as the St. Louis Cardinals won 1-0 on an unearned eighth inning run.

A crowd of 22,893 saw Jackson throttle the Giants. He scattered hits in the third, seventh, eighth and ninth frames to win a pitching duel against youthful left-hander Mike McCormick. The loser was touched for only four hits before leaving in favor of an eighth-inning pinch hitter.

Jackson (13-12) fanned six and didn't allow a walk in pitching his second shutout in a row.

The winning run scored on a hit, a two-base error and a squeeze bunt.

With one out, Don Blasingame singled to left. Orlando Cepeda's throw to second went all the way to the Giants' dugout, and Blasingame reached third on the left fielder's error. Alex Grammas pushed a bunt along the first base line, scoring Blasingame as McCormick threw the runner out at first.

McCormick pitched no hit ball until two were out in the fifth. Then Gino Cimoli smashed a grounder that third baseman Joe Pagan couldn't handle as he ran to the left and it was scored a single.

The Old Exports won the first game by the score of 5-0 and Maple Inn took the second contest, 13-11.

Barton Snares Title

Barton won the championship of the Maryland-West Virginia Little League by beating Corriganville on Saturday by the score of 4-3 in the third and deciding game of their series at Corriganville. Larry Duckworth was the winning pitcher.

Jimmy High paced the Barton hitters with a triple and two singles while Russell Morgan had three safeties for Corriganville.

Old Gees Lose Two

The Puerto Rican All-Stars of Brooklyn, N. Y., won a doubleheader from the Old Germans of the Rec Softball League yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by scores of 4-2 and 7-0.

Banks' Homer In 10th Sinks Dodgers, 3-0

Koufax Hangs Up Strikeout Record

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ernie Banks' 10th inning three-run homer Sunday gave the Chicago Cubs a 3-0 victory over Los Angeles despite a pitching record by Dodger Sandy Koufax in the first game of a doubleheader.

By striking out 10 Cub batters Sunday, Koufax ran his strikeout total for three consecutive games to 41 to break a 49-year-old major league record. Koufax went into Sunday's game with 31 strikeouts in his two previous appearances—18 last Monday when he tied the major league record for one game.

His total surpassed the record of 38 set by Walter Johnson in 1910 and equalled by Bob Feller in 1938. He also broke the National record of 32 set by Dazzy Vance in 1925.

Although Art Ceccarelli, the Cub hurler, did not equal Koufax's strikeouts, he held the Dodgers scoreless. Koufax gave up two walks in the 10th and with one out, Banks got his first hit of the game—but a big one. A 350-foot homer over the left center field enclosure.

It was his 39th homer of the season.

Barrelville Downs Mt. Savage, 2 To 1; Raines, See Score

Barrelville's Old Exports nosed out Mt. Savage, 2-1, and Hyndman's Merchants eked out a 1-0 decision over the Centerville Reds yesterday as the playoffs got under way in the Pen-Mar Baseball League at Barrelville and Hyndman.

Barrelville broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning when Dorcil Kline and Ronnie Cage singled, George Miller sacrificed and Joe Glass' sacrifice fly sent Kline home with what proved to be the winning run.

Manager "Buck" Fiorita's pennant winning club scored its first run of the game in the third inning when Leroy Morris hit safely, was forced at second by Ronnie Emerick who romped on a lusty triple by Galen McGregor.

Mt. Savage knotted the score at one-all in the top of the fourth when Kenny Johnson got a life on an error, took second on Steve Faulkner's single to center and came home when the ball got by Dorcil Kline.

Raines Fans 13

Bobby Raines pitched a four-hitter, struck out 13 and failed to issue a pass as he registered his 13th victory of the campaign against a single loss. Jack Lowery turned in a creditable performance for the losers, yielding seven hits while his strikeout victims totaled seven. He gave up only one pass.

No player got more than one hit. McGregor and Ronnie Cage blasted triples for Barrelville.

Robert "Ab" See was returned the winner over Glenn Deremer in the 1-0 slab duel at Hyndman, completed in the time of one hour, 35 minutes.

The Merchants scored the game's lone tally in the eighth when Bob Bryant doubled down the left field foul line, moved to third on See's sacrifice and registered at home on "Pete" Deremer's two-base shot to left-center.

Centerville threatened in the first inning when singles by Jay Eckard, Dwight Rose and Dave Rose loaded the hassocks but Manager Mel Nee popped to Shortstop "Pete" Deremer and A. Growden hit into a double play, Deremer to "Candy" Lowery to Lew Hite.

Pull Three Double Plays

Hyndman filled the bases in the second inning after one away but this threat died when Bob Bryant smacked into a twin killing. Hyndman executed its second double play to stop the Reds in the ninth inning.

See scattered six hits and fanned three while Deremer gave up seven safeties and struck out two. No bases on balls were issued by either twirler.

Cliff Clites led the Hyndman stickers with a double and single. Jay Eckard and Dave Rose collected two blows each for the Reds.

Both series will continue next Sunday at which time Hyndman will visit Centerville and Mt. Savage will host Barrelville. The scores:

Springfield Is Hampshire Loop Champ

Tom Frye Masters Capon Bridge, 4-1

Springfield's Rockets won the championship of the Hampshire County Baseball League yesterday when they defeated Capon Bridge in a playoff game on the Romney High School Field by the score 4-1.

The extra game was necessary when the teams finished their regular schedules deadlocked for first place with 11-3 records.

It was the third straight victory for the Rockets over Capon Bridge this season. Scores of the other games were 4-2 and 4-3.

The Cosner brothers accounted for what proved to be the winning run in the second inning when Frank was safe on an error, pilfered second base and came home on Dale's two-base blow.

Lefty Tom Frye went the route for the Rockets, scattered nine hits and struck out seven. It was his fourth win against two defeats this season. John McCauley, the loser, yielded seven hits, whiffed four and issued two bases on balls.

Dale Cosner with two doubles and Dennis Straw with a two-bagger and single sparked the attack. Ronnie Sowers, John McCauley and Clarence Saville shared six of the losers' nine blows.

Finsterwald Ties Goalby At 206 In Kansas City Open

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., fired a 3-under-par 69 and early leader Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., hung on with a 71 as they battled to a tie of 206 after three rounds in the Kansas City Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

While Finsterwald and Goalby were experiencing only minor difficulties making their third tour of the 6,542-yard par-72 Blue Hills Country Club course, Tommy Bolt just about shot himself out of any possibility of making the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

Bolt, a member of the stable of pros playing out of Crystal River, Fla., shot an even par 72 that left him with a 210 total and 4 strokes off the lead. He has to win this one to qualify for the cup team.

Vic Power's Two-Run Double Beats Chicago In Ninth, 2-1

Cleveland Defeats Donovan; Sox Lead Cut To 4½ Games

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Vic Power's two-run double in the ninth inning Sunday supported Mudcat Grant's 8-hit job to give the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 victory over the league-leading Chicago White Sox.

The Sox' second straight loss to the second-place Tribe shaved their lead to 4½ games.

It was a heartbreaker for right-hander Dick Donovan, seeking his second straight shutout over Cleveland and his 10th victory of the season.

But the Sox supported him in typically powerless fashion. Their only run came in the fifth on a run-scoring 40-foot single by Jim Landis.

Grant registered his first triumph over the Sox, after dropping six decisions to them last year and two this season. It was his 9th victory against 6 losses for the campaign.

The cliff-hanging Sox now have absorbed 11 one-run defeats and have won 31 single point decisions.

The Sox got to Grant for three hits in the fifth. Luis Aparicio singled and filched second for his 49th stolen base. Nelson Fox singled Aparicio to third. Then Landis scratched a 40-foot single off Grant's glove and Aparicio raced home.

Aparicio's lead-off double in the first inning was the only extra base hit allowed by Grant. He struck out 2 and walked 4.

Pizarro Scores For Milwaukee Over Cincinnati

Keeps Flag Hopes Alive With 6-2 Win

CINCINNATI (AP)—Juan Pizarro wavered in the last two innings but hung on for a seven-hit Milwaukee victory Sunday over Cincinnati 6-2.

It kept alive the flickering pennant hopes of the defending National League champs, now four games off the pace with 19 season games to go.

The Reds were powerless against Pizarro until the eighth inning when Ed Bailey led off with a double and Eddie Kasko singled him in.

The Milwaukee southpaw shut off that rally. But in the ninth, Frank Robinson led off with his 34th season homer. Frank Thomas and Ed Bailey lined out while Willie Jones drew a walk and Kasko doubled.

Pizarro bore down and struck out pinch hitter Pete Whisenant to end the game.

The only hits the Reds could extract from Pizarro in the first seven innings were Robinson's fourth-inning single and Kasko's double in the fifth.

Only three singles were needed in the Braves' three-run sixth inning when Cincinnati's prize young southpaw, Jim O'Toole was routed.

National Champions Vie In Motorcycle Hill Climb Today

Four Contests Are Set For Oldtown Road

Card Of Four Events To Start At 2 P.M.; Mosser To Officiate

National champions will head a field of approximately fifteen professional and amateur riders today in the motorcycle hill climbing program to be staged on Route 51, nineteen miles east of Cumberland and four miles west of Paw Paw on Oldtown Road.

Joseph W. Hemmis, Cumberland professional, and Harold Werner, Easton, Pa., amateur, who won national championships at Muskegon, Mich., August 9, top the list of slant riders who are 'ated to compete in the four events, the first of which will get under way at 2 p.m., EDT. Hemmis is also national point scoring champion for 1958-59.

First Since 1957

The hill climb will be the first in Western Maryland since June 16, 1957 when the slant riders competed on the Kline Farm Hill near the Cumberland Municipal Airport. The pro events were won by Howard Mitzel, York, Pa., and Joseph Hemmis, and amateur honors were captured by Charles Jacobs, Bangor, Pa., and Gordon Mitzel, York, Pa.

Jacobs, Earl Buck of Detroit, and Raleigh "Bobby" Johnson, were among the out-of-town riders who put in their appearance here yesterday. Jacobs finished second to Hemmis in the national championship test at Muskegon.

Other prominent riders expected to compete today are Kenny Hatton, Ontario, Canada; Andy Baycura, Pittsburgh; Clarence J. "Jake" Nealen and his son Duane, of Bedford, Ohio; Clarence "Tee" Hemmis, brother of Joe, and Clarence Eichner, of Columbus, Ohio.

"Flying Dutchmen" Vie

Clarence Harper, of Cumberland, who ranked ninth nationally as an amateur for 1958-59, will be among the contestants as will Paul and Joe Mayer, Gordon Mitzel and Beese Wendt, of York, Pa., better known as "Mitzel's Flying Dutchmen," and Herbert Hislop, of Muskegon, Mich.

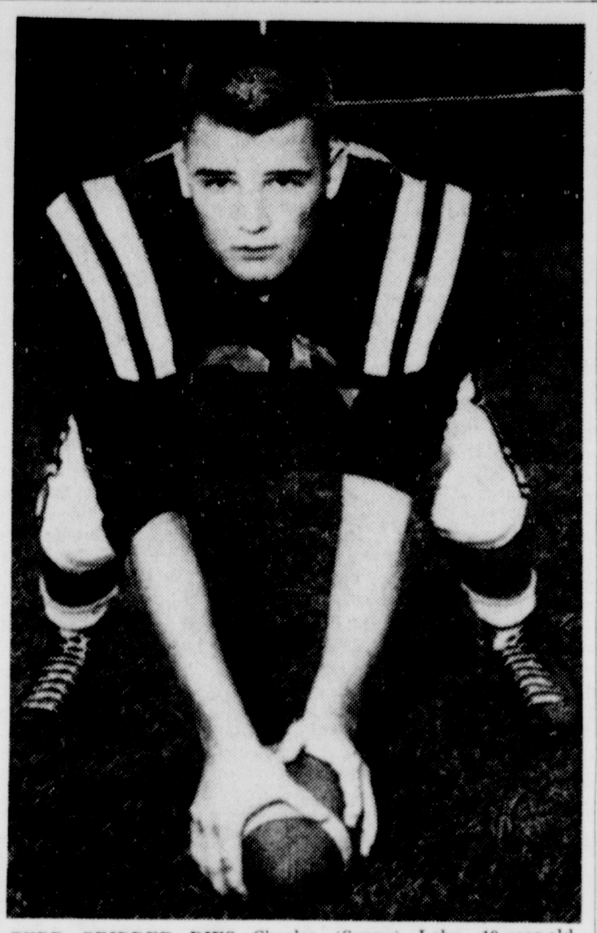
Sam Kakabar, Beaverdale, Pa., who suffered a broken back in the hill climb here two years ago, is ridin again and is expected to be here b t Clement "Buddy" Cosgrove, former Cumberland riding star and now a resident of Ohio, will be missing. He has been inactive since last year when he was injured at Dayton, Ohio.

Mosser To Officiate

Today's program shapes up as one of the best ever staged in the tri-state area and should attract a large holiday crowd. "Red" Mosser, of Altoona, Pa., will be the official referee for today's events.

Cash awards will go to the riders finishing first, second, third and fourth in every one of the four contests on today's card.

Motorcyclists gathered here last evening for the annual dinner meeting of the Hill Climbers' Association at the Bowman's Addition Fire Hall. This organization meets every year and submits rules changes and other proposals for the betterment of the sport to the American Motorcycle Association.



TERP GRIDDER DIES—Charles (Sonny) Lohr, 19-year-old sophomore center of the University of Maryland football team, died yesterday as the result of heat exhaustion. Boston Breaks Losing Streak

Brewer Is Winner Over Senators, 2-1

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Tom Brewer pitching a five-hitter and socking a home run, the Boston Red Sox snapped a five-game losing streak by nosing out Washington 2-1 Sunday.

Brewer's homer, his first of the year, came with none on in the third inning. The winning run came in the fifth as Don Buddin doubled and Pumpsie Green singled him home. Losing pitcher Pedro Ramos and reliefer Hal Woodeshick also allowed only five hits.

Green played a key role in cutting off Washington's bid to tie the game in the eighth. Roy Sievers' double over Jackie Jensen's head drove in one run. However, when Jim Lemon tried to make it all the way home from first base, Green took Jensen's throw on the outfield grass and fired a perfect peg to catcher Sam White to nail the sliding Lemon.

Walker Bags 10th, Whitey Ford Loser

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hector Lopez' muff of a fly ball enabled the Baltiore Orioles to score the deciding run Sunday in a 5-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Lopez, a converted infielder, dropped Brooks Robinson's long drive to left field in the seventh inning for a three-base error.

Robinson then scored on Don Larsen's wild pitch for the Orioles fifth run of the game that proved to be the winning tally when the Yankees narrowed the gap later.

The Orioles hammered Whitey Ford for four runs in the first two innings with ex-Yankee Gene Woodling leading the assault.

Woodling homered in the first inning and singled home two runs in the Orioles' three-run second inning rally.

Yogi Berra drove in three runs for the Yankees with a sacrifice fly in the fourth, a homer in the sixth, and a force-out in the eighth. Norm Siebern's pinch-hit homer in the ninth provided the Yankees' last run.

Jerry Walker gained his 10th victory for the Orioles although he needed help from Hal Brown in the eighth when the Yankees loaded the bases with one out. Brown induced Berra and Lopez to ground out. Ford suffered his eighth defeat.

Clemente's Error Ties Score, Sets Up Winning Tally

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A fielder's two-base error broke up a tight pitching duel in the eighth inning Sunday as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated Pittsburgh 2-1 and snagged the Pirates' National League pennant hopes.

The Pirates, now are in fourth place, still within striking distance of first place San Francisco.

Robin Roberts, the big right-hander, almost lost the game in the ninth when the Pirates loaded the bases with none out. But he started a double play that nipped the runner at third, then got the last batter to pop to the catcher. It was his 13th win against 15 losses.

The loser was Vernon Law (15-9). He gave up only five hits, but four of them were in the unlucky two-run eighth. Carl Sawatski got the first single. Roberts also singled and reached third when Roberto Clemente let the ball get through him in right field. Joe Koppe singled home Roberts with the winning run.

Pittsburgh collected its lone run in the eighth. Up to that point the Pirates had only one hit, in the sixth. Smoky Burgess doubled. Dick Schofield, running for Burgess, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on another.

In the ninth Glenn Nelson, batting for Law, singled. Bob Skinner also singled. Dick Groat then was hit by a pitch. Clemente lined to Roberts. The Phils missed a triple play at second base by just a step.

Belington Knocks Moorefield Out Of Playoffs, 4 To 2

Belington advanced to the finals of the playoffs in the Mountain State Baseball League by beating Moorefield yesterday at Belington by the score of 4-2.

The victory gave Belington a two-game sweep in the series and earned a shot at the winner of the Century-Mill Creek playoff series.

three-run rally punctuated by Fitzwater's triple and Jeran's two-bagger won the game for Belington in the fourth inning.

Joe Jeran worked 8⅔ innings on the rubber for Belington and notched the win. He yielded six hits, including a double and single by Harlan Hott. Bright retired the only batsman he faced in the 9th to end the game. Harold Mongold, who pitched until the fifth for the pennant winners, was charged with the loss. Score:

Jockey Art Stone Suspended For Life

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico — (UPI) — A second jockey, Arthur Stone, was suspended—in effect—for life Sunday by the Caliente Stewards because of a Los Angeles County grand jury investigation into alleged race fixing.

Stone, one of the top riders and winner of many stakes races at top traces in the United States, has ridden such turf greats as Count Fleet and Polynesian.

He is named as a key figure in the grand jury probe into alleged fixing and doping horses at tracks in the states as well as here.

High School Gridder Dies From Injuries

PIQUA, Ohio (UPI)—A 16-year-old high school football player died about three hours after being tackled in a scrimmage game Saturday.

The youth—David Murray—had just completed a 48-yard touchdown run when he was tackled from behind by two other players. He never regained consciousness.

He was a halfback on the Covington, Ohio, High School team. His twin-brother, Douglas, is the other halfback.

Russell Ponton Leads In Peskin Memorial Golf

Paces Field With 67 For First 18 Holes

Russell Ponton carded a net 72-5—67 yesterday to lead a field of 70 players for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole Morton Peskin Memorial Golf Tournament which will be concluded today at the Cumberland Country Club.

Ben LaNeve, who won the first leg on the Peskin trophy last year held the runner-up spot at the end of 18 holes with a net 76-5—71.

Other players in the top ten include:

George Garlitz 78-5—73, John Rokisky 78-5—73, Vince Panico 82-9—73, Harry White 78-5—73, Clifton Van Roby 77-3—74, "Steve" Johnson 76-2—74, Jerome Ellenson 79-5—74 and Jack Moberly 81-7—74.

In the odd hole tournament held over the weekend, George Garlitz was the winner with a net 35-3—32. Players with flags on par three holes were: No. 1—Max Bastian. No. 6—Harold Francis. No. 10—"Steve" Johnson. Nos. 15 and 18—Bill George.

Five first round matches were played yesterday in the fall tournament with results as follows:

Second Flight—George Schwarzenbach defeated Hollis Seavy, 1 up, 19th; Dr. Frank Leger defeated George Bottorf, 2 and 1; Bert Mason defeated R. J. Cannon, 3 and 2. Fourth Flight—Allan Tyler defeated Buford Saville, 5 and 3. Fifth Flight—Robert Gerson defeated Marvin Kaplon, 1 up, 19th.

In championship flight matches played Saturday, C. S. Catherman, Jr., defending champion, defeated Max Bastian, 3 and 2, Ed Mattingly eliminated Joe Wolfe, the medalist, 3 and 2, and "Steve" Johnson trimmed John Wilson, 7 and 6.

In the third flight; Dr. William Ryan defeated Bob Peterson, 2 up on the 18th.

Alex Olmedo Beats Flam

MacKay Eliminates 45-Year-Old Mulloy

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Peruvian Alex Olmedo played both his favorite roles—the jungle cat and the listless lamb — in squeaking through to a second round victory Sunday in the National Tennis Championships.

The top-seeded favorite, looking only at times like the clever court matador who swept to the Wimbledon title, outmaneuvered soft-baller Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in a two-hour match 7-5, 6-4, 6-8, 6-2.

Serves Popcorn Balls

It wasn't easy. Serving popcorn balls and shoving his "nothing" shots into the corners and over Olmedo's head, Flam gave the South American a rugged workout.

In the fourth set, Olmedo became so disturbed he turned angrily to the marquee and yelled: "Shut up, will you?"

Olmedo was joined in the round of 32 by his thunderbolt-serving teammate, Barry MacKay; Australia's Neale Fraser, Rod Laver, Roy Emerson and Bob Mark; India's Ramanathan Krishnan; Luis Ayala of Chile and a pair of ex-Wimbledon champions, Dick Savitt and Vic Seixas.

Fraser, individual star of the challenge round and seeded second, never lost a service in beating Mike Green of Miami, Fla., 8-6, 6-4, 6-1. His teammate, Rod Laver, toppled Frank Froehling III of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-4, 6-0, 6-2. Krishnan, seeded No. 5 erased Reginald Bennett, an Englishman attending Lamar Tech in Texas, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2. Ayala, No. 6, advanced over Forrest Stewart of Altadena, Calif., 6-2, 6-4, 6-0.

Mulloy Eliminated

MacKay seeded third, had his cannonball service smoking as he erased 45-year-old Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Emerson, No. 8, played sparkling tennis in beating British Davis Cupper Tony Pickard, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Savitt, from New York, cut down Pablo Eisenberg of Millburn, N.J., 9-7, 6-0, 6-2.

With top-seeded Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil idle, South Africa's doll-like Sandra Reynolds and Britain 6-foot Christine Truman led a sweep of favorites in the women's division.

Miss Reynolds, seeded No. 2, crushed Barbara Weigandt of Alexandria, Va., 6-1, 6-3. Miss Truman avenged a 1957 Wimbledon setback in beating Tiny Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., 7-5, 6-1.

Barton Braves Meet

A meeting of the Barton Braves, pennant winners in the Twilight Baseball League, will be held today at 7:30 p. m., at Kifer's Bowlmor Center, Barton, to discuss plans for playing a home-and-home series with Moorefield's All-Stars, regular season champions of the Mountain State League.

U.S. Takes Six Pan-American Rowing Races

Puerto Rico Beats U.S. Ball Team, 9-5

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States won six out of seven rowing races on the last full-scale day of competition in the Pan-American Games Sunday and sent its gold medal total to the mazing mark of 118.

Argentina with nine was the nearest rival.

What looked for a time like a clean sweep in swimming was interrupted when Mexico's Alvaro Gaxiola won the platform dive.

And in rowing, only Uruguay's victory in the pair oars with coxswain marred a Yankee sweep all the way from the single sculls victory of Harry Barker of Philadelphia up through the triumph of Syracuse's magnificent shell in the eight oar class.

When the daytime competition was nearly completed, the United States also had 70 silver medals, and 51 bronze medals. Argentina had 9-21-11 and Brazil 9-6-4.

In the last Pan-American Games in Mexico City the United States won 89 gold medals, 59 silver, and 38 bronze, and Argentina 28-13-29.

Among the day's victors were Lt. Daniel Puckel of Marion, Ind., who broke the world's record for the 300 meter free style rifle event with 1,147 out of a possible 1,200. The old mark was 1,139 set by Anatoli Boedanov of Russia in 1955. Puckel picked up four gold medals.

A grand slam home run by Reinaldo Vazquez in the ninth inning with one out gave Puerto Rico a victory over the United States in baseball 9-5, and dropped the United States to a third place tie with Cuba. Venezuela won the baseball title.

Round Table Runs Today At Arlington

Hillsdale To Run At Belmont Park

By The Associated Press

Round Table and Hillsdale, leading candidates for the handicap championship and horse of the year honors, headline the Labor Day racing card with appearances in widely separated races.

Round Table, world's leading money winner with earnings of $1,541,889, goes in the $100,000 added Washington Park Handicap in Arlington Park.

Hillsdale, idle since July 11 when he chalked up his eighth stakes triumph of the year with victory in the Hollywood Gold Cup, returns to action in a mere $15,000 race in Belmont Park. It's a 7-furlong affair serving as the secondary feature to the $50,000 added Jerome featuring Intentionally, the speedy 3-year old from Harry Isaacs Brookfield Farm.

Birds Buy Coleman

DETROIT (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics Sunday sold pitcher Rip Coleman to the Baltimore Orioles in a straight cash deal. The 28-year-old left-hander had a 2-10 record with the Athletics, who acquired him in February 1957 in a big trade with the New York Yankees. Terms of the sale were not announced.

Charles Lohr, Maryland Grid Player, Dies

Heat Exhaustion Given As Cause

BALTIMORE (UPI)— Charles "Sonny" Lohr, 19-year-old University of Maryland football player who collapsed on the practice field from heat exhaustion last Wednesday, died Sunday at University Hospital.

Lohr, a sophomore and a center on the football team had been in critical condition ever since his collapse. He grew weaker Sunday night and died at 5:30 a.m. e.d.t.

Lohr had been taken from the football field to Prince Georges County Hospital, not far from the university. Recently he was removed to the university hospital at Baltimore where an artificial kidney was used to treat a kidney infection.

TV Quiz Show Probe To Begin On October 6

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House influence investigating subcommittee has announced it will launch public hearings Oct. 6 in its investigation of charges that some famous television quiz shows were rigged.

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said he hoped to complete the hearings within a week by holding all-day sessions.

The witness list was expected to include television network officials and some of the quiz show contestants, who received thousands of dollars in prizes.

Harris also announced that the subcommittee hoped to hear again sometime this fall from Boston textile manufacturer Bernard Goldfine. Harris said no definite date had been set, however.

Goldfine, who pleaded "no defense" to contempt of Congress charges here, will be given a chance to answer the questions he dodged during the subcommittee's original hearings on his tangled financial dealings.

The television quiz shows, which had wide public appeal, were the target of a nine-month investigation by a New York grand jury following charges that they were rigged to insure their popularity.

The grand jury returned a "presentment," or summary of its findings, which was sealed by the court. New York Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer agreed on Aug. 4 to release the presentment and the minutes of the inquiry to the subcommittee.

Harris said the subcommittee hoped to have a complete transcript of the grand jury testimony available at the opening of the October hearings.

Television and Radio by John Crosby

Connoisseurs Of Charm

Bert Parks, the effulgent master of ceremonies who handles the annual Miss America telecast from Atlantic City, has written the Governors of all the states, calling them "connoisseurs of charm and talent," a nasty accusation if ever I heard one, and asking them what there was about their states that would produce the special glow needed in the next Miss America. Thirteen Governors and one Mayor rose to this sucker bait and answered, spitting adjectives and civic pride as if they were running for Miss America themselves.

"Having grown up amid such surroundings (forested mountains, soaring peaks, crystal mountain lakes, haunting purple-splashed buttes and deserts, foaming waterfalls and sparkling meadows), Idaho men get a taste for beauty," trumpeted Gov. Robert E. Smylie of guess where. "Idaho parents simply do not have daughters that cannot hold their own with the scenery."

Several of the other Governors decided that the local scenery had a lot to do with it. Said Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire: "A young girl, growing up in such an atmosphere of beauty, is aware at a very early age of the countless blessings of nature so abundant in New Hampshire, and her own personality, charm and feminine attractiveness are influenced by this awareness during her maturing years." Gov. J. Hugh Aronson, of Montana, trilled: "Any state with such lovely scenery could hardly help but have beautiful girls to match."

A close second to scenery ran the girl's ancestry and heritage which gave the Governors scope to ring in all sorts of boosts for the local electorate. Heading this school of prose poets was that old master of malarkey, Gov. Happy Chandler of Kentucky: "With the charm, friendliness and beauty received from grandmothers reared in the old South," wrote old Happy, the scene of orange blossoms rising like heady wine from the stationery, "our Kentucky girls are endowed with special qualities no other state can boast."

Those Southern Governors wield a mighty pen when it comes to laying on the blarney. New Mexico Gov. John Burroughs elbowed aside all other state business to delve deep into the business of female beauty—especially the New Mexican variety. "We have here the serene Indian maiden whose beauty dates back for centuries, the vivacious Spanish senorita who has maintained the charm of old Spain, the lively and interesting all-America girl—all three of them merging into one perfect pageant of potential Miss Americas." Until a better one comes along, this will stand as the ultimate paean to New Mexican womanhood, fitting to be studied in the public schools and perhaps carved in marble on the state house.

When you get out of the South, you run into a lot more variety on why the local babes are yummy—some of the reasoning pretty far-fetched, considered purely as anthropology. For instance Gov. Harold Handley of Indiana declared with a perfectly straight face: "We are located in the very center of this nation's heartland, and thus epitomize America's great heritage as well as being in the very forefront of America's present progress." (What's progress got to do with girls, Governor? There's been very little progress in that line since they stopped breathing through their gills.)

From South Dakota came a more realistic appraisal, chemically speaking. Gov. Ralph Herseth out there wrote that the many "beautiful young ladies we raise in South Dakota" were "a subtle blending of clean Dakota

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — The first picture Jean Seberg will make for Columbia since Sam Briskin took over her contract from Otto Preminger, is "Let No Man Write My Epitaph." Jean is a girl of great courage. Her notices were very bad in "Joan of Arc," but she kept at it. She was much better in "Bonjour Tristesse," and best of all, I'm told, in the picture she made in London titled "The Mouse That Roared."

"Let No Man Write My Epitaph" is an out-and-out Columbia production. Jean's role is that of a girl from the right side of the tracks who marries a boy who is not quite as fortunate. Burl Ives, James Darren, and Shelley Winters, who plays Darren's mother, are in the cast.

Fabian's party at the Interlude brought out a lot of the younger generation, as well as many of the people with whom he has done business since he came to Hollywood.

He has a straight six year contract with 20th Century - Fox. He was paid $35,000 for his first picture, "Hound Dog Man" and for each succeeding picture the price goes up, and there are no options. He has one of the few straight contracts in town.

The more I see of this boy the better I like him. He seems so eager to please everyone, and he's unspoiled. One of the executives at 20th told me that he will be a very good actor, perhaps a better actor than a singer.

Ernest Borgnine has been set up by our State Department to fly to Moscow the last week in October to attend the Russian premiere of "Mary." This is the first film that will be shown in our cultural exchange program with the Reds.

To make this trip possible, Allied Artists is not only delaying the start of Ernie's next picture, "Pay Or Die," but Ernie himself may delay his marriage to Katy Jurado. Ernie tells me the civil ceremony uniting him and Katy will definitely be performed in this country, but he wants to wait 'til he has time for a real honeymoon. Meanwhile, he has to finish "Man On A String" for Columbia.

The party Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson gave after the opening of "The Gazebo" at Scandia, was in a way a farewell to Ros who leaves Friday for New York to rehearse for her Ford spectacular. Before going to the theatre, a few of us had a bite to eat at the Brissons, and I had a chance to admire Nedda Logan's necklace. She told me it had belonged to Lady Mendl. It is an Indian necklace of emeralds, set in gold, and backed with fascinating enamel.

Doris (Mrs. Jules) Stein, who had recently been to India, identified the piece of jewelry as coming from Jaipur. Roz had an equally beautiful ruby necklace and matching bracelet, gifts from Freddie.

Lance, the Brissons' stalwart son, escorted Johnny and Bunny Green's daughter—such a pretty girl. Jayne Meadows and Steve Allen told me they are very house conscious now that they have settled here. Their home is high on a hill in the valley, if you can fathom that paradox.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear father, James E. Twigg, who passed away 12 years ago, Sept. 7, 1947.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still.
His memory is as clear today,
As in the hour he passed away,
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
THE CHILDREN — Thurman, Kermit, Phyllis, Mrs. Ervin A. Shrout.

ORDINANCE NO. 2117
AN ORDINANCE OF THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND, ENTITLED, "AN ORDINANCE TO RESTRICT HEAVY TRUCKS AND HEAVY EQUIPMENT FROM USING CERTAIN STREETS, ALLEYS AND HIGHWAYS LOCATED WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS OF CUMBERLAND; AND PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF."
WHEREAS, certain streets, alleys and highways in the City of Cumberland were constructed many years ago; and
WHEREAS, many of said streets, alleys and highways in the City are now used by heavy trucks and equipment, for which use said streets, alleys and highways were not designed and great damage has resulted from such use of said streets, alleys and highways by said trucks and equipment; and
WHEREAS, many of the streets, alleys and highways in the City of Cumberland are narrow and were not designed for use by heavy trucks and equipment, which said streets are now being used by such trucks and equipment and as a result thereof traffic on such streets, alleys and highways has become congested and other hazards have resulted, all of which are a danger to life and property; and
WHEREAS many water and sewer lines were placed under the beds of certain streets, alleys and highways in the City of Cumberland prior to usage of the surface thereof by heavy trucks and equipment, which said streets are now being used by such trucks and equipment and damage to said water and sewer lines has been caused thereby.
NOW, THEREFORE:
SECTION 1. BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, That whenever it is necessary for the protection of any street, alley or highway, or the safety of traffic thereon to avoid congestion and other hazards which cause danger to life and property, the Mayor and City Council shall from time to time, by Order, designate and name streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof within the City Limits of Cumberland, whereon a limitation of load or weight of vehicles using such streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, shall be established. All such orders passed by said Mayor and City Council shall be considered as a part of this Ordinance.
SECTION 2. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That where it is necessary to protect the surface and or bed of streets, alleys and highways, the Mayor and City Council shall from time to time, by Order, designate and name streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof within the City Limits, whereon a limitation of load or weight of vehicles using such streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, shall be established, and all such Orders shall be considered as a part of this Ordinance.
SECTION 3. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That whenever it is necessary for the protection of water and or sewer lines located under the streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof within the City Limits, the Mayor and City Council shall from time to time, by Order, designate and name streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, whereon a limitation of load or weight of vehicles using such streets, alleys or highways, or parts thereof, shall be established, and all such Orders shall be considered as a part of this Ordinance.
SECTION 4. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That after the erection of said signs, it shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firm or corporation to drive or operate upon said streets, alleys or highways, any vehicle, the weight load of which shall be in excess of the limit set by Order and posted on said streets, alleys or highways.
SECTION 5. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That any person, persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance, or any Order which is passed in accordance therewith, shall be subject to a fine of not less than Ten Dollars ($10.00) nor more than Fifty Dollars ($50.00) and, in default of payment of any fine imposed under this section, the convicted person shall be confined in the City or County Jail for not less than one (1) day nor more than thirty (30) days.
SECTION 6. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That any Ordinance or parts of Ordinances conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same are hereby repealed.
SECTION 7. AND BE IT FURTHER ORDAINED, That this Ordinance shall take effect from the date of its passage.
Passed this 31st day of August, 1959.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

Bonita and Jack Wrather also said they would soon be bidding us adieu on their yearly honeymooon trip to Europe.

About "Gazebo." I don't know when I have laughed as hard, and I wasn't alone. The entire audience roared with appreciation over a comedy based on, of all things, a murder. Tom Ewell is really tops when it comes to pantomime and his double-takes are screamingly funny.

I loved Jan Sterling who not only looks like a doll but is excellent in her giddy role. Her proud husband, Paul Douglas, had a seat in front, and had to go home and change his shirt (he was so nervous for Jan) before he could come to the Brisson party afterward. Jan told me that Paul is wonderful in that he never asked her to give up her career, even though it separated them.

Vincent Barbi, who plays one of the gangsters, told me he had written to me saying that some day he would see me in Hollywood. "And here I am," he said, "all the way from Rome!" He's good, too, and so is Don Briggs.

Debbie Reynolds and Glenn Ford have the Sterling and Ewell roles in the motion picture version of "Gazebo" at MGM.

Back from her honeymoon, Margaret O'Brien Allen, as she called herself when she telephoned to report in, is still on cloud 9. She loved Honolulu, she is radiantly happy, and the only dark cloud is that she leaves the last of the month for New York. She's booked to do "Back Country" for the U.S. Steel Hour.

"My husband can't go with me," said Margaret, "because he'll be in school, but we'll write each other every day." I was pretty sure Bob wouldn't let anything interfere with his education, and I think he's right. He wants to graduate and go to work.

New International Air Mail Stamp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Post Office has announced that a new 15-cent orange and black international air mail stamp, intended primarily for use to Europe and the Middle East, will go on sale Nov. 20.

The stamp will feature a drawing of the State of Liberty with the slogan "Liberty for All" immediately above and on the left. The lettering "U.S. mail" and the denomination "15C" are arranged in the right with a jet airplane silhouetted superimposed over the "U."

About three months after birth, a baby's eyes become able to focus distinctly.

Brushing enhances natural-looking waves and brings out the beauty of a permanent.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Yours For More Beautiful Hair

One of the most foolish fears some girls have is believing the old wive's tale about not brushing the hair after it is set. They think it ruins the "set" or harms a permanent wave. Actually, just the opposite is true. It will improve the hair and make it look more natural and softened.

All good hairdressers brush the hair thoroughly as soon as they remove the pins. Proper brushing encourages a "set" into tractability — and it will last longer. Most hairdressers arrange a fresh hairdo with a brush rather than a comb.

Hair has come in for a grooming, not only with the brush, but by the experts. Paris pace-setters brush and brush the hair behind the ears to give a well-groomed look and to get away from the untidy gamin look of the past seasons.

Brushing helps you to find your natural waves. If you don't brush the hair every day, the neglected wave set will begin to look like a wig and lose all its luster and vitality. You have to "baby" it along if you want a silken texture rather than the dried-out look that some permanents have.

If you're thinking of giving yourself a home permanent, here's a suggestion about pre-permanent activities. Experiment with several of the new hair styles first. Use your brush to see how your hair falls most becomingly . . . and naturally. The wise thing to do when you set it for your new permanent, is to try for the waves that will hold the style you like best.

"Hand-y Hints"

Do your nails split when you pry open bobby pins, untie knots on your shoelaces, or punch typewriter keys? Maybe you need a little more calcium in your diet to make your nails stronger. Some women find that eating gelatin works miraculously. Still other nails just need a little extra pampering.

Every time you wash your hands be sure you rinse and dry thoroughly. Press back your cuticles as you dry. Always follow up with a tiny amount of hand lotion or cream.

Give yourself a manicure every week. Between manicures soak your nails in warm castor oil for ten minutes. Always buff the nails well when the polish has been removed. Buff in one direction—this avoids heating. Shape your nails with a long emery board, taking strokes from side to center, never in a back and forth sawing motion. All this keeps nails healthy looking and prevents them from getting brittle or breaking easily.

Save your nails — use letter openers for opening everything from rent bills to cereal box tops. When you have to clean out your closet or do a lot of gardening or any dirty job, wet your hands and rub with dry oatmeal followed by a good sudsing with soap. The heavy dirt will roll off fast. Of course, it's always wise to wear gloves when exposing your hands to such tasks. If you can't work with them on, dig your nails into a bar of pure soap first. Less dirt will get imbedded under them and what does will wash out easier.

air, sunny climes and nourishing food, combined with a healthy environment and a generous mixture of Western hospitality.

"Produces some of the finest girls in the nation," he said, sounding a little like a cattle breeder extolling the stock.

A lot of the Governors either didn't or, at any rate, haven't yet answered Mr. Parks. From only one was a definite snub and it came from her Majesty's representative in Canada, a very stiff-necked epistle which ran in full:

"Referring to your letter of the 17th August, the Governor General wishes me to let you know that he has no comments to offer which would be of any help to you in your assignment as master of ceremonies at the forthcoming pageant in Atlantic City."

Blessing Of Fishing Fleet Carried Over To Air Age

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The age-old custom of blessing the fishing fleet has been carried over into the air age.

At least one major airline conducts an annual ceremony calling down God's favor on its aircraft, their crews and passengers.

Irish Air Lines, the commercial air arm of 94 per cent Catholic Ireland, has been holding the ceremony at Dublin Airport each June for the past two decades.

In the belief of Roman Catholics and some Protestants, a blessing places the item blessed—be it a person, a ship, a harvest or even a typewriter—under the special protection of God.

Notable blessing ceremonies in the United States are those conducted annually for the fishing fleet at Gloucester, Mass., and the shrimp fleet in Biloxi, Miss.

The blessing of the Irish air fleet, invoking God through the Virgin Mary, consists of prayers, a short sermon and an invocation.

Not content with an annual blessing, the Irish also bestow their planes with patron saints, a particularly appropriate move since the Irish holy men were a well-traveled group.

The aircraft are watched over by such saints as:

St. Patrick, the patron of all Ireland, who probably was born in Britain, studied for the priesthood in France and paid at least one visit to Rome.

St. Columban, who helped revive the Christian faith on the European continent by establishing monasteries in France, Switzerland and Italy.

St. Cathal, who visited the Holy Land, was shipwrecked near Taranto, Italy, and spent the rest of his life preaching in southern Italy.

St. Brendan, who traveled so widely that, for a long time, he was believed by some to have discovered America before Columbus.

Three Injured In Auto Crash On Route 50

Five Persons Hurt Near Bloomington

Three persons were hospitalized here last night with injuries sustained in an auto accident on U.S. Route 50 in nearby Mineral County, W.Va.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital were Keith Painter, 52, of McLean, Va., who sustained a possible fracture of the right forearm; Allan Hoye, 41, of Akron, Ohio, who suffered a possible fractured right forearm, possible fractured pelvis and possible fractured right knee; his wife, Mrs. Betty Hoye, 19, who sustained a possible fractured left leg.

Full details were not available late last night.

Last night's accident was the second area highway accident in two days, marring the long Labor Day holiday.

Five Hurt In Crash

Five persons were injured, three of them hospitalized, on Saturday with injuries sustained in a one-car accident on Backbone Mountain about two miles west of Bloomington on Route 135.

Admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser were Mrs. Virginia Mae Wilson, 39, of RD 1, Bloomington, who was the most seriously injured; her husband, Forrest Raymond Wilson, 39; and Dailey Woodward Shockey, 39, of RD 1, Keyser, the driver of the automobile.

Hospital attaches said yesterday that Mrs. Wilson, who was admitted in serious condition, is "somewhat improved" and the two other persons are in "good" condition.

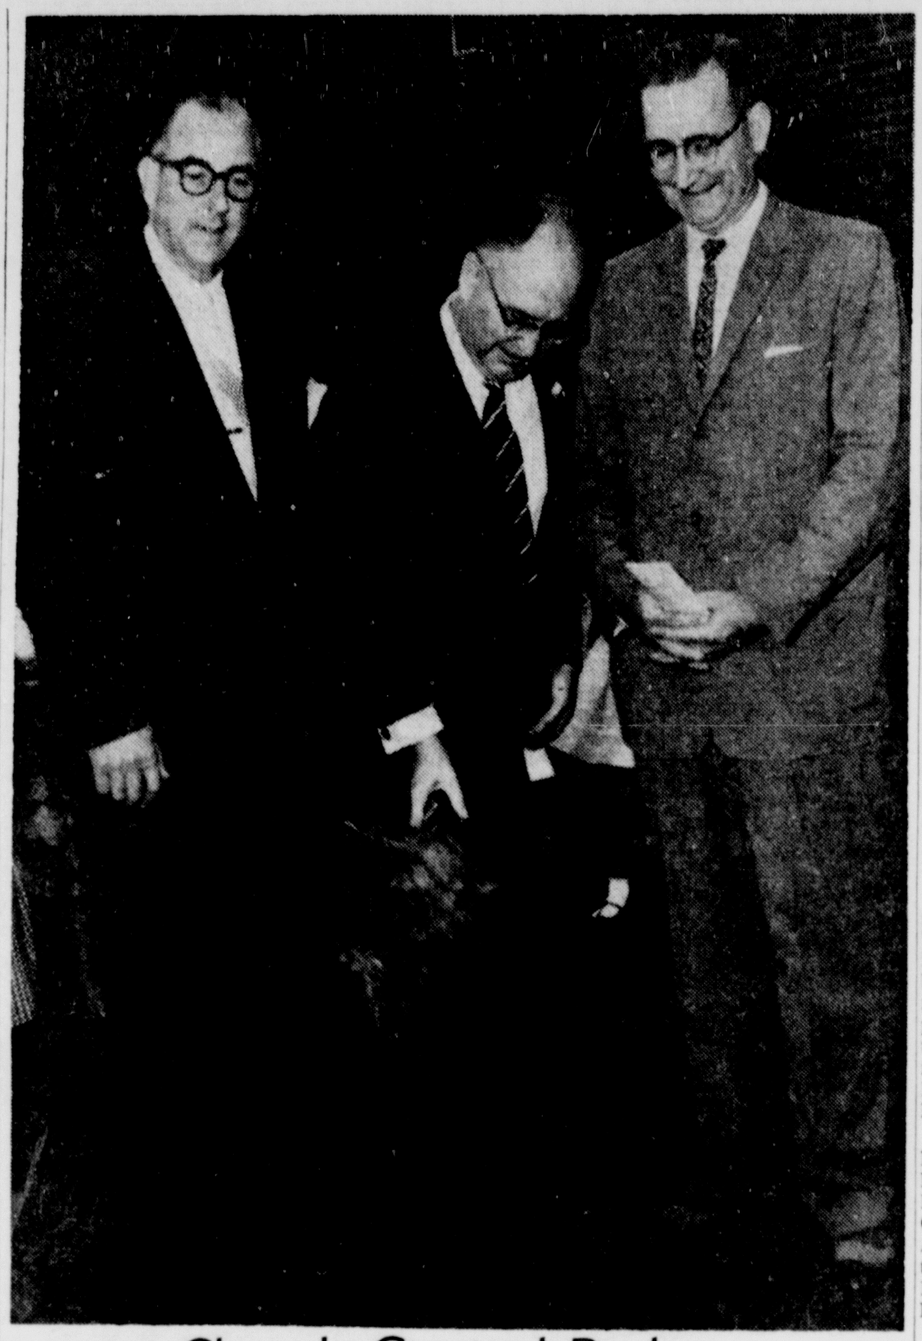
Injuries Severe

Mrs. Wilson sustained a possible fractured skull and an injury to her spine. Her husband suffered a laceration of his left arm and abrasions on the right side of his face. Mr. Shockey sustained a laceration above the right eye, abrasions of his chest, arms and face, and had his right ear almost torn off, Trooper R. C. Dishong of the State Police said.

Two children of the Wilsons were treated at the hospital and were released.

Trooper Dishong said the driver was traveling west on the highway about 4:15 p. m. Saturday and apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

The car left the north side of the highway, hit some rocks and continued on for some distance before turning over on its top.



Church Ground Broken

Ground was broken yesterday morning for the construction of a $115,000 sanctuary and classrooms at Grace Baptist Church, 213 Greene Street. The first shovel of dirt was turned over by Rev. W. Randolph Keefe Jr., center, pastor of the church who conducted the responsive reading, dedicatory prayer and benediction. Others who took part in the ceremony are J. K. Trenton, left, chairman of finance committee and treasurer of the building committee, and Fern Wilson, right, chairman of the building committee. Work on the new structure will begin soon. The R. G. Robeson Construction Company, city, is contractor for the project.

Soil Sample Report Shows County Farms Need Lime

About 71 per cent of the farm land in Allegany County is in need of more lime, according to a summary of Maryland Soil Test Results this year, Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent said yesterday.

He said a total of 140 soil samples were procured in the county and forwarded to the Agricultural Experiment Station at College Park to be analyzed.

Mr. Steger said 71 per cent of the land sampled is below a pH reading of 6.5 to 7 which is ideal for the growing of crops.

In reference to the fertilization of farm land in the county, Mr. Steger pointed out that 50 per cent is medium or low in phosphate and in need of it for good growth.

He said that 42 per cent of the land is high in phosphate and is in good shape for crops.

Mr. Steger pointed out that 58 per cent of the farm land is medium or low in potash and fertilizer must be added.

The county agent said that farmers who had their soil tested will be informed as to the amount of lime or fertilizer required for producing certain crops.

Mr. Steger said he gets quite a number of calls on the treatment of soil for producing better lawns. Anyone desiring a sample test run may do so by bringing in about a pint of dry soil to Mr. Steger's office at the Court House.

It is a good idea to get soil samples at random and from various sections of a field, said Mr. Steger.

Noted China Missionary To Speak Here

Miss Gladys Aylward, author of the story "The Small Woman" which appeared in Reader's Digest magazine and portrayed by Ingrid Bergman in the movie "Inn of the Sixth Happiness" will speak at the new First Methodist Church on Frederick Street Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Miss Aylward, who is from England, is appearing in this country on a speaking tour sponsored by the World Vision, Inc., an interdenominational missionary-service agency.

Miss Aylward spent more than 20 years in China as a missionary.

There will be no admission charge to Miss Aylward's talk at the new church at 1707 Frederick Street.

Local Baptist Unit To Host Meeting

The Women's Missionary Society of Grace Baptist Church will be host to all the Baptist churches in Cumberland and Frostburg at a study meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

The group will study the book "Christian Witnessing." Teachers for the session will be Mrs. Elwood Settle, First English Baptist Church, and Mrs. Wesley Harris, Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, both of Frostburg, and Mrs. J. C. Ledbetter, Bedford Road Baptist Church.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Charles Eversole and Mrs. Russell Dawson.

Forms Mailed For Estimated Income Tax

Irving Machiz, district director of Internal Revenue, has announced third-quarter installment notices for federal estimated income taxes have been mailed to taxpayers who are due to make payment on or before September 15.

Mr. Machiz said taxpayers should return the bills with their payments so that proper credit may be given.

He also added that even though they were not required to file a declaration of estimated tax on April 15, changes in income or exemptions may require that a declaration be filed at a later date.

In such a case, Mr. Machiz said, the time for filing is as follows: September 15 if the change occurs after June 1 and before September 2; January 15, 1960 if the change occurs after September 1. The estimated tax may be paid in full or in equal installments on the remaining payment dates.

A taxpayer must file an amended declaration if the estimated tax is substantially different than that estimated on the declaration. This declaration should be marked amended, and filed with the same district director who received the original declaration.

Amended declaration forms may be secured from the district director's office.

Rheumatic Fever Booklet Available At Heart Office

The Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association has a free booklet available to parents entitled "Home Care of the Child with Rheumatic Fever."

Copies of this 24-page illustrated booklet may be obtained at the association office or by writing to the association at 111 Union Street.

The booklet was prepared especially for parents of youngsters for whom hospital treatment is either not advised or not available.

It contains basic information and hints useful in the care of sick children in general, and offers practical pointers on home nursing techniques. The article also includes suggestions for dealing with the psychological and emotional problems that are likely to arise when a youngster is confined to bed for more than a week or two.

The booklet points out that it is necessary to explain to the sick child the importance of following the doctor's orders. The child also should be helped to accept some responsibility for planning and carrying out the limited activity routine while he remains in bed.

The rheumatic fever control program was started in Allegany-Garrett County by the local Heart Association in 1955. Today the active case load is 228 patients who receive penicillin daily in the step toward prevention of "strep" infections and subsequent attacks of rheumatic fever.

Also available to these patients are all types of hospital bedside equipment on a free-loan basis.

Fourth Degree Will Observe Defenders Day

Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will hold its annual Old Defenders Day dinner-dance on Saturday, September 19 at 6:30 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Walter Meade, faithful pilot, who is chairman of the affair, said the guest speaker will be announced later.

Music for the dance will be provided by Happy Laughner and his orchestra, Mr. Meade said.

Installation of Fourth Degree officers will be held Friday, September 18, beginning at 8:30 p. m. at the home of Cumberland Council 586, K of C.

John Bauernschaub, worthy master of the District of Maryland, will be the installing officer.

Those who will be installed include Patrick F. Hopkins, faithful navigator; John Kreidler, captain; Walter Meade, pilot; John Lindner, scribe; George Lovenstein, comptroller; James Quinn, admiral; Raymond Beckner, inner sentinel; Raymond Law, outer sentinel, and James Brailer, purser.

Joyce Growden, on leave, has been transferred from Northeast to Virginia Avenue Elementary School.

Educators Will Share In Program

Several Allegany County educators have assumed special responsibilities for the annual State Teachers Association convention which will be held in Baltimore October 15, 16 and 17.

Miss Mary Murray, former Allegany High School teacher who is now on the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College, will present the speaker at the Saturday morning general session on October 17 at Eastern High School in Baltimore. Miss Murray is a member of the association's executive committee.

She will introduce John Ciardi, professor of English at Rutgers University and poetry editor of the Saturday Review. His address will be titled "What Good Is A Poem?"

Dr. Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the Allegany County public schools, will preside at a luncheon meeting for music teachers at Eastern High School on Friday, October 16.

R. Monroe Harris, music teacher at Flintstone High School, is serving as state chorus and state band housing chairman for the convention.

Dr. Ralph E. Kessler, supervisor of special education in the Baltimore County public schools, will preside at the Friday afternoon session at Sudbrook Junior High School for teachers interested in exceptional children. Dr. Kessler formerly was supervisor of special education in Allegany County.

Tawes To Be Pythians' Guest

Governor J. Millard Tawes will be guest of honor at the 92d annual convention of the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of Maryland which will be held here at the Fort Cumberland Hotel September 17-19.

The Grand Temple Pythian Sisters will meet at the same time for their 52d annual convention, Dr. Aaron B. Beard, of Baltimore, publicity chairman, announced.

Governor Tawes is a past supreme representative of the Pythian Order.

The convention agenda will include business sessions, elections and installations, and a banquet and dance at which Governor Tawes will be guest of honor.

J. Walter McKee, city, is the grand chancellor of the Knights and Mrs. Vera Mussard of Oakland is the grand chief of the Sisters.

DAR To Meet

Past Councilor Circle 100, Daughters of America, will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Lelia Gould, 529 Weshington Street.

Cut-Rate Plan:

Bearded 'Santa' Conducts One-Man Peace Crusade

Albert S. Falk, a man with a Santa Claus beard and a philosophy to match, arrived in Cumberland over the weekend to sell his 25-cent plan for world peace.

Mr. Falk, 67-year-old Minnesotan who describes himself as America's only registered lobbyist for world peace, came here from Hagerstown.

He's on his way to Pittsburgh and then to Cleveland, where he hopes to enlist the aid of industrialist Cyrus Eaton, himself a noted advocate of international understanding.

Mr. Falk said he's been making trips to publicize the cause of the poor and the need for world peace for the past 30 years. His current junket has already lasted for a year and a half and has taken him as far as Cuba.

His plan is relatively simple. It calls for destruction of armaments and abolition of military forces. The money saved by each government would be distributed to all its citizens. Mr. Falk figures this would mean a share of $100 a month for everybody over 21.

The author of the plan sells copies for a quarter. They used to be a dollar, but he said the lower price brought him a better market. The leaflets are modestly titled "America's Greatest Plan for World Peace."

He has sent copies to nearly every world leader he could think of, and has asked for the support of the U.S. and Soviet governments, so far without much effect.

Mr. Falk, who said he used to be a high wire walker in a circus, now devotes all his time to selling his plan. He drives around in an old car covered with peace slogans.

He finds that his beard—which flows unrestrained over half his chest — attracts considerable attention, not all of it favorable.

"But it went over big in Cuba," he said.

4 Vacationers Hurt In Crash In Ontario

Four area persons, on vacation in Canada last week, were hospitalized with injuries sustained in a one-car accident about six miles from Cornwall in the Province of Ontario.

Mrs. Pearl E. Keith, 35, of 638 North Centre Street, most seriously injured; her husband, Rudolph H. Keith, 29; her mother, Mrs. Corrine Deffinbaugh and a brother, Gordon Deffinbaugh, both of Oldtown, were admitted to Cornwall General Hospital.

Mrs. Keith, who suffered a fractured pelvis and facial injuries, underwent surgery on her eyes Friday and is expected to be hospitalized until mid-October.

Her husband suffered a fractured ankle. Mrs. Deffinbaugh and her son, who were less seriously injured, returned home Saturday night by bus.

The accident occurred about 1 p.m. last Monday as the vacationers were driving toward Montreal.

Mrs. Keith, who was driving the car on the highway, wet with rain, lost control of the vehicle, which skidded into some gas pumps at a service station and turned over.

Mr. Keith is an employe of the Queen City Brewing Company. His wife is employed at Allegany Instrument Company.

Next Holiday Due Saturday

A second legal state holiday is in store this week.

Saturday is Defenders' Day, the anniversary of the Battle of North Point in which the British were thwarted in their efforts to take Baltimore in the War of 1812.

The few offices in the Court House and Union Street Building which observe Saturday hours probably will be closed all day Saturday.

San Francisco Volume Among New Library Books

A volume about San Francisco is among the new and interesting books now available at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, assistant to Miss Mary G. Walsh, the librarian, reports that Herb Caen has written a colorful and entertaining story of life, people and places in modern San Francisco. There are many interesting anecdotes about such people as Saroyan, Kathleen Norris, Harry Bridges, Joe DiMaggio and many others. Miss Cain says "Bagdad By The Bay" is a worthy successor to "Don't Call It Frisco" and "The San Francisco Book."

"The Vatican" by Jean Neuvecelle presents a lucid account of the organization of the Vatican City, its customs and way of life. The magnificent ceremonies and colorful services are vividly described by the veteran Vatican correspondent for an important French newspaper.

"The Firsts of American Jewish History" by Tina Levitan contains an amazing story of accurate information about the first connections of the Jewish people with America, from the time of the Spanish and Portuguese background of discovery, right down to the atomic age. It is believed by many that this text will be influential in the cause of tolerance and good will.

The Cumberland Ministerial Association has presented the Library with many excellent and interesting religious books. These books, together with volumes in the Library's religious section, will be a source of joy and consolation to all denominations, according to Miss Cain.

For the junior readers, the Library recommends the Row-Peterson Film-Story books by Mabel O'Donnell. This series describes the habits, customs and manners of the Chinese, English, French, Italian, Japanese, Norwegian and Spanish children. These books are well written and illustrated with authentic photographs from the various countries.

Dorothy Lamour Stops For Gas At Belle Grove

Dorothy Lamour, the movie actress who has appeared in many films about roads in her career, traveled along the historic National Road yesterday.

The actress, her husband and two sons stopped at Roby's service station at Belle Grove along U.S. Route 40 at the eastern end of Allegany County about 7:30 o'clock last night.

They were traveling east in a station wagon bearing California tags and the credit card she used bore the name of Mrs. Dorothy Lamour Howard. They stopped about 10 minutes. She told the station attendant they were planning to move to Hagerstown.

Union Official To Speak At Labor Picnic

Mt. Calvary Site Of Annual Event

Solomon "Al" Barkin, research director of the Textile Workers Union of America, will be the guest speaker today at the annual Labor Day picnic sponsored by the Western Maryland Central Labor Council.

The picnic will be held at Mt. Calvary grounds on Mason Road and will feature pony rides for the youngsters, games, athletic events and a musical program.

The Men of LaSalle, who have been given the food concession for the picnic, have secured the services of Robert Holmes who will be in charge of the kitchen.

The menu for today's event will include ham and chicken dinners, hot dogs, hamburgers, baked ham sandwiches and ice cream.

The LaSalle organization will have six ponies available for youngsters to ride. A cotton candy machine also will be at the picnic site.

Drinks, which will be supplied by the union and which will be free to all who attend, will be dispensed by the Men of LaSalle.

Spring Gap Nurse Will Get Diploma

Miss Etta Marie Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Benson of Spring Gap, is one of 16 student nurses at the Lutheran Hospital School of Nursing in Baltimore who will receive diplomas and graduate caps at 8 p. m. Friday during a lawn ceremony at the school.

Miss Mary Price, director of nurses at Johns Hopkins Hospital, will deliver the commencement address.

Miss Benson is a 1956 graduate of Fort Hill High School.

Man Arrested For Failing To Help Policeman

Wouldn't Summon Aid, Officer Says

A local man was arrested early yesterday morning and was charged with refusing to assist a policeman attempting to arrest another man.

Raymond F. Zegler, 327 Bedford Street, was charged with refusing to assist a policeman in violation of Chapter 18, Section 8 of the City Code. He posted bond of $5 pending a hearing in Police Court.

James Cranford, city, who was charged with three violations, including disturbing the peace and resisting arrest, was confined to City Jail until yesterday evening when $80 bond was posted.

The two men were arrested by Officers Joseph Harvey and James Bohn, and will be given hearings later this week.

Officer Harvey got a report of a disturbance at a local restaurant early yesterday morning, took Cranford out of the business establishment and told him to go home.

When the policeman got the man outside, Cranford created a disturbance and took a swing at the police officer. Officer Harvey asked Zegler, who was standing nearby, to go to Police Headquarters for another policeman to help put Cranford in the patrol wagon.

Officer Harvey asked the man a second time but he shook his head, the policeman said. A cab driver went to headquarters for help, Officer Harvey said.

Third Death Involving Fire Strikes Family

Gilbert Junior Fulk, 29, a former resident, was burned to death Friday night in a rooming house fire in Mansfield, Ohio. His death was the third tragedy involving fire which has struck the Fulk family.

The first tragedy to strike the Fulk family occurred when Bruce T. Fulk, father of Gilbert, died in Allegany Hospital October 14, 1946, of injuries sustained when he was thrown from the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company truck, while answering a call to a blaze in Frantztown.

While traveling on Baltimore Pike the truck skidded on a patch of wet leaves and threw Fulk to the road, fatally injuring him.

James Fulk, another son of the victim of the fire truck accident, was burned to death February 14, 1949, at the age of 21, when his home was set ablaze by an overheated kerosene heater.

Five of the children of Bruce Fulk were sent to Mooseheart, the children's home maintained by the Moose Lodge. Three of them are still at the home with two others now married.

The victim of the Friday night blaze was born in Virginia, January 4, 1930, and was employed as a home building construction worker.

He was a son of the late Bruce T. and Ada (Smith) Fulk. He is survived by six sisters, Mrs. Ray Hiser, Mansfield; Mrs. Charles Faulkner, Riverside, Calif., Mrs. John Cruz, Mt. Savage; Mrs. Junior Granke, Chambersburg, Pa.; Mrs. William Wilhelm, Cleveland, and Miss Joyce Fulk, Mooseheart; and three brothers, Wayne Fulk, Riverside, and Dennis and William Fulk, both of Mooseheart.

The maternal grandfather, Gibson Smith, is a resident of Cumberland.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home where friends will be received from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today. It will then be taken to Genoa, W.Va., where services will be conducted Tuesday at 1 p.m. with Rev. Max Fisher officiating. Interment will be in the Oak Grove Cemetery.

Deaths

Darden, Mrs. George Sr., 57, Elkins, W. Va.

Durst, Mrs. Ruth O., 66, Grantsville.
